It's good to see "young blood" giving life to the Republican party in the suburbs.

Latest challenger to "old guard" GOP leadership is Charles B. Marshall, 29, who's vigorously campaigning for the state senate seat now held by W. Russell Arrington of Evanston.

This young attorney and former Evanston alderman means business in his campaign! This weekend, for example, he rang 750 doorbells in Arlington Heights to personally plead his cause with the voters. Monday he was at the North Western depot in Arlington from 5:30 a.m. until 9 a.m. shaking hands with hundreds of commuters and passing out 1,000 pieces of literature.

This is the kind of enthusiasm which has been sadly lacking in the suburban GOP for too long. More young men like Charles Marshall should be encouraged to enter politics and assume active roles in party councils.

1960 is a municipal election year in Rolling Meadows. Residents of two wards go to the polls Saturday. It is as spirited as municipal elections always are in that city. Four of the candidates for the two vacancies have party affiliation. There is one independent.

The American Cancer Society has advised the officers of the northwest branch at Mt. Prospect that Mrs. Kolerus is carrying such a heavy load of office detail that she has little time for the community contact and public relations job she is so qualified to do.

The Chicago office has recommended that she be given clerical assistance which is needed in an office serving a community with such a large case load.

A local mortician told us this week that about one-third of todays deaths are caused by some form of cancer.

Subdivision Needs Cited

One of the village's knottiest problems—what to do with 100 acres of subdivided land over which are scattered 52 homes with septic tanks and wells—has finally been tackled by Arlington Heights trustees.

Over 40 home owners from Arlington Park Manor in the southeast portion of the village crowded into the village hall Monday night to find out what's in store for their problem plagued area with gravel roads, poor drainage, and few sidewalks.

While the home owners got few answers to their 21 questions, sent to board members earlier in preparation for the meeting, they saw trustees set up a committee to work with the plan commission and representatives from the subdivision to determine possibilities for future development of the area.

THE VILLAGE attorney was also instructed to compile a list of the tax delinquent property in the subdivision.

Some trustees were obviously ill at ease over their lack of information as to what might happen to the area. Building permits for the subdivision are not being issued and speculation over development of the area has ranged from an urban redevelopment program that would clear the area for industry or commercial interests to installation of the needed facilities for continued residential growth.

The village master plan, adopted last year by trustees, notes the possibility of an industrial park for the northeast section of the subdivision. It also notes the area is the only one in the village "substandard under the definitions of the Federal Government as applied to urban renewal programs."

The orderly group of home owners listened quietly as its spokesmen, Donald Burdick, 810 S. McKinley, told the board that its present policy of not issuing building permits combined with its indecisiveness in regard to the area would lead to deterioration of the existing houses.

"THIS SITUATION has gone on long enough, and it won't get any better by being overlooked. We feel the village has wasted time in implementing a constructive program for the area." said Burdick.

Trustees noted that the chief reason for not levying special assessments for sewer, road, and water connection was because of the clouded and scattered titles to the property, and the unwillingness of a contractor to risk non-payment.

After Mayor Edward Carlisle's assurance that the board was glad the residents of the area were interested enough in the problem to appear at the meeting, and that the newly appointed committee would meet within a month, home owners departed, satisfied that they had at least got the ball rolling.

Surprise for Taxpayers

Township Cemetery Tax Levy Proposed

CEMETERY WAS started by Dunton and Kennicott families as a private burial ground in 1841. Last year it was taken over by Wheeling township. Lots once sold for as little as a dollar for five spaces.

by WILLIAM DULANEY

Taxpayers of Wheeling township are being urged to draw a circle around April 5 on their calendars by the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters.

At 2 p.m. on that date, residents of Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, a portion of Mount Propect, Prospect Heights and other unincorporated portions of the township will be given the opportunity to vote on whether they want to add another levy to their tax bills.

Chances are that most area residents will be startled by this information, for the tax in question would be levied by the township, and there is no unit of government about which the electorate knows less.

An archaic holdover from the days when the area was predominantly rural, the township today is of little benefit to communities that provide their own services. Yet, it still has the power to levy taxes.

THE TAX coming up for consideration at the annual town meeting is a cemetery levy. The township got into the cemetery business last year when the Arlington Heights cemetery association successfully petitioned the township to accept the Arlington Heights cemetery located on the north side of E. Euclid near Rand rd.

Under state statute, the township was required to accept the cemetery if approved by a majority of the voters at the town meeting. And since all but three persons attending the meeting were members of the cemetery association, there was little doubt as to how the balloting would go.

In ridding itself of the responsibility for maintaining the cemetery, the association noted that it was prohibited from spending its principal of nearly $9,000 in assets, and that the interest was not enough to keep up the property. The township is allowed to spend the principal, which it received with the cemetery.

INTEREST of the association in maintaining the cemetery, founded in 1841 as a family burial ground, lies in the fact that ancestors of several members of the association are buried there. They also look upon it as an historic landmark.

According to League of Women Voters research, the cemetery became a community burial ground in 1902. No one, however, can recall an indigent person being buried in the graveyard in the past 15 years.

Expenses for maintaining the cemetery ran to $2,386 last year. There is, however, an income from the sale of lots at $50 each.

There is some question as to whether a tax would be levied this year. The fact remains, however, that interested parties are seeking the right for the township to levy the tax when it desires.

SHOULD THOSE attending the town meeting deny the right to add what would be a 13th levy for most residents of the township, the cemetery would be maintained with existing funds. When these give out, the electorate, if it so desired, could authorize transfer of funds from the town fund for upkeep of the cemetery.

The estimated surplus in the town fund at the end of the 1960-61 fiscal year will be $155,765. This sizeable sum has accumulated not through a town levy, but through a one per cent commission the town fund receives from other taxes collected in the township.

The township budget will also be voted upon by township residents at the Tuesday, April 5, town meeting at 1818 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights.

WHILE MANY students of government consider the township outdated, it is probably the purest form of democracy in that each qualified voter attending the meeting is entitled to vote directly on township business, with a majority vote necessary to pass proposals.

"Democracy depends upon voters being informed and taking part in their government. The League urges all township residents to attend the town meeting and vote on business that affects them," said Mrs. R. B. Yadon, president of the League of Women Voters.

Boy Scouts to Seek $500,000 for Camps

Northwest Suburban council of the Boy Scouts of America has announced that it will go to area residents this spring in a campaign to raise $500,000 for the expansion of camping facilities.

In making the announcement, Walter T. Craigle, president of the executive board, noted that the decision to ask the public for funds was based on two factors.

First, the northwest suburban area is one of the fastest growing in the nation and consequently a strain is being put on present scouting facilities.

SECOND, the council's summer camp at Wild Rose, Wis., will soon have to be abandoned because of a diminishing water level that threatens to reduce the camp lake to a mud hole.

Cost of purchasing and developing a new summer campsite has been set at $162,000 by the sub-committee of the executive board which studied the problem of facilities.

IN ADDITION to the summer camp, the sub-committee also recommended that the council provide two weekend camps close to the council area which could be used for day trips and weekend and overnight camping.

To bring the present weekend camp at the Lakota Reservation in Woodstock up to requirements will cost $113,500, which includes the $36,000 needed to complete the payment on the campsite itself.

A second weekend campsite is expected to cost $127,500. No location has been picked out yet.

AN ADDITIONAL $40,000 is needed by the council to enlarge the present service and training center at 2300 Dempster st., Des Plaines, which faces the problem of handling the booming scout enrollment.

The plan to campaign for funds results from a study of the growing scouting program in this area that the council has been making for the last two years.

Church Has New Hours; Blame 'Jam'

Traffic tieup on Euclid ave. the past two Sunday mornings has forced Arlington Heights Methodists to reschedule the second service from 10:45 to 11 Sunday mornings.

Over 1,000 persons have been attending the Methodist church each week since the new sanctuary was opened March 13, with a traffic snarl along Euclid ave. clear back to State rd. as the two services overlapped.

Effective this Sunday morning, March 27, the two morning services, including the two Sunday School sessions, will begin at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Excellence is the perfect excuse. Do at well, and it matters little what. — Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Lutheran Church Sets Centennial Program

St. Peter Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, will open its centennial celebration with its Sunday, March 27 services.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Walter W. Stuenkel, president of Concordia college, Milwaukee.

The congregation will be 100 years old on March 30. For the next nine months the church will observe its progression from a small frame structure on S. Evergreen st. with rough board benches to a million dollar plant on N. Oakton st. into which it hopes to move by the end of the year.

ON MAY 22, the congregation will present a pictorial pageant depicting the historical highlights of the church's development since seven German families signed it into existence a century ago.

Historical pictures of the church's growth will be projected on a screen while the actual scene will be dramatized by members of the congregation.

During June, July, and August confirmation class reunions will be held on Sunday afternoons.

On June 12, the classes from 1860 to 1927 will reunite to hear Rev. Rudolph Geffert address them. On July 10, Rev. H. C. Fricke will speak to the classes of 1928 to 1949. On August 14, Rev. Luther V. Stephan will address the classes from 1950 to the present.

FRICKE AND Stephan are two of the church's six former pastors. Rev. Robert C. Bartz is the present pastor.

In early December, dedicatory services will be held for the new church, school, and administrative building. Throughout the week, special services will be held for the church's various organizations and the public will be invited to an open house at the new 22-acre site.

Lions Ham Fete Slated Sunday

The third annual ham dinner of the Arlington Heights Lions club will be held Sunday, March 27, at St. John Church activities building, 314 N. Evergreen.

Tickets to the family style dinner may be purchased from any Lions Club member or at the door. Prices are $2 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12.

A Herald Editorial

Tax Levy Not Needed

The usefulness of the township form of government in urban areas such as the northwest suburbs has long been questioned by the Herald.

Any doubts we had about abolishing or reorganizing this obsolete unit were dispelled this week when we availed ourselves of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters' research on a proposed cemetery levy.

Purpose of the levy would be to maintain the Arlington Heights cemetery on E. Euclid, west of Rand rd. This cemetery was started in 1841 as a family burial ground, and became a community graveyard in 1902.

A story on the proposed levy on this front page details how the township got into the cemetery business. Whether Wheeling township taxpayers, which includes residents of Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Mount Prospect north of Central rd., Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights, and other unincorporated areas of the township, are responsible for maintaining what is essentially an "old-timers" cemetery in Arlington Heights is debatable.

What is not debatable is the fact that there are presently funds available for maintaining the cemetery for at least three years. There are also excess funds available for transfer, with the electorate's permission, from the town fund to maintain the cemetery for the next 50 years.

We vehemently protest the granting of another levy with which to saddle already overburdened taxpayers. Regardless of whether such a right to levy would be exercised this year, it could be used at the township's discretion, bringing the existing number of levies in the township to 13 for many home owners.

Such a levy would in all probability be extremely small. That, however, is not the question. The right to levy is not needed at this time.

You, as a resident of Wheeling township, have the right to vote directly on this proposal at the annual town meeting scheduled for Tuesday, April 5, at 2 p.m. A majority vote of those present is needed to defeat the proposed levy.

The time will make it difficult for many persons to attend. But should you not make arrangements to be there, or have your wife represent you, you will have no one to blame but yourself if your future tax bills carry an additional levy.

Hospital Serves Entire Community

The hospital that serves the community is becoming increasingly important in the life of every family. It is no longer a vague and shadowy institution to be encountered only in case of ruptured appendix, auto accident or other personal calamity.

The hospital and its staff are now very much in evidence when life begins and when it ends. Babies are born there because it is most convenient for the mother, the doctor and all persons concerned. More old people spend their last days there because pain-relieving drugs can be better administered, because modern equipment is available for intravenous feeding, oxygen can be had to ease respiration and every chance for recovery can be exploited.

PERHAPS more important is the fact that the life span between birth and death has been greatly lengthened by modern medical and hospital care. The fact that the hospital plays a bigger part in a longer life explains why the health bill takes a bigger chunk of your income and why you as an average citizen have a bigger responsibility for seeing that your community is well served by a modern hospital.

Modern medicine has eliminated or brought under control many of the ailments that shortened human lives. Smallpox, malaria, diphtheria, typhoid fever and similar scourges of mankind are now rare. Tuberculosis, pneumonia and scarlet fever have been brought under control.

But longer life and normal recovery from hitherto fatal ailments mean there is more work to do for the hospital and the doctor. Older people need more medical care, as do those who have been saved from untimely death. Diabetes, heart conditions and hundreds of other defects need watching and occasional repair, but they do not prevent the person from living a happy and useful life.

THESE ALSO get more attention than they used to because sick leave, prepaid hospitalization and other encouragements to good health have become standard in employer-employee relations.

The Health Information Foundation says we are entering a new era, when health care is taken for granted like groceries and rent. The reason, they say, is clear: "With the aging of the population and the extension of life for those with chronic conditions, the wise use of medical care seems likely to lead to more demand for services and higher costs. The increasing investment by the public for medical care confirms this trend. The public can't reasonably hope to get something for nothing; but it is certainly receiving good value for the medical care it pays for." (B9

9-Year-Old Chessplayer Challenger

Members of the Northwest Chess club, whose ages range up beyond 65, are getting some new competition from a 9-year-old.

Mark Keller, a handsome dark-eyed lad, turned up in his Cub Scout uniform at a recent meeting of the club and proceeded to surprise his elders with the skill of his play.

The club meets every Friday, beginning around 7:15 p.m., in the VFW building at 2067 Miner, Des Plaines. Anyone who is interested in the royal game is invited to attend.

YMCA Seeking Members For Y'se Men's Club

Former members or interested men may secure further information on the Y'se Men's club at Northwest Suburban by calling Tom Sandberg at Va 4-0803 or Charles McClellan at Cl 5-5602. (B9

City Farmer Granted Condemnation Delay

An attorney for Stanley C. Ptak, the suburbanite farmer who feeds his family of 13 off his acre plot on N. Dunton st., was granted a two-week continuance by Arlington Heights' village board in connection with the proposed condemnation of a piece of his client's property.

Donald Norman, a village attorney, noted before trustees Monday night that he had not had an opportunity to familiarize himself with the case.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson has recommended that trustees start condemnation proceedings against Ptak's property to secure a 60 foot right-of-way for Vail st. and a 33 foot one for Highland ave.

SHOULD THE village follow the manager's recommendation, it would allow Carroll-McHugh builders to put through the necessary sewer and water facilities ot develop their property north of Ptak's

It would also gain for the village the right-of-way to extend Vail st. across Ptak's property. Carroll-McHugh has offered to pay for the costs of condemnation and the acquisition price of the land. Trustees were, howev e r, somewhat taken aback this week when they discovered the builder did not intend to pay for paving and installing sidewalks across the Ptak property should it be condemned.

The board had understood that should they condemn the property, Carroll-M c H u g h would pay for all surface improvements. Upon learning this was not the case, Trustee Wendell Prunty asked if "there is any reason why we should help Mr. Carroll get his easement?"

CARROLL noted that while he thought it in the village's best interest for Vail st. to extend across the Ptak property, he would be satisfied with just an easement for the necessary utilities.

The board approved a plat of subdivision for Carroll after being assured that necessary easement for the particular portion approved would not have to cross Ptak's property. (AF

Propose New Subdivision

Housing for Minority Group Is Under Study

A medium-priced subdivision of 100 to 150 homes, designed to meet critical housing needs of Latin-Americans and other moderate-income groups in northwest suburbs, is currently under study, it was announced this week.

If approved, t h e subdivision would consist of 3-bedroom ranch, split-level, and Cape Cod style homes.

To determine the demand for such housing in this area, a special market study is now being conducted by the housing committee of the Opportunity Council, Inc.

The Council is a citizen study and action group which has been particularly concerned with problems of the area's Latin minority.

THE SURVEY is being directed by Robert Winkel, 408 Grove ave., McHenry, a vice-president of the Council and chairman of the housing committee. Persons interested in assisting Winkel and his committee may contace him at EV 5-2879. He hopes the market study will be completed in three weeks.

Results of the survey will be analyzed by the Council's board of directors, Winkel said. "If our research indicates there is a real demand for such a subdivision in this area, the board will consider undertaking sponsorship of such a project."

The Opportunity Council has been studying the housing plight of Mexican-Americans and other suburban minorities for three years. The need for moderately - priced homes available to such i n c o m e groups has become acute, explained Winkel.

A FORMER chairman of the Council's housing committee, Fred Thulin Jr., Mount Prospect, member of the architect-engineering firm Thulin, Woods, and Isensee, recently contacted Paul Freedman of the Cook County Housing Authority and other county officials to explore the possibility of such a subdivision in this area.

The housing authority in January inspected a proposed 100-acre site in Palatine township and agreed it was a good location.

County and state money is available from a revolving loan fund to purchase land for home projects sponsored by non-profit corporations such as the Opportunity Council.

"This is a private, not a public, housing development," stressed Winkel.

INITIAL STUDIES indicate there may be a demand for 100 to 150 homes for persons who can't afford to buy homes under conventional financing in the area.

Sponsorship of such a subdivision by the Council has been approved in principal by both the county housing authority and the FHA.

Priced from $15,500 to $19,-500, the homes would be financed with 40-year FHA mortgages.

If the market study's conclusions warrant action by the Opportunity Council, and the final program is approved by the county, state, a n d FHA, construction could begin in 90 days. Size of the project would depend upon results of the study.

WINKEL emphasized that the homes would be offered to all qualified buyers regardless of nationality, religion, or race.

Officers of the council, in addition to Winkel, a r e Charles Hayes, A r l i n g t o n Heights, president; Mrs. Herman T. Landon and Willis J. Jensen, both of Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Jeanne Trout, Palatine, vice-presidents; Miss Nancy Ostos, Mt. Prospect, secretary; James Mason, Palatine, treasurer; William L. Dulaney, Arlington Heights, program chairman; and Mrs. Wilma Wood, Des Plaines, health chairman.

The council, organized in 1958, is a non-sectarian, nonpartisan voluntary organization. Its headquarters are 418 S. Lincoln lane, Arlington Heights. (AF

'I Like Extreme Things!' Confesses Women's Editor

(This is the sixth in a series of articles acquainting readers with the men and women who write and report the news for the 13 suburban newspapers published by Paddock Publications.)

by RICHARD C. HOFFMANN

Marianne Scott clicked into Paddock Publications' editorial offices one day during the past Christmas season in possibly the most preposterous hairdo to precede the landing of missionaries on the Fiji Islands.

Perhaps a more correct metaphor would be comparison with the Louis XV era, for Mrs. Scott was appearing for work in an outlandish powder-blue wig.

The ensuing peals of laughter might have dissolved a lesser female to tears; not Mrs. Scott. "I like to do things a little extreme once in a while just to startle myself if no one else," she explains.

OTHER EXTREMES practiced by the Paddock Publications' women's editor:

—coming to the office garbed in a red poncho the size of a scout tent and trimmed with black wool fringe;

—appearing in a straw hat the circumference of a beach umbrella;

—caring for three toy poodles with the attention a mother robin would lavish on her young.

But despite some idiosyncrasies in dress, Marianne is held in high esteem by her colleagues and employers.

Said an editor, marvelling at her productivity: "She turns out an incredible amount of work; she's a one-woman news factory."

Responsible for the women's section, food section, youth and church pages, Mrs. Scott supervises the activities of three editorial assistants and 80 housewife correspondents. With the newspaper chain for seven years, she has seen coverage of women's activities grow from a page to a full section.

"It was a great day when the ads were taken off the front page," she recalls. Marianne had waged warfare to have advertisements removed from the front news page of her section.

HER JOB — in terms of sheer volume — is perhaps the most demanding one in the editorial section. Activities of over 200 women's clubs — each with a publicity chairman — are processed each month.

Of the text-sized reports which filter in, the women's editor sees her job as "making them more newsworthy and readable." Inexperience is also corrected. "Sometimes the most important part of the story is located at its end rather than the beginning," Marianne pointed out.

Despite her position, Mrs. Scott, however, is not, according to an intimate "a social climber."

"She's independent and efficient, but she's not one to confide in people or a person that you can get close to," the woman confided.

MRS. SCOTT explains her lack of club affiliations by noting: "I don't think you should join these organizations unless you can devote full time to their activities."

In her case, she has limited such membership to the Arlington Heights chapter of the Infant Welfare center of Chicago ("It meets on a day I can get to it.")

Marianne will often illustrate social functions she is attending with a hand-size Brownie camera. Fridays she reserves for giving tea parties or attending fashion shows, "things I can't do during the week."

BESIDES entertaining, she professes a preference for sewing, makes her own party dresses in addition to coats and collars for her canine family.

"Jelly Bean," the male pup, wears a suede coat complete with guns and holsters, in tribute to his mistress' seamstress abilities.

Jelly Bean is attending his mother's alma mater, the Northwest Obedience club, while the female of the litter kept by Marianne, "Lollipop," attends to household chores.

The mother is called "Muffin" for short, and with good reason. The toy poodle's full name is "Kar-Mae's Bon-Bon of LaVallette."

Tracing the family pedigree represented by this title is like trying to decifer the Dead Sea Scrolls. "Kar-Mae" is the name of a kennel; "Bon-Bon" is French candy; "LaVallette" is a family name.

IT IS ALSO Mrs. Scott's husband's middle name. Jack V. Scott can trace his ancestry back to the French admiral, LaVallette.

"Jack likes the dogs very much, but he won't take them any farther than the backyard. I guess he doesn't think it's very masculine," Marianne allows.

The couple live at 819 S. Evergreen st., Arlington Heights. Jack Scott, in supervisory sales, also is tolerant of his wife's sometimes peculiar dressing habits.

"I usually just tell him that's the style and he'll say, 'Oh,' " Marianne related.

In the case of the blue wig, however, which Marianne wore to a New Year's Eve party, Jack expressed a slight chagrin when he inquired: "You are going to take it off after they've seen it, aren't you?"

Wearing of the wig also caused loss of appetite at an office luncheon over the holidays, Marianne reported. "There was another party there who didn't seem to eat their meal; they started turning green when they saw me."

AN ATTRACTIVE platinum blond of Scandinavian extraction, Mrs. Scott holds a B.S. in journalism from the University of Illinois. She belongs to the Gamma Alpha Chi, women's professional journalism sorority.

Previous experience includes employment with the Pickwick Publications of Park Ridge and the Des Plaines Publishing company, where she learned every phase of newspaper work — from handling type and making up papers — with the lone exception of operating a linotype machine.

Marianne likes to poke around in her backyard garden, golfs between 110 and 115, and bowls an average game of 132. She and her husband belong to two dance groups ("If the fellows knew how to dance and lead properly, the women wouldn't have to drag them to dancing school," was her observation on the subject).

SHE DISLIKES cooking; however, she'll tell you, saying of the subject: "Jack cooks a lot outdoors, grilled foods and so forth. I open the frozen foods."

Marianne's Fridays are reserved for "whizzing through my house work, having the dogs' nails trimmed," and other activities which the exigencies of work delay.

The conversation swung around to the inevitable question: How old is she? Marianne exhibited the adroitness particular to her species: "My driver's license lists my age as 29," she replied with a smile.

THREE PET POODLE PUPS keep distracting Women's Editor Marianne Scott from concentrating on her writing. In addition to caring for her dogs, Mrs. Scott directs work for the women's pages of Paddock Publication 13 suburban newspapers.

Scouting in Northwest Area Faces Challenges

Scouting in the northwest suburbs, sharing in the tremendous growth of the area, is also facing the problems of expansion.

And the biggest problem facing the Northwest Suburban council of the Boy Scouts of America today is the need for funds.

THE COUNCIL recently announced that it will wage a campaign among northwest suburbanites to raise $500,000 to enlarge its camping facilities. In two years, the council has seen the number of boys enrolled in the scouting program in this area increase from 8,000 to the present figure of more than 10,000.

Effects of this bulging scout enrollment are already being felt by the council, especially in its camping program.

The council's summer camp, located at Wild Rose, Wis., is not only suffering from a strain on its facilities, but it is also receiving a setback from nature.

CONSERVATION experts have predicted that the camp will have to be abandoned soon because of a decrease in the water level of the lake. Already, a number of camps in the area have been deserted because of this problem.

To replace this summer camp, the council is searching the northern woods for a suitable site, one which would not only provide adequate waterfront, but also would provide space for future expansion.

Ideally, a summer scout camp should handle a maximum of 200 boys in one camp section. This means that to expand a summer camp, it is necessary to establish a second site in the same area, rather than attempting to increase the facilities at one given spot.

Estimated cost of purchasing and developing a new summer campsite is $162,000.

In addition to the summer camp, the council feels there is a need for two weekend camps close to this area, which could be used by cub scouts for day trips, as well as by older scouts for weekend and overnight camping.

THE PRESENT weekend camp, located on the Lakota Reservation in Woodstock, is inadequate, with $113,500 needed to expand its facilities. A location is being sought for a second weekend campsite, with the cost estimated at $127,500.

Another problem that the council has come up against is the need for additional personnel.

Although there are close to 4,000 adult volunteer leaders in the Northwest Suburban council, the booming scout enrollment requires more trained leaders.

This need is specially apparent in the council service and training center, which will have to be expanded at a cost of $40,000.

The burden of providing funds for these programs falls on the council, whose job is to provide a program for area scouts through such existing institutions as churches, synagogues, clubs, and other organizations.

THESE institutions sponsor the individual scout units, providing leadership and meeting places, but cannot provide money, which the council must.

However, the cost of supporting each scout in the northwest suburban area is comparatively low, $15 annually, when compared with the $3,250 it costs the state to support an inmate of the Illinois State training school at St. Charles. (B8

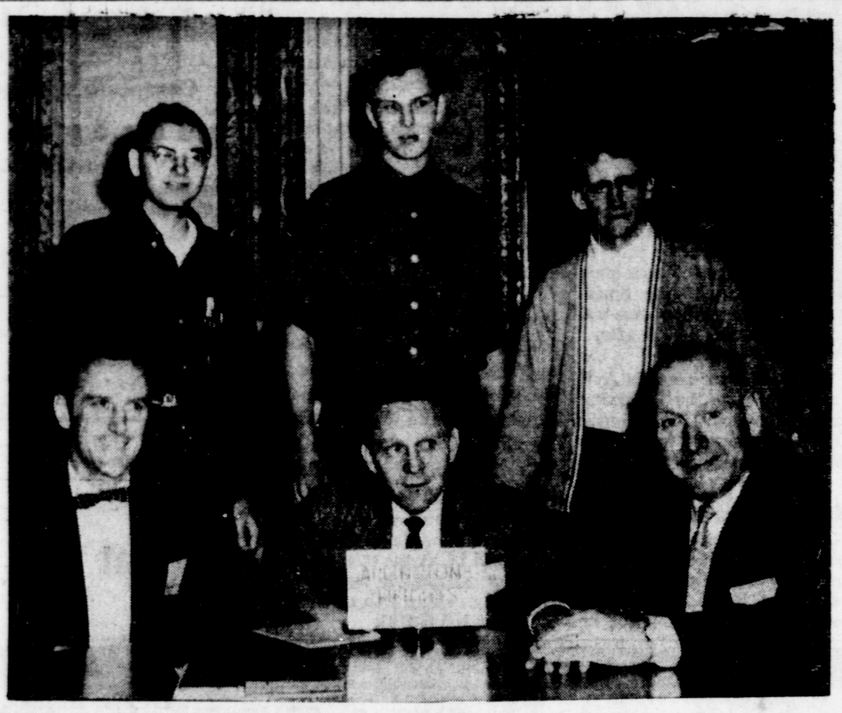
Disappearing School Districts Discussed



OFFICIALS AND ALUMNI of high school district 214 recently participated in a conference of school-university relations at the University of Illinois. Attending the conference were, left to right: Arthur Serfling, counselor at Prospect high; David Whiteside, director of guidance at Arlington high; and Nelson Lowry, dean at Arlington high. In the rear are students John Kruk, Dennis Hackbarth, and Edward Christophersen. (ACM

(FIFTH IN A SERIES)

The case of the nation's disappearing school districts is not the title of a new mystery thriller, but one of the hottest topics discussed by educators who attended the 92nd annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators.

Every year there are about 5,000 fewer school districts in the United States. From 1948 to 1958 the nation's 101,945 school districts were reduced by more than half.

According to a University of Wisconsin study that began in 1949 and will continue until 1973, the two main causes of this dramatic consolidation of school districts are an increased desire by the citizen for better schools, and the increased complexity of financing better schools.

IN EFFECT, the difficult problems of increasing enrollments, population shifts, scarcity of buildings and equipment, a shortage of well-qualified teachers, and not enough money to do what needs to be done has made school district reorganization necessary, in large and small communities alike.

School district reorganization is no longer just a rural problem. By AASA standards, more than half the nation's school districts are still too small to give students a well-rounded academic program. However, the University of Wisconsin study, under consideration here at the convention, indicates it is not worthwhile to reorganize school districts in a small community unless such a reorganization would lead to further consolidation with other communities in a short time.

THE QUESTION of how large a reorganized district should be is under consideration by the study. On the basis of data concerning elementary grades, however, the study reveals a substantial improvement in educational opportunities and academic achievement in reorganized districts with 1200 or more students. Little or no difference was noted in districts with 600 or fewer students.

The school of tomorrow will be more closely identified with community life than many schools are now, and the school district reorganization movement is but another reflection of the deep nationwide concern for making schools better.

Unusual Culprits Blamed in Mishaps

A roll-a-way bed, glass shower door, radiator, and dogs were the unusual culprits responsible for much of Northwest Community hospital emergency activity last week.

Julie Arnold, 4, of 194 Glendale rd., Buffalo Grove, received a severe injury to two fingers on her right hand when it was caught in the roll-away. She had surgery on the fingers, Monday March 14.

GERALD SUSMARSKI, 17, of 113 Auburn, Roselle, fell through a glass door out of the shower. Cuts on his left arm, shoulder, and hand were sutured, Wednesday, last week.

Another Roselle resident, Beverly Bromley, rt. 1, of that town, fell and hit her mouth on a radiator, Wednesday. She got a broken jaw and lost several teeth. Beverly is four, so she will eventually get her own teeth replacements.

Two dog bites were attended to by the hospital emergency staff. David R. Hugg, 5, of 1007 N. Chicago ave., Arlington Heights, got a puncture wound on his left cheek. Roy Stafford, 21, of 205 S. Potite, Palatine got a cut on his left index finger.

WHEN HE closed a window, it broke and Fred Ainslie, 44, of 106 E. Rockwell, Arlington Heights got a 1½ inch cut on his right thumb. The cut was sutured, and Ainslie was discharged, Saturday.

Another cutting accident, this time from roller skating was mended, Saturday. Charles Snyder, 12, of 14 S. Dale, Arlington Heights, fell and got a two inch cut on his left elbow. He, too, was discharged.

Camp Rally

Tiyalaka campers, prospective Camp Fire and Blue Bird campers and interested parents from northwest suburbs are invited to attend Mt. Prospect's annual camp rally to be held Friday, April 1, at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship hall of South Community Baptist church, 501 S. Emerson. A new camp movie starring some of last year's campers from Palatine, Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights will be shown and camp registrations will be taken at the close of the rally.

Tiyalaka camp dates are as follows: June 25-July 9; July 9-16; July 16-23; July 23 30; July 30-August 6; and August 6-20.

Mark your calendar and plan for an exciting evening greeting Tiyalaka sisters and meeting new "bound-to-be" campers.

Torch Bearer Tea

Chicago Area Council committee of awards' Torch Bearer tea will be held Saturday, April 2, at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John Boetcher, 2845 Sheridan pl., Evanston. Invitations have been sent out to all Camp Fire Girls who have attained torch bearer or fire maker rank.

Candy Sale

Alrington Heights district sale of Camp Fire candy officially opened Monday, March 21, when Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls began soliciting orders for Russell Stover's chocolates. The district's drive will continue through March 31 with orders being filled through April 15.

Mt. Prospect

Wacazizi and Nahweecha fifth grade Camp Fire groups from St. Paul's school presented the flags at the March PTA meeting.

Amidst a campfire setting the girls sang "The Camp Fire Law" followed by "Across the Stillness of the Lake." Madeline Seidel, who is taking her torch bearer rank, gave the Camp Fire Girl Credo while the girls hummed softly in the background.

As a closing the group sang "The Camp Fire Goodnight." The girls are working on their wood gatherer's rank which they plan to take at the district grand council fire in May.

SUNDAY, MARCH 20, the Nahweecha Camp Fire Girls had a party for their mothers and fathers. It was held at the Harold Busse home and the planning and preparing of food was done by the girls who decided on a pot-luck

The evening was spent getting better acquainted with the parents and playing games pertaining to Camp Fire thus enabling the parents to have a clearer picture of the Camp Fire program.

Arlington Heights

Kiyatonga Camp Fire Girls of Wilson school held a ceremonial Tuesday, March 8, at the home of Mrs. James Colmer, co-guardian of the sixth and seventh grade group. Mrs. William Cunningham was an honored guest.

This being Camp Fire Birthday month the girls decided to use the birthday theme. Each girl lit a candle representing one month of the year and said a few words pertaining to the month. Attached to each string of honor beads was a small American flag.

To highlight the special event, Alana Southard and Carol Beaber were awarded their Wood Gatherer's rank. After explaining their symbolgrams and repeating the Wood Gatherer's Desire, they each received the 10 purple beads of rank and the wood gatherer ring.

THIS PART of the council fire proved to be very exciting for all the girls as a totem pole has been started using the girls' symbolgrams. As each girl receives her wood gatherer's rank she will add her symbolgram to the group totem pole.

The candles were extinguished by each girl as Mrs. Colmer said a few words about March, the birthday month. The girls left the council fire circle singing "Green Trees Around You."

The Kiyatongas have been very active since the beginning of the year. They have had a skating party, attended the Thunder Drum Dancers' Wachi-Wa, and toured the Illinois Bell Telephone company. A talk about cosmetics was given by Mrs. Van de Merkt, who represents Avon Products. This will be followed with a tour through the Avon plant April 12.

SINCE THE GIRLS are working on their wood gatherer's rank a party for the mothers and fathers was held at the Wilson school February 26. The event was a backwards party and each person was requested to wear some article of clothing backward. Needless to say, the party was a great success and everyone had a wonderful time.

February activities of the Okiciyapi Camp Fire Girls included a valentine dinner and council fire planned and prepared by the 19 fifth grade girls from Forest View, Park and Our Lady of the Wayside schools. A valentine tree was the focal centerpiece on the dinner table and was also used as the theme for the evening council fire.

The red and white felt hearts suspended from the tree held the seven crafts honor beads later awarded to the girls during the candlelight ceremony. Three and 5-year membership honors and Donut day honors were also presented at this time and the rank of Trail Seeker was bestowed upon Patty Ayers and Karen Lofquist. An exchange of valentines took place at the close of the February 16 council fire and mementos of the dinner and ceremonial were preserved for the girls' wood gatherer's memory books.

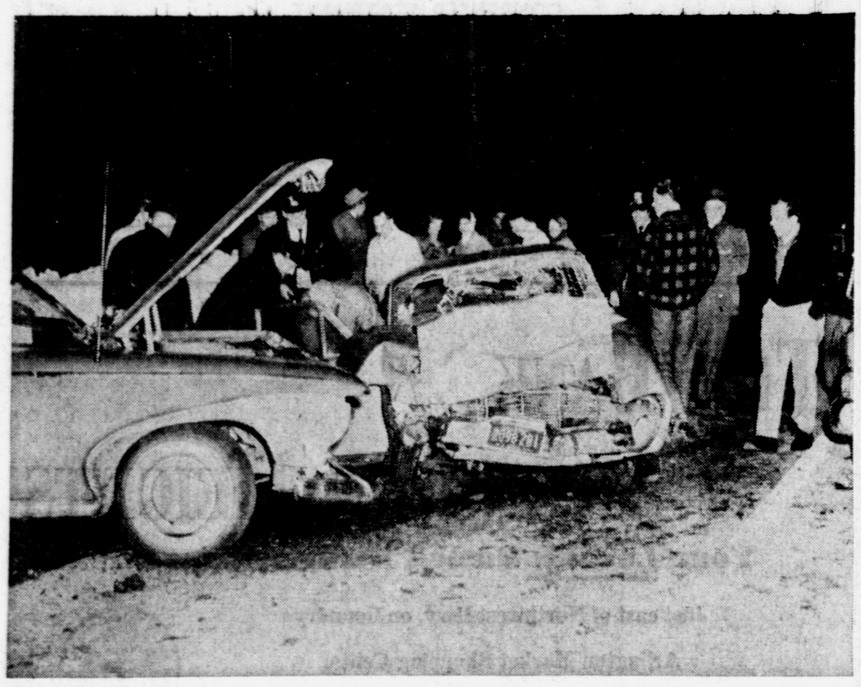
Six Persons Are Injured In Three-Car Collision

CRUMPLED FRONT END of car driven by James Bruscato, 20, of 504 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, is shown above after it collided with two parked trucks on Higgins rd. west of River rd. Two Arlington Heights girls and a second youth were injured in the accident. (B8



THREE-CAR collision on Roselle rd. between Illinois 62 and Palatine rd. injured six persons. They were treated at Northwest Community hospital following March 18 mishap. Above, Cook county sheriff's highway police extract some of the injured from battered vehicles. (B-8

Six persons were injured in a three-car collision on Roselle rd. just north of Illinois 62 last Friday.

Rushed to Northwest Community hospital for treatment were:

William Force, 52, of Frost rd., Palatine, who suffered a severe blow to his chest when he was jammed against the steering wheel of the car he was driving;

—his wife, Elizabeth, 50, who suffered extensive facial lacerations and possible fractures of the chest wall;

—their daughter, Anne, 14, who suffered a deep laceration of the forehead;

—a fourth passenger in the Force automobile, Georgia Bergman, 14, of Rt. 2, Palatine, who was treated for a knee abraion and released;

—Joseph Curtan, 18, of 852 Martin dr., Palatine, driver of another car, who was treatknee abrasion and released.

—Anne Cavazos, 20, of Airview Farm, Rt. 2, Barrington, passenger in a car driven by her husband, Rogelio, 22. Mrs. Cavazos was thrown from the car by the impact. She was treated for a broken nose before being discharged from the hospital.

COOK COUNTY sheriff's police, investigating the accident reported that all three cars were proceeding north on Roselle rd. at the time of the mishap, which apparently occurred when the Cavazos' auto slowed down to stop for the intersection and the two following cars skidded on the icy pavement into him.

In other mishaps reported during the week:

Adelaide Houseknecht, 17, of 510 E. Mayfield, Arlington Heights, was reported in improved condition at Resurrection hospital following an auto accident in which she was a passenger last Saturday.

She was taken to Resurrection along with two other passengers in a car driven by James Bruscato, 20, of 504 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, which left the road while headed west on Higgins rd. and smashed into two parked trucks.

ROSEMONT police, who charged Bruscato with travelling too fast for conditions, said the mishap occurred just west of River rd.

The two other passengers treated at Resurrection and then released were identified as Judy Higner, 18, and Bruce Dobranski, 18, both of Arlington Heights.

A Rolling Meadows family of five was taken to Northwest Community hospital Friday following a mishap at Illinois 58 and Arlington Hts. state rd.

A car driven by James Long Sr., 28, of 3204 Pheasant dr., Rolling Meadows, collided with one driven by Ernest J. Ratkay, 42, 320 N. Eastwood, Mount Prospect, when Ratkay turned left into Long's car which was headed east on Illinois 58.

District 3 state police charged Ratkay with failure to yield the right-of-way and not having a driver's license. They described Long's car as a total wreck, with $500 damage to Ratkay's automobile.

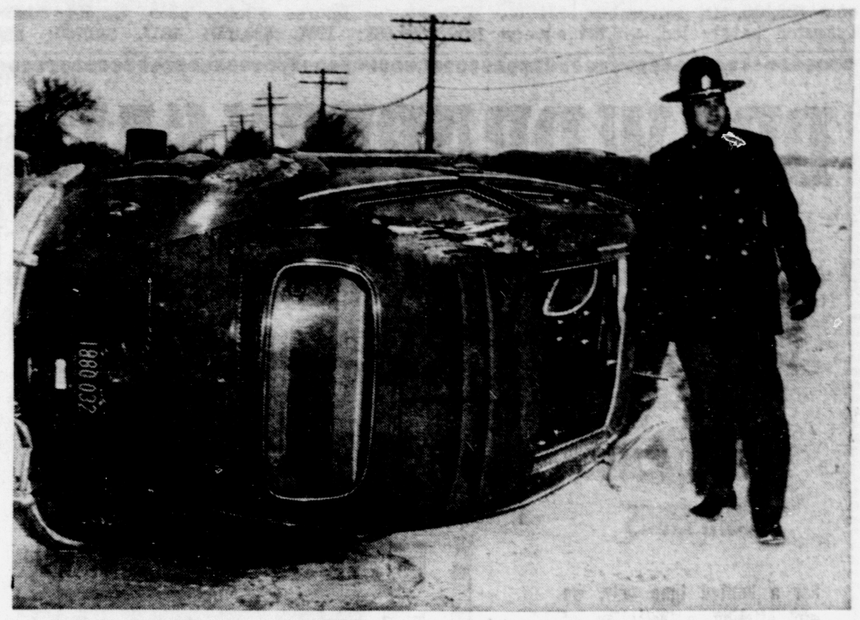
LONG WAS treated for bruises and his wife, Ann, 26, with a contusion of the forehead. Their two children, Maureen, 2, and James Jr., 5 months, escaped injury.

In a freak mishap Monday, strong winds overturned a Volkswagen on U. S. 12 three miles south of Illinois 68 driven by Andrew H. Anderson, 20, of 166 Forest ave., Fox Lake. Anderson was knocked unconscious when the heavy winds picked his car up and flipped it on its right side, but he otherwise escaped injury.

Admitted to Northwest Community hospital for treatment on Wednesday, March 16, was Arthur Mikesell, 64, of 22 S. Elm st., Mt. Prospect, who was involved in a three-car collision on Illinois 83. He was treated for contusions of the neck and forehead.

State police said all three cars were headed north on the highway through a blinding snow storm when Mikesell's auto stalled and the other two vehicles piled up in the rear. Drivers of the other two vehicles were identified by state police as James C. Raspanti, 36, of 808 Popular, Elmhurst, and Lawrence Goodwick, 34, of 2 N 778 Howard, Elmhurst. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $650. (B-8



VICTIM OF HIGH WINDS Monday was this Volkswagen belonging to Andrew H. Anderson of Fox Lake. Anderson was headed north on U.S. 12 about three miles south of Illinois 68 when strong gusts upended auto. The driver escaped injury. Standing beside car is District 3 State Trooper Charles A. Klusas of Palatine. (B8

Arlington Heights Keeps 5th Spot in Retail Sales

For the third time in seven months, Skokie surpassed Evanston in retail business during December to take the north suburban leadership, it was disclosed by figures on local ½ pct. sales tax collections just issued by the state revenue department.

Skokie merchants collected $59,613 compared to Evanston's $58,815. In November, Evanston barely led, $47,704 to $46,560, while Skokie was ahead in October, $51,671 to $50,879, and last June, $41,806 to $41,443. Prior to that Evanston was always first.

INDICATING further Skokie's growth as a shopping center, in December, 1958, it collected only $54,754; in 1957, $48,721; and in 1956, $34,705. Evanston's figures were: 1958, $59,086; 1957, $58,025; and 1956, $62,376.

In comparison, the third and fourth largest retail towns in the north suburbs, though far separated in amounts, showed smaller increases, as follows: Elgin, third, December, 1959, $38,733; 1958, $39,031; 1957, $36,238; and 1956, $37,058.

Des Plaines, fourth, December 1959 $21,504; 1958, $20,870; 1957, $19,790; and 1956, $20,061.

Arlington Heights, which has kept in fifth place all but two months of 1959, finished during December with $19,402. This is the second closest it has come to fourth-place Des Plaines, the closest being last September when it was only $1,996 behind, with $16,329 to $18,325.

WILMETTE WHICH had been competing for several months for fifth with Arlington Heights and Highland Park, found itself sixth in December, with $17,886, and threatened by a new competitor.

This new competitor is Norridge, which reached an all-time high of seventh with a record collection of $17,279 in December, from eighth in November with $12,844 and 10th in October with $11,637.

This pushed Highland Park, which had been sixth for six months in 1959, into eighth place with $16,257.

NOT FAR BEHIND was Park Ridge, ninth with $15,931 which however was lower than nine months of 1959 when it was seventh or eighth.

Biggest one - month improvement, however, was scored by Lincolnwood, which jumped to tenth place in December with $14,630 from 14th in November with $7,739 and twelfth in December, 1958, with $9,822.

This phenomenal increase forced down Morton Grove from 10th to 11th, despite an increase to $12,677 from $10,445 in November, as well as Winnetka from 11th to 12th, despite an increase to $12,105 from $10,375 in November.

RANKING NEXT were: Franklin Park, 13th with $9,302; Niles, $8,542; Glenview, $8,512; Northbrook, $8,081; Barrington, $7,468; Mt. Prospect, $7,455; Palatine, $6,167; and Bensenville, $4,920.

The Cook county collection from unincorporated areas hit a new high of $39,355 since the law cutting counties in on the sales tax revenue source became effective last Aug. 1. (B8

Scouts Salute Illinois

Movies and displays of small fry projects will be feature attractions at the March 25 meeting of Arlington Heights' Cub Scout Pack 255, scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. in Park school's multi-purpose room.

Since the theme of this month's activities is "My Home State," the junior scouters have been preparing various exhibits honoring Illinois. Two sound motion pictures on the state will also be shown.

Stewart M. Grant, 701 S. Mitchell, is cubmaster of Pack 255, veteran unit in the northwest suburbs serving Arlington Heights' south side.

Local Family Service Council Is Organized

A pool of about 25 delegates was organized by the Arlington Heights chairman of a temporary advisory council in the village to rescue the foundering Northwest Family Service Monday night in Pioneer park.

Chaired by Rev. John P. Petersen, pastor of Our Saviour Lutheran church, 1234 N. State rd., the third emergency rally was basically an organizational meeting, the gravity of which was both highlighted and relieved by a skit.

FAMILY SERVICE doesn't "have enough money to go beyond the next month," it was established, lives on a current budget of $17,000 and is seeking $25,000 to employ two additional caseworkers, an urgency required by the mounting caseload. Since there are four villages served by the service, Arlington Heights' share of the cost would be $7400 or $7500.

"I don't need another committee," asserted Rev. Petersen, who has demonstrated his leadership in the rapid development of his new church. "However, almost out of thin air, we came up with the Northwest Advisory council, to serve as a center of information and interest in Arlington Heights (for the Family Service)."

On the council are: Jack Keller, realtor, 950 E. Northwest hwy.; Warren Bless, 615

REV. JOHN P. PETERSEN

W. Vine st.; Mrs. Gordon Beckley, 737 S. Belmont, Junior Women's club, and Mrs. H. L. Berthold Jr., 746 S. Highland, Arlington Heights Woman's club.

DELEGATION of responsibility for the Arlington Heights drive, said the Rev. Petersen, would fall into these categories: The chairman would be responsible for coordination and follow-up, and be represented on the board of the Service; the secretary would keep notes and be responsible for mail.

A publicity committee and chairman would distribute informational material and maintain a file of information; the finance committee would handle the finance drive, and a speakers committee would be available for calls.

"How can we organize?" the clergyman asked. "How can we keep the Family Service alive?"

The Family Service had been organized originally, he said, because the "clergy, medical profession and schools couldn't cope with the amount of work that had to be done. Family Service had to take over the job schools, churches and the medical profession are not capable of handling.

"Fearful that we might lose the agency, we woke up to the fact that we had to organize."

THE MINISTER pointed out that there were four categories of help that the temporary council were seeking. These were:

—All those experienced in fund drives from the organizational point of view.

—Persons with public relations background to help create the proper image of what the Family Service was doing and its needs.

—Artists to present the Family Service message in an attractive manner.

—Speakers who could present the problems before organizations.

THE HEART of his presentation embodied the idea of keeping the agency alive, and he asked the assembly of about 25 persons present how many of them would offer their active participation. A majority raised their hands, and since they had all registered, the minister explained that he would call upon their services.

Earlier, a skit, "Spotlight on Family Service," had been presented, participants of which were Mrs. Robert Hawley, 45 S. Ridge, president of the Village Theatre, who had written the skit; Chris Bauske, 102 E. Orchard, and Al Wilcox, 210 S. Brighton.

The skit dramatized the kind of service offered by the Family Service and its needs.

"We have come to Suburbia," Dr. R. G. Savage of Des Plaines, service board president, had earlier stated, "for a better life. We have supported our schools, our churches. No matter how we spend our lives, we need outside help.

"Other agencies like Aid to Dependent Children receive the more extreme cases of overt action against society, and can never take the time to get to the heart of the family problems.

"Organizations like this have existed for 100 years. This one was organized four or five years ago, originally for PTA groups, since the schools, which provide counseling aid for students could not help with family problems.

"With the help of civic leaders, the office opened in 1957, and in the first year, there were 600 requests for services. At present, there is one full time person, Mrs. George Nicklaus."

MRS. NICKLAUS is not only the executive director but is doubling as caseworker also. It was revealed that of the caseload, 70 per cent had heard of the agency from other persons, and the rest had been referred by doctors, lawyers and others and had come in equal proportions from all four communities (Palatine, Mt. Prospect, Des Plaines and Arlington Heights).

The executive director rose to cite a couple of typical examples of aid by the service. One, stated Mrs. Nicklaus, concerned a young woman in her 20's, who came in because she said she needed housing.

Noticing that the applicant's breathing was heavy, Mrs. Nicklaus learned that the woman had had a bad cold and had not had any medical care. Upon calling a doctor, it was learned that the woman was suffering from double pneumonia and had a fever of 105 degrees. A couple of more hours and she would have lost her life. Luckily, through Mrs. Nicklaus, the doctor was informed and the woman rushed to the hospital. What had begun as a routine housing problem almost became a tragedy.

A SECOND case cited by Mrs. Nicklaus concerned a marital complication between a couple with five children. The husband was causing the difficulty because of his interest in another woman. Through aid by the agency, the estrangement was healed, the wayward husband restored to his family, the wife given renewed courage and the marriage saved.

Often, unwed mothers were given help, too. Other cases include "difficulties resulting from mental or physical illness; a youngster in difficulties with his family and community, and a father needing advice and planning for his motherless children."

Increased demands on the agency had made its present "one-woman" service inadequate. (A

New Name For Paint Store Here

The recent purchase of Thybony Paint by Roy Beese of 120 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights, has resulted in the changing of the establishment's name to Arlington Paint and Wallpaper.

LOCATED at 209 S. State rd., the store was formerly owned by Robert Thybony of 1126 N. Dunton.

Beese, a resident of the village all his life, has had 14 years of painting experience. He has worked for Frank Leth and H. R. Oberg, local painting contractors.

Beese does not expect to make any change in the line of paints. (A

Hasbrook Report

Typical Owner Is Rising Exec

What kind of people are moving into Hasbrook?

A survey of our buyers shows them to be a fast-moving group of ambitious young executives and their families of whom any community can justly be proud.

The typical Hasbrook home owner is either a professional man—engineer, lawyer, or accountant—or is a middle-management executive with a major corporation. His income is between $8,000 and $11,000 yearly.

He and his wife are between 28 and 36 years old. They are college graduates, have 1 to 3 children, and have owned at least one home before. Chances are they have moved to Arlington Heights from other cities.

Half of these people own two cars. Their homes are well-furnished. To buy their Hasbrook home, they plunked down 10 per cent of the purchase price on a conventional mortgage.

RILEY

Because of these people, our community has become active, exciting, interesting to live in. Our buyers are people "on the way up," and their being here will prove to be of lasting benefit to Arlington Heights.

TEN OR EVEN five years from now, buying a house will be as easy as buying a new car is today. This change will come about as a result of home building becoming a mass financing as well as a mass production industry.

Today, when you buy a home, you must go to the bank and compete for the necessary loan with dozens of other persons who want money, too. The bank or savings and loan association, being the guardian of depositors' money, cannot afford to loan money to everyone willy-nilly. It must be selective in choosing risks and in investing money where it will earn the greatest return.

This competition for money puts the builders at a disadvantage. For this reason, many of the top thinkers in the building industry are saying it will be necessary for builders to finance home purchases themselves if they want to increase their business.

Think how simple it would be if the builder would finance your home purchase out of his own funds. This would greatly simplify the purchase and would conceivably result in lower interest rates. The builder's money would be available strictly for home purchases.

Where would the builder get this money if he doesn't have it today? Possibly from the sale of stock to the public, or through the organization of real estate syndicates. This would create enormous equity funds which builders could use to sell homes faster and return good profits to investors. At the same time, it would remove building from the cyclical grip of "tight money."

SPEAKING of tight money, we are much impressed by the willingness of two Chicago unions to invest their welfare and pension funds in real estate and mortgages. One union is putting these funds into the Marina City project near Chicago's loop. The other has invested $80 million in VA and FHA mortgages.

This makes sense for the unions, since they are helping guarantee jobs for their members as well as earning a return on their money. These union funds are also helping to provide much-needed funds to help buyers finance their purchases.

We wish other unions would follow this example. Currently, six local unions of plumbers, pipefitters, carpenters, laborers, bricklayers, and electricians have welfare and pension funds exceeding $38 million, with none invested in mortgages. It seems shortsighted for these unions not to invest their own funds in mortgages which could provide greater stability for their members and their industry.

REMEMBER THE first prefabricated homes? They were pretty sad-looking affairs, but they made a point: Homes can be brought down in price by applying modern manufacturing methods.

While many people scoffed at the early pre-fabs, three important developments have been taking place.

1. Many pre-fabricating techniques are going into conventional homes. Window and door frames, roof trusses, chimneys, and wall panels are examples.

2. Advances in pre-fabrication have made it almost impossible to tell a "pre-fab" from a conventional home.

3. Pre-fabricated homes are now being made to sell from $50,000 and more, proving that such homes are acceptable to the top class of home buyer.

If anyone had predicted these developments in 1946, he would have been laughed at. Today, they have come to pass, which leads us to predict that another ten years will see at least 33 per cent of all homes made by pre-fab methods. Watch and see.

"HOW DO YOU manage to give so much space for the money?" is what nearly all of the people who see our new models have been asking. Going through the models, which range up to 1,900 square feet on one floor, and cost less than $24,000, these visitors are truly amazed.

You might be surprised, too. Why not come out and see for yourself.

Un-robinly Weather, Lenten Season, Slow Social Pace

Although only a few Arlington Heighters claim to have seen a robin this would-be spring, several have reported hearing them recently. None attempted to interpret what the early birds were saying but the odds are against a "cheeri-cheeri, spring-is-here" sort of thing. A combination of un-robinly weather and the traditional quietude of the Lenten season has considerably slowed the local social pace. Childrens' birthday celebrations always keep things going even though that anti-party trio, measles-mumps-chicken pox, has caused a rash of cancellations.

Martha Cook was 10 years old last Saturday and seven girl friends had fun helping Martha have fun on her birthday. Guests at the Cook home, 234 S. Mitchell, were Kim Quackenbush, Susan Pierre, Barbara Evenson, Peggy Marks, Jean Campbell, Karen Richard and Cathryn Clemens.

Barbara Conti was 6 years old March 10 but illness prevented a celebration until last Saturday when Barbara, her sister, Susie, and five girl friends made up for lost time. Guests at a luncheon party in the Conti home, 648 N. Dunton, were Libby Griffith, Laura Ross, Luanne Luehring, Peggy Thelander and Melissa Opela.

NANCY HANIGAN, 903 N. Dunton, was 9 years old last Friday and celebrated at a family party that night. Being 9 is extra-fine so a Saturday luncheon and theater party were also in order. Mary Pat Murphy, Mary Knight and Kathy Heckendorf lunched and matineed with Nancy and returned to the Hanigan home for post-theater cake and ice cream.

There aren't many birthdays or wedding anniversaries of N. Dunton st. residents that don't get tangled up with those of neighbors and multiple causes for celebration are common. Until this year Mrs. Richard Schmidt, 1221 N. Dunton, was an exception, having a March 14 birth date all to herself. She celebrated at a family party this year but looks forward to a double-duty party next year with a brand-new neighbor, Valerie Weidner, 1135 N. Dunton, born March 14.

Last Friday the junior Richard Schmidt, an honor student at Loyola university, was in the company of 500 theologians, social scientists and Chicago area dignitaries in a symposium which dealt with the influences of Pope Leo XIII. Mayor Daley and Cardinal Meyer were among those attending the learned discussion and hearing Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, apostolic delegate to the United States. The memorable day ended for Richard with attending a banquet at the Knickerbocker hotel Friday evening.

BIRTHDAYS COME in bunches at the Clarence Loechl home, 1213 N. Dunton, where Miss Mary, Miss Christine and the queen of the realm observed birthdays Monday, Tuesday and Friday of this week. A family celebration for all three was held last Sunday since Mr. Loechl flew to Texas Monday for a few days and was away for his daughters' birthdays. Mary was 11, Christine was 9 and Mrs. Loechl was against accepting the gift of a neighbor whose cat had five kittens on Mary's birthday. The Loechls are still catless.

Eileen McGrath, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath, 708 N. Evergreen, was christened March 13 in St. James Catholic church of Arlington Heights. A supper party in the McGrath home with 21 family members and friends later commemorated the occasion. Among guests were Eileen's grandparents the Wilferd Donleas of Arlington Heights and her godparents, Mrs. Helen Krause of Chicago and Paul Syoen of Arlington Heights.

Seven couples who are friends and neighbors of Mary Best, local actress currently starring in "Light up the Sky" at the Drury Lane theatre, made up a theatre party to attend her March 11 performance. Applauding the comedy were the Edmund Dudeks, Henry Hanigans, William Knights, Roger Alms, Arthur Scheldrups, LeRoy Montis and Fred Emigs.

EARLY conversation and late refreshments with bridge in the middle combined to "de-lull" a dull season last Saturday evening at the H. Kirke Whites, 1058 S. Dunton. Five neighborhood couples and one from Prospect Heights appreciated the White hospitality and one another's company across the bridge table.

Judith Ann Chelodi has been busy the past week breaking the monotony of a long winter for herself and her grandparents, the S. O. Mahars of LaPorte, Ind. The 4-year-old cheerer-upper is a visitor at the Mahar home and will probably be back home tomorrow to perk things up at 529 S. Highland.

The Russell Hansens, 15 W. Orchard, hosted last Saturday evening at a dinner party for eight. If spring had sprung on schedule the party could have been dubbed "Prelude to Spring" or something equally cheery; as it was, eight local friends enjoyed a midwinter get-together.

Don Bedingfield, a junior at the University of Iowa, was home at 612 N. Dunton over the weekend, returning to Iowa City Sunday. His sister, Jane, in her junior year at Cornell college in Mt. Vernon, Iowa, will arrive tomorrow to spend her spring vacation at home. Jane will bring a guest, her roommate, Miss Jan Smith of Davenport, and both hope for just a hint of spring during their spring vacation.

THE JIM THOMSONS, 1017 N. Vail, returned Thursday evening after a 2-week vacation in Florida and a visit in Hillsboro, N. C. with Mrs. Thomson's family. Weather in Miami Springs was the kind midwesterners vaguely remember and fondly dream of, but the Hillsboro region was almost like home as far as snow was concerned.

There was at least one person in Arlington Heights last week who thought that the newest deposit of snow was pretty. While the rest of the population was cussing and discussing the stuff, a Californian, Mrs. E. J. Clovis of Riverside was ooh-ing and aah-ing at it. Mr. and Mrs. Clovis spent five days here at the home of Mrs. Clovis' brother, Earl Snodgrass, 15 E. Fairview, and last week's miserable blizzard was the first beautiful snowfall she had seen in 10 years. Everyone enjoyed the family reunion, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Riley, 738 S. Mitchell, came home Friday after a 2600-mile, 2-week business trip that took them to New York, New Jersey, Washington, D.C. and Norfolk, Va. They weren't able to get homesick for the sight of snow anywhere in their travels and although they escaped hazardous driving most of the time they were often racing an impending storm to their next stop.

OVERNIGHT GUESTS Friday at the James Stoll home, 525 S. Ridge, were former Arlington Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sands of Manitowac, Wis.

Linda Hawkins was 12 years old last Saturday and celebrated with a supper party for 10 girl friends. Dancing, games and giggles kept the Hawkins' house, 721 S. Chestnut, in a happy hubbub following supper. Among Linda's guests was Betsy Chambers of Northbrook, a friend from 'way back in the girls' buggy and stroller days.

Mrs. Charles White of St. Louis arrived Friday for a visit with her daughter and family, the James K. Dawsons, 119 S. Brighton.

Miss Babs Rasmussen arrives home Friday from DePauw university to spend the spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bruce Rasmussen, 202 S. Windsor. She will spend the latter part of her vacation in Ottawa, visiting her roommate, Miss Sherrie Hornbeck, and an exchange student from Sweden. Babs was formally initiated in the Delta Gamma sorority.

Pam Vannier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Vannier, 340 Derbyshire celebrated her 12th birthday last weekend with a pajama party for eight guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kramer, 1717 Kensington, will give a family dinner party Thursday, March 24, for their daughter, Susan, who will celebrate her 10th birthday.

AMONG OTHERS who are celebrating March birthdays are Katherine Scholberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Scholberg, 306 S. Gibbons. Katherine was 6 Sunday and had a birthday party with guests. Cathy Connery, John Brice, Gail Shuart, Jackie Sullivan, Diane Cooper and brother Tommy shared the fun.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O'Grady, 304 E. Grove, will give a large family dinner party Sunday, March 27, to celebrate their daughter Peggy's third birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edger Williams arrived in Arlington Heights last week from Omaha for a visit with their daughter and family, the Bruce L. Moores, 345 S. Windsor dr., and to welcome their newest grandson, Douglas Laird, born March 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Sayre, 606 E. Park, their son, Bill, and Gary Erwin went to Lake Lawn, Delavan, Wis., for a weekend of winter sports.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert A. Yeazel, 511 S. Beverly, returned Sunday from a 2-week vacation in Naples, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davis, 555 Banbury, piloting their own plane, flew to Mexico, and for three weeks, toured all of Mexico. Starting from Baja, Cal., they went to Hermosilla, Mexico, to Brackettville, Texas and then to Monterey. From Monterey, they flew to Guadalajara to Mexico City to Acapulco and back to Mexico City, and then to Tampico, Houston and home. "A really wonderful trip," quoted Mrs. Davis, and one they would love to make again.

MRS. TED Flemming, 436 S. Lincoln, spent the weekend in South Bend, visiting former Scarsdale neighbors, the Gordon Mudlocks.

Roger Rosene arrived home Saturday from the University of Denver, to spend the 10-day spring vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rosene, 404 E. Fairview. During this quarter at the university, Roger was formally initiated in the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Mrs. Peter V. Toffoli Jr., 358 S. Dryden, welcomed 18 guests for dessert Tuesday evening, all members of the better homes and garden group of the Arlington Heights Junior Women's club. Mrs. Claire Gunderson of the Country Store Paint Co. spoke on "Interior Decorating."

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Anderson, 635 S. Beverly, and their children, Judy, Andy and Harry, drove to Warsaw, Ind., Monday for a surprise birthday visit with his mother, Mrs. Hazel Anderson.

GUESTS OF Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hamilton, 111 S. Dryden, were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Milburn of South Bend, who stopped here for the weekend before going on to Ft. Lauderdale and Miami, Fla.

Mrs. L. L. Van Oosten, 600 S. Pine, returned Sunday from Minneapolis and a visit with her daughter, Mrs. M. J. Grisham, who on March 5, gave birth to her second daughter. Mrs. Grisham is the former Sally Van Oosten.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Betts, 516 Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Down, 230 Bristol, flew to Rochester, N. Y., March 8 to attend the Eastman Kodak Sales convention. Here they met representatives from all over the world.

Wives of the representatives were entertained throughout their stay, visiting the George Eastman home and Kodak park. They were guests at a banquet at which Ed Sullivan, the Nelson family, Ozzie and Harriet and Ray Block and his orchestra performed.

Before returning home, Mr. and Mrs. Down spent three days in Buffalo, visiting family and friends. (A

Early American architecture will be used in the exterior and the interior will be finished in Wedgewood blue with accents of black and white. The traditional lines will be blended with modern fixtures and equipment designed to make shopping simple and convenient, Pierce said.

Ralph Huszagh, Kenilworth architect, is designing the store which will be the first unit of the $600,000 Market Basket shopping center being constructed by George W. Prassas & Co., Chicago.

IN ALL, THE store will contain more than 21,000 sq. ft. in its shopping and basement areas. The center will provide space for more than 200 cars.

Among the innovations of the large self-service meat market will be a machine that automatically weighs items, wraps them in clear plastic and stamps on the package the weight, price per pound and the cost of the item. This will be done in the large refrigerated cutting room which also will have special fish and poultry processing and storage space.

A rotisserie for preparation of chickens and ribs is among other innovations planned for the store. There also will be sections devoted to specialty foods from other countries as well as departments for health and cosmetic items and housewares staples. (A

Stonegate Cubs First Awardees

Cub Scout Pack 132, sponsored by the Stonegate association, became the first Cub Pack in the Northwest Suburban Council, and probably in the state, to qualify for the Golden Jubilee Achievement award.

The award was presented to Herbert S. Olson Jr., Cubmaster, by W. L. Griffin, Blackhawk district Scout executive, in a special ceremony at Windsor school on March 18.

In order to qualify for the award over 50 per cent of the boys in a Scout unit must advance one rank, get another boy to join, perform a conservation project, and promise to participate in the Get-Out-the-Vote campaign in October. Pack 132 is unique in that 100 per cent of the boys met the requirements and the pack was still the first in the council to qualify.

Griffin stated that the only explanation was the obviously higher quality of Pack 132's program and paid special tribute to Olson and Robert J. Hanson, pack committee chairman.

IN THE regular pack meeting that followed Clay Alder, Mathew DeFano, John Soderholm, and Larry Wisman were inducted into the Pack and received their Bobcat pins. John Shelley was also received as a transfer from the state of Virginia.

Pack 132 is an active part of the Northwest Suburban Council, which is a participating member of the Des Plaines, Schiller Park and Suburban Community Chest; the Combined Chest and Council of Niles Township, the United Fund of Park Ridge, Inc. and the Barrington United Drive. (A Family of the week . . . and it's a big one . . . is that of Kay and Don Jacobsen, 1210 N. Race. The children, Bill, Joan, Jack, Jim, Joseph, Carol and Nancy, are our whole life, says Kay, for the present and some time to come. Both Don and Kay were born and raised on the south side of Chicago, in fact, grew up living across the street from one another. Now, when time and circumstances permit, they all make the trip out south to visit their many relatives and friends who still live there.

Although outside activities are at a premium, the family are active parishioners of St. James Catholic church and Kay belongs to the women's club there. Don, a tool engineer with a Chicago company, is a sports enthusiast and loves working in the yard and garden in the warmer months. Obviously, Kay's spare time is at a premium, but baking is her real joy, with sewing for the children running a close second. Bill and Joan are in school all day and Jack goes to kindergarten, but four children under five all day lead Kay a busy pace. A close family, all are presently proud of Bill's latest accomplishment, that of winning the derby car race for his Cub Scout den.

ADELE AND FRANK Yore, 1260 N. Illinois, are recuperating from a long week-end of birthday celebrations for their children, Patricia and Danny. Saturday they entertained friends of their daughter at a luncheon-theatre party, and on hand to wish her a happy 11th birthday were her sister, Sheila, Pamela Koenig, Ruth Broderick, Mary Ann Wiley and two schoolmates.

Sunday the Yores entertained the children's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Doherty, Chicago, and numerous aunts, uncles and cousins at a buffet supper party.

Monday, a luncheon party was given for Danny, who was 3 that day, and whose guests included his brother, Michael, Melanie Clarkson, and Freddie Miller. Following lunch, which included cake and ice cream, the children played games and each received a favor to take home.

Patricia, daughter of Jane and James Coleman, 1411 Clarendon, celebrated her fourth birthday March 17. Appreciative of the St. Partick's day theme were her sisters, Colleen and Maureen, Lisa Yates, Nancy and Barbara Geer, Suzanne and Chris Burkhardt and Diane and Christine Henneman. The children enjoyed ice cream, birthday cake and games, with each being given a favor.

An afternoon party was given Saturday for Scott, son of Cathy and Bill Gunnison, 1407 Clarendon, who was celebrating his seventh birthday. He received assistance in blowing out the candles on his cake from his brothers, Bobby and Mark, as well as Ronnie Stanley, Tim Trummer, Ricky Hayes, Kenny Massa, Michael Maybee and Ian Kneer.

Friday evening the Gunnisons, along with former neighbors, Jane and Joe Lennon, enjoyed a performance of Louis Armstrong and his troupe at Palatine high school.

MAXINE AND SHELDON Mells, 1608 Oakton, and their children, George and Robin, enjoyed the company of former neighbors, Joan and Harry Stevens, and their son, Johnny, at dinner Saturday evening. After the children's bedtime, the couples were joined by Edith and Ted Larson, Connie and Chuck Dolejs and Elaine and Bill Petrucci, all of whom proceeded to spend the evening at the bowling alley, followed by a late supper party. Needless to say, the Stevens', who recently moved to Rockford, enjoyed seeing their old friends again.

Carol Glatz, 1107 N. Chicago, and her co-hostess, Mary Ann Geer, 1515 Clarendon, staged a surprise baby shower last Thursday night for Esther Turner, 1525 Clarendon, who walked right into it all expecting to view a toy demonstration. When the initial excitement abated, Esther enjoyed the gifts presented to her by her hostesses, Sandy Yates, Marge Frisbie, Eileen Brown, Pearl Trummer, Carolyn Parkin, Dorothy Henneman, Marva Kuhl, Jane Coleman and Mary Louise Burkhardt.

An after-school party was held March 16, for Michael, son of Mary and George Maybee, 1251 N. Wilke, with his guests admiring the railroad theme carried throughout. Present were his sisters, Debra and Kathleen, Bruce and Keith Knoll, Kenny Massa, Billy Cardinell and Bobby Parks.

A week ago Sunday the Maybees entertained Michael's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnson, Waukegan, and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Kreuscher, Kenosha, at a dinner party. Later his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Maybee and their children, Wheeling, joined the group for cake and ice cream.

A FAMILY DINNER party, complete with birthday cake and one candle, was held Monday evening for David, son of Lorraine and Robert Twilling, 1227 N. Illinois. Singing happy birthday to their brother were Robbie, Paula and Andrea.

A belated birthday party was held last Sunday for Elaine, daughter of Eleanore and John Blomquist, 1248 N. Illinois. Bad weather had kept her paternal grandfather, John Blomquist, aunt, Mrs. John Spaulding, and cousins, John and Patricia, and aunt, Miss Thyra Blomquist, all of Chicago, from coming out to wish her a happy "sweet 16th" birthday. All, including Elaine's brothers, John and Bobby, wished her many happy returns of the day, however, at the dinner party.

Moving day arrives tomorrow for Mary Lou and James Kelly, 1614 Oakton, and their children, Laura and Kathy, who have patiently been awaiting completion of the home they have built at 2920 Lahon, Park Ridge.

St. Patrick's day was gaily celebrated by Eileen and Raymond Brown, 1504 Oakton, Rita and Joe Talaber, 1207 Wilke, and Dorothy and Bill Henneman 1200 N. Chicago, when all attended the annual party given that night by the men's society of St. James Catholic church.

Cindy, daughter of Marguerite and James Cates, 1334 N. Yale, celebrated her 10th birthday last Saturday by entertaining several schoolmates at a luncheon followed by a viewing of the matinee at the Arlington theatre. Her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Splon, Oak Park, were on hand that evening at a family dinner party, also attended by her sister, Nancy, and brother, Jimmy.

A BIRTHDAY cake with two candles made its appearance Sunday at the home of Shirley and Ralph Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, for the benefit of their son, Scott, who received plenty of assistance in blowing the candles out from his brothers, David and Steven.

The second birthday of Michael, son of Ann and Lawrence Brown, 1408 N. Yale, was celebrated a week ago Tuesday, when playmates "K.C." Moser, and Cindy and Julie Lollar, Arlington Heights, joined him in having cake and ice cream, followed by general playtime, while their respective mothers, Diane and Sally, joined Ann for dessert and coffee. A dinner party was held Sunday, at which his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and Roland Ferguson, and uncle, Warren Brown, all of Highland Park, were on hand to wish the lad many happy returns of the day.

Martha and Chuck Dillman, 1256 N. Chicago, and their sons, Craig and Shane, have just returned from a 10-day visit in Creamery, Pa., with Chuck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillman. They also spent some time in Philadelphia visiting Martha's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kratz.

Larry, son of Josephine and Larry Lampasona, 1322 N. Yale, celebrated his seventh birthday at a family party last Saturday. Present for the buffet supper were his grandmothers, Mrs. Anna Galotti, Palatine, and Mrs. Rosalie Lampasona, Cicero, and aunts, uncles and cousins.

Sunday Jo entered a Chicago hospital for surgery performed Monday morning, and her mother reports that she is doing fine and will be home in a few days. Mrs. Galotti has been staying with her son-in-law and grandson during Jo's confinement.

A farewell luncheon was held Monday for Tess Rossell, 1425 N. Wilke, at the home of her former neighbor, Nancy Griffith, Northbrook, with Doris Silver, Alma Harmon, Dorothy Murray, Pat Gorman and Tess' mother, Mrs. Eric Stanley, Greenfield, Ind., in attendance. Invited too, was Shirlee Scott, but she was unable to be in on the festivities. Although Tess will be missed by her friends, they all wished much luck in her home in Neptune, N.J. Of much interest is the fact that the Rossells will be within traveling distance of their former next door neighbors, Mona and Frank McKiernan.

THE 11TH BIRTHDAY of Jane, daughter of Jo and Bob Hult, 1108 N. Chicago, was celebrated last Sunday at a family party. Attending the dinner were her brother, Jack, paternal grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Hult, Park Ridge, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Booth, Northbrook, and aunt, Mrs. Ernest Booth, Chicago.

Monday evening Jane entertained two of her friends at a supper party, same being the girls' favorite, pizza, birthday cake and ice cream. Wishing her many happy returns of the day were Patty Van de Merkt and Linda Lechelt.

A cowboy and indian theme over-rode St. Patrick's day as far as David, son of Betty and Earl McAllister, 1111 N. Wilke, was concerned, and his guests the afternoon of March 17 didn't seem to mind either. Wishing him a happy fifth birthday and enjoying an afternoon comprised of ice cream, cake, games and favors were his sisters, Gail and Lauretta, Michael and Marie Sottung, Janna Maria and Heidi Schliermacher, Roxanne Petrucci, Barbara Sadowski, Mary Lee and Linnea Berry, Arlington Heights, and Tommy Semple, Rolling Meadows.

David was guest of honor at a supper party that evening, too, at which his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Clara McAllister, and aunt, Miss Mae McAllister, both of Rolling Meadows, were present.

Bob, son of Polly and Charles Millhouser, 1702 W. Oakton, celebrated his 11th birthday last Saturday at a family dinner party attended by his sisters, Mary and Jean. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of his birthday cake, baked and decorated by his sister, Mary.

An annual company dinner-dance given on St. Patrick's day was attended by Doris and Arnold Silver, 1247 N. Chicago, at Lake Shore Athletic club, Chicago. While the women were gifted with corsages, the men were bound to wear the bright green sox sent prior to the big night.

A 3-WEEK vacation trip was enjoyed by Pat and Bill Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, and their children, Billy and Cynthia. The fun began when they stopped on an overnight visit with friends in Pittsburgh, and Pat became acquainted once again with her god-child. On to Washington, D.C., where they visited Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ross, and Bill's brother and family. Highlight of their sightseeing there was a visit and tour through the White House. Next stop was Bay Ridge, N.Y., where they stayed with Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McNeill, and from whence Bill participated in a convention connected with his job as a national manufacturer's representative. The Rosses visited old friends, attended parties, enjoyed a trip to the Empire State building and a view of the city from the Rainbow room atop the 65th floor of the Rockefeller center building. Pat and Bill were able to dine out several evenings, which meant seeing Hildegarde at the Plaza hotel and Peggy Lee at the Basin Street East club. The trip was rounded out by attending performances of the hit plays, "Gypsy" and "Destry Ridges Again."

Mary and Ray Funk, 1401 Clarendon, and their children, Jackie and Teri, have just enjoyed a week's visit from Mary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nickel, Carlisle, Pa. A wonderful time was had visiting friends in Des Plaines, sightseeing, visiting Chicago proper, it being their first time here, dining out, enjoying shopping trips in the loop and Old Orchard plaza, a jaunt to Lincoln Park zoo and squeezing in bridge playing whenever there was time.

Acapulco and Mexico City were the primary destinations of Pat and Elm Lechelt, 1247 N. Race, who have just returned from a 3-week vacation trip. The flights to and from were smooth and most enjoyable, says Pat, with highlights of the trip almost too numerous to mention. However, she does relate that they enjoyed water skiing, swimming, sightseeing, the bull fights and trips to night clubs and markets, all of which took place during their stay at the Caleta hotel in Acapulco. On to Mexico City, where they stayed at the Continental Hilton hotel, highlights there were the trip to see the ancient pyramids and a day spent viewing the University of Mexico, which Pat says is fabulous, exclaiming particularly over the ceramic tile walls, beautiful designs therein and the tremendous campus swimming pool. "It is hard to believe, she says, that the poverty and slums prevalent there are, in some places, right next door to all of this beauty, but high walls separate it all, and you are unable to see one from another." Dads Guarantee Support Of Pancake Day April 23

DEAR DAD,

You, like all the other Little League Dads in Arlington Heights, received a letter in which ten tickets for the big Aunt Jemima Pancake Jamboree were enclosed. The letter asked for your cooperation (I read it, too) in getting me, your son, to sell at least ten tickets to the Jamboree which will be held in the Arlington high school cafeteria on Saturday, April 23, from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. You provided Little League with the basic cooperation by saying, "Here, Son, get out and sell these fast before all those other neighbor kids beat you to it."

I DID just that, Dad, so I have fulfilled your obligation, but since I found out that there will be a ticket selling contest with 25 prizes given, I'm going back out to sell more. The first prize is a beautiful new bike. I need one, if Mom hasn't already told you so. There are other prizes, too, baseball gloves, footballs, and a lot of other good stuff. I need a baseball glove this year, too. Well, anyway, I'm going out and give it the old college try, as you say, but I could use a little old-fashioned cooperation from you, the man-to-man type.

So I can win that bike, it would be nice to know that I could pick up a bonus deal right here at home. This Pancake Day is a pretty hot operation. Everyone who went last year had a wonderful time. Aunt Jemima, who works for Quaker Oats Company and a bunch of pros at this type of thing, supervise the preparation and serving of a wonderful meal that lasts all day long.

The word is out that you can have all the Aunt Jemima pancakes you can eat, plus sausage. There will be all the butter and syrup we need and coffee for you and Mom, milk for the rest of us. All this for only a small buck per person.

YOU HAVE been kicking a lot lately on how much it costs to take this whole tribe of five out to eat. Now is your chance to take us all out for five bucks. The inside dope is that the Quaker Oats company donates free all the Aunt Jemima Pancake Mix which will be needed. They're saying it could go over a thousand pounds this year. And it's the real brand name stuff, too, just like we buy in the small box.

You know, Dad, Mother tells me how busy you are and are unable to help out in the Little League program. I know you travel during the week, then there's painting and golf with special clients. Course I know you feel you cannot help out especially since you hit our manager on the head when trying to knock a few flies to the outfield. And, I know you are emotionally unsuited to officiating because, as Mom says, you are a "red-neck!" But you can give your cooperation in this ticket selling contest.

I won't say anything more about some of the excuses you give when you can't seem to find time to help out in Little League. Man-to-man, you can, in return, take the whole family to the Pancake Jamboree. Helpfully and hopefully, you can buy your tickets from me. Since it goes all day long there must be some time of day that we can get the whole family together for an all-you-can-eat meal. Perhaps, especially if I'm close to that bike prize, you can take us twice, once at breakfast and then at supper-time. Mom will think Mother's Day is early this year.

Affectionately,
Little Red-neck

P.S. Dad, perhaps you ought to take the initiative and mark the calendar for April 23. (A

Sewer Experiment To Cost $65,000

To get a Rand road sewer project under way again, the Metropolitan Sanitary District engineering department is recommending an experiment expected to cost $65,000.

Steel liner plates and steel ribs would be used to prevent tunnel cave-ins that have halted work on the project. It calls for installation of an intercepting sewer in a 4½ to 5 foot tunnel under Rand road from Isabella street in Mount Prospect to Euclid road in unincorporated Wheeling township, a distance of one mile.

IF THE PROPOSED experiment proves successful, Burton A. Scheidt, district chief engineer, is recommending its use for the remaining 1,600 feet of tunnel to be completed. The cost for the liner plates process is estimated at $65,000.

An alternative, a highly-expensive one, would be to abandon the tunnelling method and switch to the open cut method. Use of steel sheeting to prevent landslides in the open-cut method would boost the cost by about $500,000, he said.

Cave-ins encountered so far have been blamed on poor soil conditions and the contractor, Kenny Construction Co., Skokie, claims it's losing money. (ACM

The first delegate council meeting of Northwest Cook county of Girl Scouts was held March 10 in Rand Park fieldhouse in Des Plaines, with 52 women from Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Elk Grove Village and Wheeling attending.

Prospect Heights

Our Chalet, the Girl Scout international home near Adelboden, Switzerland in the heart of the Alps, was visited recently by Mrs. Gilbert Zurich, assistant scout leader of troop 675. Mrs. Zurich presented to Our Chalet a miniature Girl Scout flag which was made by the girls of her troop.

Mrs. Ethel Boyden, manager of the Chalet, accepted the flag which has Prospect Heights, Ill. embroidered on it and placed it in the library for visiting Girl Scouts from all over the world to view.

EIGHTH GRADE girls of troop 243, together with their leader, Mrs. James Nail, and assistant leader, Mrs. Kingsley Owen, planned a hobo hike in conjunction with requirements of badges necessary for the curved bar rank. Last Saturday eight scouts headed for Camp Pine and upon their arrival built a fire in the snow and cooked dinners in individual tins.

Half of the troop watched the fire while the other half laid the nature trail. Later the fire builders followed the trail. On the 2-mile hike the girls identified animal tracks and trees and took home samples of soil for a terrarium.

South Arlington

March 31 is to be a very special night for all scouts of South Arlington Heights. At 6:30 p.m. there will be a father-daughter banquet in Arlington Heights high school cafeteria. Tickets are $1.60. Each troop is busily making its own centerpiece.

Earlier this week, Mary Hess, Martha Terbell and Karen Alkire presented a musical program for their troop 256. A vocal solo and piano duet was the main feature of the program, plus a skit on manners while attending a concert. A background program of recorded music was also given. The presentation was planned as part of the requirements for the music appreciation badge.

TROOP 551, which was disbanded earlier this year, is now re-organized under the leadership of Mrs. James Ward. Three new Brownies were invested last week: Sharon Seegers, Ellen Bak and Kathy Herdrich. Co-leader of the troop is Barbara Ward.

Last Monday, troop 189 entertained troops 521 and 564 at a folk dancing party. Members taught the Brownies of the visiting troops folk dances, a requirement for the folk dancing badge on which 189 is working.

High School Students To Produce Musical

Scottish costumes, settings, and bagpipe music are now being prepared for Arlington High school's spring musical "Brigadoon," to be staged April 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium.

A Chicago bagpipe group, wearing the Stewart plaid and featuring a tenor drum, snare drum, and bagpipes, will add authentic music to the Arlington version of this Broadway musical by Lerner and Lowe.

Close to 30 songs and dance numbers are included in the musical. Among the numbers to be presented are "Almost Like Being in Love," "Waitin' for My Dearie," and "The Heather on the Hill."

"Brigadoon" is the story of a fantasy village founded by a man who wanted to protect his people from the corruption of the world.

TWO American hunters, lost in the forests of Scotland, discover the village, and find that 100 years pass for each day spent in the town.

Three students, Tom Wade, 3201 Peacock ln., Rolling Meadows; Nancy McComb, 710 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights; and Mark MacDonald, 604 Wilshire, Arlington Heights, have leading roles in the musical.

Tickets can be purchased from members of the Arlington high music department or at the door the nights of the show.

Northwest Suburbs Mapping Battle on County Rezoning

Opposition Slated To New Zone Code

by TOM McSHANE

A committee was set up last Wednesday by the Northwest Municipal conference to come up with a plan to combat the passage of the new Cook county zoning ordinance.

At their monthly meeting in Arlington Heights, representatives of the eight towns and villages from Park Ridge to Barrington heard suburban County Commissioners Charles Chaplin, Fred Fulle, and John Mackler Jr. blast the Chicago-controlled county board, Zoning Commissioner Harry Chaddick, and Andrew J. Dallstream, chairman of the county zoning board of appeals and president of the village of Barrington Hills, for forcing through an ordinance that "completely disregards the rights of the suburban people."

LATE IN THE two and a half hour session, the mayors of Mt. Prospect, Palatine, and Arlington Heights indicated they would be willing to fight the ordinance in the courts.

President Howard I. Olsen of Palatine made the motion setting up a committee of mayors and attorneys to study the problem.

Chaplin and Mackler put on a marvelous show for the audience with their vehement attacks on the county Democratic officials, Chaddick, and Dallstream, who was at the meeting representing Barrington Hills.

Chaplin started the discussion by assuring his audience that a new zoning plan for the county was absolutely essential. "But I am 100 per cent opposed to the one forced down our throats last week," he said in the next breath.

HE WENT ON to elaborate on provisions of the ordinance which permit liquor to be sold in eight separate classifications that encompass 21,000 acres of unincorporated land.

"I don't believe the state of Illinois could legally vote the state of Indiana dry," he said. "Nor do I believe the Chicago commissioners have the right to vote 21,000 acres of county land wet."

He tore into Zoning Commissioner Chaddick who was charged with preparing the ordinance by the county board two years ago.

"Chaddick is a former trucker and drug store owner who was hired to do zoning work by the city of Chicago, and then passed off on us as an 'expert' by the Democrats," Chaplin said.

HE WAS PAID $400,000 to do the job, Chaplin continued.

"And he promised he would consider all objections to the ordinance in front of hundreds of people at the early hearings.

"Last week he stood up and said he had only one objection to consider before the vote.

"This is a lie," Chaplin said.

(Mackler later estimated there were upwards of 40 objections to the ordinance that were disregarded by Chaddick).

"Ethically and morally the Chicago county commissioners have no right to pass this law over objections of the suburbs," Chaplin concluded.

Fulle, in a short talk, agreed with Chaplin, and discussed briefly a squabble that arose when public hearings first were scheduled on the proposed amendment. He pointed out the difficulty the suburban towns had getting the hearings slated out of the county building and into the individual townships.

"We got a bum deal from the beginning on this thing," he said.

MACKLER THEN took the floor for the first time, and the squat, barrel-chested commissioner from Chicago Heights, who travelled some 60 miles on the snowy night to be at the meeting, both stirred and amused the audience with his oratory.

He first challenged Dallstream to give a legal opinion on the ordinance, then accused the county board of not keeping the people informed and of approving an ordinance, the text of which was very bad.

"This is not a political speech," Mackler said. "In fact, I wouldn't consider running for this office again because I'm sick to my stomach."

DALLSTREAM, tanned a deep brown from a month in Arizona, then took a seat in front of the audience and explained his position in the controversy

"I didn't come here as the defendant or the accused," he said. "I came here representing Barrington Hills.

"And I have no right to express a legal opinion on this ordinance because I am an administrative officer, and the state's attorney has reminded me frequently that his office alone is the legal counsel for us."

He explained his stand on the early hearings.

"I was unwilling to deprive the local communities of public hearings, but the state's attorney took exception," he said.

(A compromise finally was reached, and hearings on the text were slated for the county building, with separate, daytime hearings on the maps scheduled for the townships.)

Dallstream said most of the attorneys and property owners objecting to the proposals lived in Chicago, and thus did not want to drive to the suburbs, especially at night, for the separate hearings.

HE SAID the board of appeals had received excellent cooperation from some of the communities regarding objections, and poor cooperation from others.

"I don't think this ordinance is any prize," he said. "I didn't like the way it was initiated or followed through. The zoning board of appeals has travelled every inch of this county, and I think we would have done it differently."

He said he thought Chaddick had "three good men on his staff." Then he apparently crossed the commissioners.

He said he was a Republican, and that he liked the Republican commissioners.

"But," he added, "there is one point I would like to make.

"We got most of the text changes we wanted. Probably, from a practical standpoint, this is the best we could have done under the circumstances.

"There is the greatest liberality to make amendments to this ordinance. Any commissioner or the zoning board of appeals can request rezoning for any piece of unincorporated land in the county.

"The best solution is to admit we're not happy, but to go along with it.

"Some injustices have been done, but much is good. The best solution is to correct the mistakes by the amendment route.

"I don't think you should try to get it repealed unless it is invalid. Submit your objections to your commissioners for hearings, present your evidence, and clear it up."

THIS BROUGHT Chaplin to his feet.

"Mr. Dallstream," he said, "you approved all of these bad things. This ordinance came to the county board with the approval of the zoning board of appeals."

The commissioner cited the liquor provisions.

"The only way you can arrive at that is because some restaurants will be able to serve liquor at the tables, but not at a bar," Dallstream answered.

"There are 16 acres of M-1 zoning in the middle of a $40,000 residential area in Northfield township," Chaplin retorted. "A liquor license here is automatic if this zoning stands up."

"I don't have the ordinance before me," Dallstream said, "but we radically changed the original Chaddick provisions."

"But liquor still is in everything except residential and B-1," Chaplin said. "And you think we can amend it with a 10 to five majority against us? We couldn't do it before."

"WE HAVE HAD pretty good zoning in this county so far," Dallstream said.

"Up 'til now," Chaplin replied.

The commissioner then fired his parting shot, addressing the chair:

"This is a thoroughly, inherently bad bill, that disregards the rights of the suburban people. That's all I have to say."

There followed a series of remarks by Senator John A. Graham of Barrington, and Byron Matthews of the Illinois Municipal league, supporting the suburbs in their stand against encroachments by Chicago.

THE CONFERENCE president, Edward G. Carlisle, then called the roll of the villages to gather a list of local objections.

Barrington, Barrington Hills, Des Plaines, Rolling Meadows, and Park Ridge said they had no specific complaints to make. Most of them, however, indicated they were concerned over the liquor provision and any infringements on their mile and a half zone of influence set up by state statute that might result.

Mt. Prospect objected to a business rezoning request that had been granted over previous objections. Palatine said the zoning commission had not granted requests for more industrial land around the village, and Arlington Heights said the new code provides front footage requisites wthin its mile and a half that are not compatible with the village's code.

THE THREE villages said they would be willing to go to court to fight the ordinance.

Carlisle pointed out that the villages could carry the fight individually, in a group of three, or with the backing of the whole conference.

Olsen then made the motion setting up the committee to check the legality of the passage, to make recommendations of various alternatives that could be taken, and to report these recommendations to the villages before further action was taken by the conference.

Just before the meeting adjourned, the colorful Mackler rocked the room with his last hurrah.

HE SAID he wanted to take the ordinance. set it aside, and start over again.

"The (Chicago's politicians) have chased everyone from Chicago to the suburbs with their legislation. Now they're going to chase you back."

Finland Film Features Series

Finland will be brought to the screen of the Prospect high school theatre Tuesday, March 29 at 8 p.m.

Karl Robinson will present the story of this lovely but little-known northern land for travel and Adventure series of the Adult Education division of township high school district 214.

A country of tranquil beauty, occupied by one of the world's most progressive, friendly and hospitable people, Finland has been an independent western nation free of Russian political domination only since 1918.

The culture is western rather than Russian, and the Finns are a highly educated and industrious people living at a cultural level second to none in the world.

This tour, guided in the succinct style of a news reporter, takes the viewer from the capital city of Helsinki in the south to the fells of Lapland in the far north, the other side of the Arctic Circle.

With the careful research of an experienced newsman, Robinson adds to the usual tourist-eye view a documentary of the mode of living and an interpretation of the social progress and cultural activities thriving in all segments of the population.

THE HAND of the creative artist and architect is visible everywhere. In the sequence on activities in Helsinki's Olympic stadium the Finns are pictured as equally devoted participants and spectators in the sports events, an interest which embraces both summertime water sports and wintertime skiing and skating.

While reflecting the happiness of Finnish life, the film also includes pictures of the Russian Navy paying a "courtesy" call at Helsinki, a dramatic message on east-west tensions.

This is an unusual scene which could not have been photographed in Russia without danger to the photographer.

EXCITEMENT and pictorial splendor abound in the sequences of the four seasons. The foliage of the deep forest in autumn gives way to the sparkle of mountain passes in wintertime, and the reindeer round-up and international ski meets.

The log rafts and milling scenes introduce the springtime with the abundance of flowers and apple blossoms, followed by summertime scenes of open-air cafes and beaches.

Korean Pianist's Concert on Sunday

Korea's cultural ambassador to the United States, Tong Il Han, will present a concert Sunday, March 27, at 2 p.m. in the Prospect high school theatre.

A brilliant 19 year old pianist, Tong has impressed American audiences with his ability through appearances on television, concert tours, and performances with symphony orchestras.

TONY, AS he is called in this country, would probably still be an obscure figure in Korea today if it were not for the soldiers of the Fifth air force in Seoul and an American general.

In 1952, when he was only 11 years old, Han played before members of the Fifth Air Force.

Lt. General Samuel E. Anderson, then commander of the First air force, was so impressed that he arranged a concert tour of Korean and Japanese air bases which raised $4,300 for the "Tony Han Educational Fund."

WHEN HE returned to this country, Anderson brought Tony with him. The Korean is now studying with Madame Rosina Lhevinne at the Juilliard School of Music in New York, where he also attends the Professional Children's school.

Tony plans to settle in the United States or Europe, wherever there are the most chances for him to perform.

Tickets for the concert, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Woman's club, are priced at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. They can be purchased at the Bank of Arlington Heights or from members of the Woman's club. (ACM

Winners of the scholarships may attend any accredited school in the United States.

"THE purpose of this scholarship program," Shorey said, "is to help train some of the thousands of health professionals desparately needed in hospitals, clinics and research laboratories in every city and community."

Applications for Health scholarships have been sent to all accredited high schools and colleges in Cook County. They may also be obtained from the local National Foundation Chapter offices, 37 S. Wabash ave., Chicago.

Full-Time Attorney Is Under Study

Trustees indicated this week they will consider a full time village attorney for Arlington Heights at their budget committee meetings, scheduled to start this week.

The question arose at Monday night's board meeting when the clerk read a letter the village had received from a resident inquiring as to whether the village wouldn't benefit by "having a full time attorney who would be on hand during the day in case his services were needed by some member of the administrative staff."

The board instructed the village manager to reply in a letter that the matter would be considered along with the proposed 1960-61 budget. (AF

School Food Group Meets April 1, 2

The president of the association is Mary S. Tandlin of 501 Euclid, Arlington Heights, who heads cafeterias in High School district 214.

Also attending will be two area directors from Palatine, Lillian Young of 102 S. Linden, and Rose Wick, 102 E. Wood st.

Included in the program are numerous exhibits, 15 discussion groups, and three main speakers.

DISCUSSION TOPICS cover such areas as school lunch baking problems, menu planning, food purchasing, nutrition, safety, and training the school lunch helper.

Speakers include Mickey Houston, head of his own produce, poultry, and game firm; Sister Mary Donata, head of the home economics department of Smitn College, Milwaukee; and Hugh E. Muncy, vice-president of the Illinois Retail Merchants association. (B8

Edison Tells Plan For Airport Lines

A $400,000 program for expansion of electrical facilities at O'Hare International airport has been outlined by Commonwealth Edison company before the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The Edison company is asking the commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity to construct two 34,500 volt lines into the airport.

ONE WOULD originate at a point south of Green st. in Franklin Park, travel overhead to a point north of Irving Park road, with the installation then installed underground for a distance of one mile into the airport.

The second line would meet the first near Irving Park road. It would begin near Taft ave. and Milwaukee railroad tracks in Bensenville. (B8

EJO Group Urges Arrington Defeat

Defeat of a suburban legislator seeking re-election was urged this week by Augustine J. Bowe, chairman of the Illinois Committe for Equal Job Opportunities.

The state senator, W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, was among 17 legislators who either dodged or voted against the equal job opportunities bill in 1959.

Arrington did not cast a vote on the measure. He represents the fourth district, which includes Wheeling, Northfield, New Trier, Niles, and Evanston townships.

IN 1959 THE Illinois Senate defeated by a small margin an equal job opportunities bill which had overwhelming House approval. Illinois is now the last major industrial state without such a law, explained Bowe.

"In 1961 another equal job opportunities bill will be introduced in the Illinois legislature," said Bowe. "Its fate will be decided in the Senate. We know that many voters will want to see this bill pass because they believe in a fair deal for all. We therefore urge all voters to learn the stand of the Senate candidates in their district on this issue, and to vote accordingly."

BOWE ADDED that his committee believes that this legislation is needed to help the growth of Illinois businesses, to cut welfare costs, reduce race tensions, and "to bring to life in Illinois one of the basic moral foundations of the American way of life, equality of opportunity."

Arrington is being challenged in the Republican primary April 12 by Charles B. Marshall, former Evanston alderman, who opposes FEPC legislation with penal sanction but would support such a law with advisory status. (ACM

THE SECOND program of the Art center's film series, featuring the Japanese film, "Rasho-Mon," will be presented March 27 at 8 p.m.

Also to be shown will be a short feature, "The Pharmacist," starring the late W. C. Fields.

Spring is Late; No Kite Flying

The spring Kite Karnival scheduled for April 2 has been postponed until April 16 by Heights park district. Lateness of the spring thaws was given as the reason for delay.

The karnival was held on April 4 in 1959 and the turf at Pioneer park, where the kites were flown, was green and dry. It does not appear liekly that the grass will be up enough to support a crowd at the early date this year.

Low Bid Is $459,984 On New Hall

The minimum bids on Arlington Heights proposed municipal building, opened this week, totaled $459,984.

This was about $50,000 more than trustees had expected, and has caused some concern about the financing of the building

BIDS ON general contracting ranged from $324,444 to $376,000; for heating, ventilating, and air conditioning, $60,840 to $95,569; for plumbing, $28,850 to $43,375, and for electrical, $45,850 to $88,350.

Trustees will meet tonight to consider the bids and the means of financing the hall.

Tireless Young Campaigner Pumps New Vigor into GOP

by CHARLES HAYES

If ringing doorbells and pumping hands win votes, then Charles B. Marshall will be a shoo-in winner at the polls April 12.

He is seeking the Republican nomination for fourth district state senator in the primary election.

Marshall, 29, has set his sights on the senate seat of incumbent W. Russell Arrington of Evanston.

He has already cut a wide swath through the fourth senatorial district in an impressive person-to-person campaign. The district includes the townships of Wheeling, Northfield, New Trier, Niles, and Evanston.

Thus far in his vigorous campaign, Marshall has personally called upon 20,000 voters. This weekend alone he rang 750 doorbells in Arlington Heights—and at 5:30 a.m. Monday he was shaking hands with commuters at the Chicago and North Western depot in Arlington Heights. During the next three hours, he greeted some 450 persons and, with the help of a volunteer worker, distributed 1000 handbills to commuters.

WHY SUCH energetic vote-gathering?

"Vice President Nixon summed up the Republican party problem quite simply," explains Marshall. "He said the party is too filled with political turkeys—men too fat to get out and campaign!"

Marshall has been encouraged in his campaign by Nixon, who has offered him personal congratulations and best wishes in his bid for the state senate.

With Congress as his eventual goal, Marshall is a firm believer in starting from the bottom up in politics. He regards local and state government as invaluable training grounds for national office.

HE RECENTLY completed a three-year term as alderman on Evanston's city council.

"The only way to get good men for Congress is to send young men to the state legislature for experience," declares Marshall. "We shouldn't have 60 and 70-year-old men clogging up the state senate!"

The Republican party is "bloody dormant" and a party of "old men," according to Marshall, who wants to help make the GOP "a living, vital, progressive thing—a party of ideas and ideals concerned with human needs."

He said the GOP confronts a tough problem—a distorted public image which paints the party as one of big business, special interest, and stagnation.

If Marshall's tireless vitality is any example of the "new blood" being stirred in the Republican ranks, then the party has indeed won a fresh lease on life!

MARSHALL ADMITS THE GOP in Illinois is "very disorganized."

"The attempt at one-man rule by Stratton has prompted rebellion," he declares. "Governor Stratton has been an ineffectual governor with a warped sense of values. He allows human beings to suffer in archaic insane asylums while building eight-lane expressways out of six-lane highways. The governor should be ashamed to live in statehouse luxury while people suffer."

Marshall's brand of Republicanism places "human resources first in our consideration."

He is proud to call himself a conservative. "This is no evil word," he adds. "A conservative is a man who says, whenever change is proposed, the burden of proof is on the proponent change. Prove to me first that your change is better than what we now have—and I'll be for it. You might call me a cautious progressive."

THE YOUNG attorney insists that a conservative can be compassionate to human problems. For example, among issues he stresses in his primary campaign are mental health and education.

Meeting the electorate face-to-face has convinced him that mental health is an immediate concern to residents of the fourth district. He is an ardent supporter of the November bond issue for better state hospitals and favors sweeping reorganization of Illinois' mental institutions.

In addition to the building program, he also recommends changes in personnel and administration. "Concrete has no therapeutic effect," he adds.

He urges a personnel recruitment program which would include a state scholarship-loan program for qualified students in psychiatry, psychology, and other fields related to mental health.

MARSHALL IS opposing Arrington in the primary because he is convinced the fourth district has been "inadequately represented" by the Evanston corporation lawyer.

"Arrington has been only a part-time senator," charged Marshall. "He even missed casting a vote on such vital issues such as FEPC, the CTA subsidy bill, and the Korean bonus. He has failed to properly serve the district or show any interest in the problems or concerns of the area. Few people in Wheeling township, for example, even know who Arrington is! The Evanston city council requested him to introduce two bills in the last session of the legislature; he failed to do either."

Marshall supports court reform, a merit system for state employees, constitutional home rule for suburbs, annual legislative sessions for better budget control, and a state scholarship program for college students.

He is opposed to the state income tax, inadequate cost accounting procedures as typified by the Aid to Dependent Children program, the personal property tax, and "giveaway programs" such as the recent Korean veterans bonus, passed by the legislature after the issue had been disapproved by the public at the polls.

SOME OF HIS other views:

—FEPC. "I am opposed to a fair employment practices law with penal sanction; you can't legislate morality. I would favor FEPC with advisory status, however."

—REVENUE. "This is a major problem in the state. I favor increasing corporation franchise taxes and broadening the base of the sales tax by plugging loopholes. I favor submitting a revenue amendment to the voters. I am opposed to the personal property tax because it is totally inequitable, lacks uniformity, and is administered unfairly. Assessment procedures in the suburbs, for example, are strictly curbstone tobacco-chewing guesswork."

—CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTIONS FOR YOUTH. "We need more emphasis on rehabilitation than on incarceration. I would favor establishment of outdoor work camps similar to those in California."

—CAPITAL PUNISHMENT. "The death penalty should be abolished. It is akin to human sacrifice in Aztec times. Until man can create life, it behooves man to shudder at the thought of taking it."

Marshall holds an A. B. degree from State University of Iowa (Phi Beta Kappa), an M. A. degree in political science from Northwestern univesrity, and a J. D. degree from Northwestern's school of law.

A BACHELOR, he served for three years as administrative officer for the National Security agency in Washington, D.C., and for three years as alderman on Evanston's city council.

He served five years active duty with the Air Force, advancing from private to first lieutenant.

He is currently vice president of Evanston Republican club, parliamentarian of Evanston Young Republican club, and a member of Cook County Young Republican club.

WHY IS HE running for office?

Marshall is frank in his quick reply: "Because I'm a professional politician. I've been preparing myself for a career in politics. I'm ambitious in my profession. I started by gaining experience at the local level, completing my term as alderman. Now I want to gain experience at the state level. Some day I hope to serve in Congress."

And no one who meets this likable, dynamic young man doubts that he'll make it to Capitol Hill! (ACM

This Week with PTA

Exhibit Night

North

Captivating his audience of parents and teachers at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, March 15, at North school, Dr. Philip W. Jackson, associate professor of educational psychology at the University of Chicago, discussed his work with gifted children.

According to Dr. Jackson there are two categories of giftedness in children, one is the highly creative adolescent and the other is the highly intelligent adolescent. Intelligence is easier to measure with tests. Qualities of creativeness exist in varying degrees in all children, but with tests using word association, uses for things, story endings, make up problems, and hidden shadings, one is able to determine the degree these exist in children.

CONTINUING TO describe the difference between the high IQ child and the creative child, Dr. Jackson pointed out that the high IQ child selects safe, secure occupations in medicine, law or engineering, but the creative child tends to select more unusual fields of endeavor such as an opera star, disc jockey or Rabbi. The high IQ child writes pedestrian stories, more stereotyped, and less amusing than the creative child.

When given an opportunity to rank themselves on a self-ideal basis or a success image ranking or the teacher perception ranking, marked differences between the two groups is very evident. The high IQ child will have high correlation between all three rankings, but the creative child will have negative rankings. When humor is used as a trait to be desired the high IQ ranks it in 11th out of 13 possible places; the creative ranks it second most important.

"The peripheral difference is in the fantasy life of the child. The creative child needs time to dream," concluded Dr. Jackson.

MRS. R. B. YADON

General arrangements chairman for the second annual mock convention of PTA district 21 is Mrs. R. B. Yadon, 826 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights. The convention will be held at 9:45 a.m. March 30 in South school, Glencoe.

The format of the mock convention is patterned after the state convention of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and delegates will have the opportunity to acquaint themselves with convention procedures, rules and how amendments to the legislation platform are made.

The task of arranging the convention is a natural one for Mrs. Yadon, since the plans for a mock convention originated with an idea she had for inspiring and informing delegates through preparation, thus enabling them to derive more from their attendance at the state convention. (A

Study Reveals Bad Effect Autos Have on Teen Grades

Ninety per cent of the students who drop out of Lake Park high school, Medinah, own automobiles. A study by the school revealed that grades of students who acquire automobiles drop in most cases.

Carl Forrester, superintendent of Lake Park high school district, this week outlined regulations which forbid students to drive their cars to school except with special permission.

The regulations are based upon consequences of car ownership like those cited and the fact that frequent and extensive bus service makes cars virtually unnecessary.

THIS IS THE first year Lake Park has not allowed students to drive automobiles, said Forrester. Construction of a new addition to the school has engulfed space formerly used for parking.

Forrester said that the no-car policy probably will not be changed.

Lake Park students receive permission to drive cars if they must arrive at a job within minutes after the end of the school day, for instance.

In cases of unpredictable family emergency they may obtain daily permission by calling Forrest Lile, traffic control supervisor, before 7:30 a.m. at Itasca 1688.

Students who receive permission to drive their cars to school must furnish a valid license and a certificate of insurance together with written consent of their parents.

Twelve students currently drive their cars to school.

When students are allowed to drive their cars they may not drive them during the lunch hour without special permission.

The reason for this regulation was one of the reasons why the school board decided to restrict use of cars. None of the subdivisions adjacent to school property have sidewalks. Students from Medinah Elementary school must walk on the shoulders of roads. Sometimes they walk on the roads. The danger of a student's car striking a pedestrian therefore is too great in the school board's estimation, said Forrester.

School busses from Lake Park high school pass within one-half mile, at the most, of all homes within the school district every morning, Forrester said. Busses leave the school three times at the end of the school day — at 3:28 p.m. following the last class; at 4:20 p.m. at the end of the activity period, and at 6 p.m. following athletic practice.

According to Forrester, "there is a strong relationship between gasoline and grades. It doesn't apply in every case, but it is more than an accidental relationship."

A four-year study by Willis Nelson, principal of Madison High School, Resburg, Idaho, showed that not a single one of his "A" students, and only 15 per cent of his "B" students, drove a car. But 31 per cent of the "C", 79 per ecnt of the "D" and 83 per cent of the failures and drop-outs did.

A survey by the Niles township high school at Skokie disclosed what car ownership can do to good students. Once they acquired cars a large number of those in the upper quarter rode themselves right out of it. Many of the new car owners were out riding seven evenings a week.

But, another study showed that when parents own the car there is little effect on grades.

Forrester cites a "trap" which 90 per cent of the students who drop out of school fall into.

They get a job so they can buy a car. Then, they find that they must hold the job and work longer in order to pay for gas, oil and repairs.

SOON THE youngster observes: "Why should I use all MY money to pay for this car?" After a while parents are paying for the car and their youngster is pocketing his money.

The nxet step in the "trap" is the youngster's conclusion that their is no reason for him to continue going to school since he is self-sufficient. And he drops out.

"Suburbia Today" magazine has portrayed the "trap" this way:

"The next round (after Junior decides he is old enough to drive a car and becomes disgusted with sharing the family car) will follow fast — when Junior decides . . . (he) must have a car of his own. Paying for it will be no problem. He'll just get a job after school. Now wide-open warfare breaks out. Mom gets tearful, Dad gets his hackles up, and Junior gets ready to join the Marines."

Both Forrester and his administrative assistant, Stanley Wheeler, are emphatic about the automobile's role in helping students lose contact with their environment, including the responsibilities to their school work.

They even lose a sense of allegiance to their families.

FORRESTER observes that students are not "morally, ethically or socially prepared to make decisions of such consequence. They are not capable of handling their own decisions. They lack the experience and the background."

However, he points out that this is not a criticism, merely circumstance.

"There's no question that they will be able to make decisions as well as any adult when they have the experience," he says.

What do students think of all this?

A student in Downers Grove says: "In my contacts with persons who own cars I find they are able to use them wisely."

One practical young man sees it this way: "Saving up money for gas will teach you economy and thrift; giving the right of way to others, courtesy and manners; keeping a car in running condition, responsibility. All of these will come in handy in later life."

BUT, A SENIOR had this souring experience:

"Last year I used the money I was saving for college to make the down payment on a used car. To keep it, I had to work every afternoon and evening until 9 o'clock, and all day Saturday. When I got home I was usually too tired to study. Then one or two nights I'd go out.

"I flunked two subjects — the first time I had ever flunked anything. After six months I'd had enough. I got rid of the car, gave up my job and buckled down to studying.

"I'm going to college in the fall, but that bad semester is going to make it tough for me to get into the college I want."

A former juvenile officer wrote an hilarious article entitled "The Great God Tail Fin.' He embellished it with currently popular juvenile jargon.

Forrester would agree with the title of this article. It expresses his attitude that cars themselves are not bad — just the excessive use of them.

Johnny's Teacher Sits In Class As Student

It's not only Johnny, but Johnny's teacher who is learning these days as well as teaching in the Blackhawk Junior high Wood Dale and Fenton high faculty departmental workshops.

Purpose of the afternoon workshops is to stimulate curriculum discussion and "to correlate the educational program between the junior and senior high levels."

One workshop has already taken place on March 9. The second is scheduled at 1:15 p.m., Wednesday, April 6, at Fenton high school, and is to last until 4 p.m. Workshops were arranged by an administrative group involving participants from Districts 2, 7 and 100.

FACULTY MEMBERS will summarize recommendations made previously, determine what follow-through resulted and plan future steps.

"The task of coordinating and articulating the work of the upper grades and the high school is so great," a spokesman said, "that continual examination and evaluation are necessary.

"The subject area groups are requested to help build a logical sequence of content, skills, texts and equipment. In so doing, unnecessary overlapping or repetition will be avoided.

"IT IS suggested that each teacher will read carefully the reports of previous meetings, which will be distributed before the workshop. Be sure to bring textbooks and other materials to the meetings in order to show them to the group and determine their effect upon courses of study."

Group leaders and room assignments are listed below:

—English - Language Arts, M. Stavrakas, chairman; J. Anderson, recorder, Room 51.

Church Grows, Add 2nd Sunday School

Growth at the Prince of Peace United Lutheran church makes it necessary to have two services and two Sunday schools each Sunday in order to accomodate the entire church family, acording to the Rev. Mel Holtz, pastor.

A decision was made last Sunday morning by a special meeting of the church council to schedule two identical church services on Sunday morning, one at 9:30 and one at 11. Two sessions of the Sunday School will be held at the same time as the services, thus making it possible for the parents to be in church while the children are in Sunday school.

A SPECIAL feature of the Sunday School arrangement is that the kindergarten and primary students will go directly to their classes when the Sunday school hour begins. The Junior and Intermediate students will attend the first half of the service with parents and then be excused at the time of the announcements to go to their Sunday school classes.

Mid-week Lenten services are held every Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. at the new temporary church home of Prince of Peace, 17 N. Addison rd.

Modern Etiquette

by ROBERTA LEE

Q. Please suggest a note I might write to a friend who was kind enough to write to me in my recent bereavement.

A. "Dear Betty: Your sweet letter gave me great comfort. Thank you so much for writing. I shall call you as soon as I feel able. Lovingly, Susan."

Q. I met a young man two weeks ago and since then he has tried several times to phone me at my home, but every time I have been out. Would it be proper for me to phone him?

A. It would be all right for you to phone him and say, "I hear you have been calling me. I'm sorry I was not at home."

Q. Is it the accepted form for a woman to use her maiden name as a middle name after she is married?

A. Yes, this is the established custom. In other words after Joyce Adams marries William Morgan, she then becomes Joyce Adams Morgan.

Q. When a man finds it necessary to introduce himself, does he include the "Mr." before his name?

A. No; he usually says, "I am Harry Simmons," or "My name is Simmons," unless he has the title of 'Doctor,' which he then includes with his name.

Cards, Knights Combine for 173 Wins

Arlington Boasts 75 Victories

Arlington high school experienced a successful winter sports campaign with 11 squads combining for 75 victories in 135 contests.

Only three units compiled losing seasons and one — Gay Hughes' state champion gymnasts — went unbeaten in 11 tests.

In addition to the varsity gymnasts, two other squads gave the school record a boost with outstanding efforts. Norm Patberg's JV basketball squad won 11 of 13, and Mike Karon's frosh-soph gymnasts collected eight victories and a tie in ten meets.

The only squads tagged with losing campaigns were the frosh "A" cagers, frosh-soph wrestlers, and varsity matmen.

The 75 victories represent a .556 winning percentage with two ties registered in frosh-soph wrestling and frosh-soph gymnastics.

Ken Schaller's frosh-soph basketball quintet, Bob Baker's frosh "B" aggregation, and the frosh and JV mat squads recorded .500 campaigns.

The gymnasts brought honors to the school with that state crown and Northern Illinois invitational title. In addition, Gary Erwin, Tom Geocaris, Bill Sayre, and Dick Wetzel gained individual state championships.

Frank Bohac's varsity basketball squad won the regional hardwood crown and finished in the runnerup slot of the sectional. George Bork won the West Suburban conference scoring title and joined teammate Bob Inman on the all-loop squad.

Bob Emmons' varsity wrestlers didn't experience a banner season record-wise, but three boys — Terry Harris, Jerry Greer, and George Shartle — were named to the all-conference squad, and Shartle finished fourth in the state at 120. Harris and Greer were both district champs.

Wyllie Boasts 44.1 Scoring Mark in Loop

The Rovers downed the Teachers 53-43 to end the season with an unbeaten record. The park basketball league at Miner school also saw the Nike Knights stop Pure Oil 46-38.

Larry Wyllie of the Prospectors, scored 353 points in eight games to win scoring honors with a 44.1 average. Other leading scorers were: Huske (Pioneer Pirates) 26.3, Knackmhus (Nike Knights) 16.6, Monroe (Teachers) 16.6, Schmidt (Rovers) 16.3, Franson (Pioneer Pirates) 15.1 and Morgan (Rovers) 13.1.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

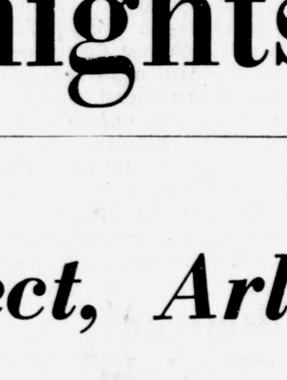
By BOB FRISK

CHICAGO IS MAKING UP for lost time in state basketball circles.

And it's unfortunate for area teams.

Chicago sent its initial representative to the state tourney in 1931 and waited 27 years for its first championship.

Now the Windy City, fresh from its second crown in three years, is annually setting up a formidable road block for area teams as they attempt to journey to Champaign for the finals. The Arlington sectional champion is faced with the unenviable task of journeying to Evanston to tackle the Public league titlist in the sub-state or super sectional.



Sure, some fans comment, but it won't be long before the tourney leaves the cramped (we second that adjective) confines of Huff Gym for a more suitable location. And they hopefully add that the state will probably go back to the Sweet Sixteen with the Chicago winner automatically qualifying for Champaign without bumping any local team on the way.

It's true that Illinois' Assembly Hall with 18,000 capacity will be completed the summer of 1961, but that doesn't mean an automatic return to the Sweet Sixteen as so many people believe.

Al Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois high school association, was quoted as saying over the weekend that "it just isn't educationally sound to take almost a week away from school for some people for the tournament when it isn't done for other activities."

Willis pointed out that it was doubtful if there were facilities in Champaign-Urbana to handle a crowd that would be on hand for a 16-team affair.

"We have trouble now," he asserted, "with just eight teams. In the new building there will be two and a half times as many people as we have at an eight team meet, and this will pose some real housing problems. Then if we have 16 teams these problems will be doubled again."

And so it looks as though area quintets will have to put up with the classy outfits annually escaping the Chicago playoffs—that is, as long as the Arlington sectional winner has to play the Windy City champ in the super sectional.

The meteoric rise of Chicago prep basketball was explained in a number of ways by observers at last weekend's finals.

One was that boys in the city now play basketball the year 'round as do the downstate boys. Then there was the switch from junior (5-8 and under) basketball to frosh-soph competition. Coaching has picked up insofar as the caliber of men handling the Chicago aggregations, and the rule has been abandoned restricting athletes to one major sport.

In addition, the increase in the number of boys' athletic clubs, the increasing Negro population, and the development of the one-handed jump shot have all figured in the rise of Chicago basketball, according to several people closely associated with the prep scene.

Bosco Levin, Marshall's athletic director, says the latter two factors work hand in hand. "When the jump shot arrived, it was a natural for the Negro athlete as they're good jumpers to begin with and they hit much better when they shoot on the move."

The neighborhood club program in operation has had a noticeable impact on Chicago hardwood teams. All of Marshall's starters began playing basketball in local clubs.

In any respect, Chicago is turning out impressive high school teams every year now after a long, dry spell.

What about 1961? Don't bring out the crying towel for Marshall because Spin Salario loses All-Stater George Wilson and Guard Kenny Moses.

Salario, who has compiled a brilliant 131-15 coaching mark at Marshall, has three regulars returning in 6-7 Ed Franklin, 5-10 Eddie Jakes, and 6-0 Charles Jones. He has a 6-7, 220 pounder sophomore ready for action after sitting out the current season because of ineligibility. He has 6-6½ Jim Pitts, the state champs' top reserve, and 6-3 Don Jackson, a sub on the 1959-60 unit who is expected to blossom into stardom.

Then there's some help from the frosh-soph squad in 6-2 Don King who can jump well enough to dunk the ball. A 5-4 backcourt wizard, Ben Lilly, is a sensational dribbler who drew rave notices throughout the city.

Numerals, Letters Awarded

Prospect and Arlington high winter sports athletes and managers were honored recently at banquets put on by the school's respective Booster clubs.

winter meeting last night Prospect held its initial (Wednesday) in the school cafeteria and theatre while Arlington's banquet was held Thursday evening, March 17.

Lussow Tops Scoring On Prospect Varsity

Collecting 317 points for a 13.2 per game average, Fred Lussow walked off with individual scoring honors on the 1959-60 Prospect high school basketball team.

Lussow netted 136 baskets, a team high, and added 45 free throws in winning the scoring crown by 22 points over runnerup George Pomey. Center Bill Zadel finished third with 286.

The season marks at Prospect rank as school records as the Knights were playing their first campaign in varsity competition.

COACH DICK Kinneman's Prospect aggregation averaged 65.6 points per game in rolling to 22 victories in 24 games and held opponents to a 48.0 average. The squad had a high of 96 against Wheaton.

Guard Keith Grams captured the free throw championship with a .723 mark on 47 attempts, and Zadel hit an amazing .564 from the field that department. Lussow fired at a .505 clip on 269 attempts.

Other season highs for Prospect were the 24 points in a single game registered by Pomey against Lake Park and Zadel against Fenton. Zadel took down 17 rebounds against Fenton for another team mark.

ZADEL'S 84 FREE throws topped Pomey by nine in that department, and the big 6-4 pivotman also attempted the most charity tosses with 119. Lussow, Pomey, and Fred Empkie each took more than 200 shots for the season with only Empkie falling below the .400 mark in percentage.

Prospect shot .450 as a team for the 24 game campaign and .622 from the free throw line.

Next week: Arlington.

Wilmotte, Sell in First Place Ties

Palatine's Jerry Kusek captured a first place in the mile run and Arlington's Tom Wilmotte and Dave Sell gained ties for first in the pole vault and high jump respectively in the Evanston frosh invitational track meet last Saturday morning.

New Trier walked off with the team title with Evanston second in the indoor test.

In addition to Kusek's mile triumph, Palatine also picked up third place points thanks to the mile relay team, Tom Nowaczek in the broad jump and George Franklin in the mile.

Jim Gow added a third in the shot for Arlington to round out the Cardinals' scoring for the meet.

Prospect Captures 98 Wins

Ninety-eight victories in 146 contests for a .671 winning percentage!

That was the enviable record compiled by Prospect high school athletic teams during the 1959-60 winter sports campaign.

Only two squads experienced losing seasons as Prospect just missed the century mark in wins. One outfit—Hal Henson's frosh wrestlers — went through the campaign unbeaten.

Two of the outstanding team marks registered at the school were the 22-2 slate in varsity basketball and 10-1 mark in frosh-soph gymnastics.

Two Prospect high cagers were named to the all-league squad—Fred Lussow and Bill Zadel—with Fred Empkie gaining a second team berth.

Tierney Earns Cage Numerals

Michael Tierney, a freshman at the College of Wooster from Arlington Heights, earned his class numerals in basketball for the 1959-60 season playing center for the Wooster junior varsity team.

This Wooster squad was 12-5 for the season, 8-4 against Ohio Conference JV teams.

Marshall Breezes to Title

THE BASKETBALL SEASON came to an official conclusion with the state finals last weekend. For once the sports writers' selections for the state title were almost unanimous and Marshall justified its top rating by toying with Bridgeport in the finals. Marshall really did not meet very much competition in its trek to the state title. Just how good the Commandos are is difficult to say. Perhaps the city championship in which they meet DeLaSalle may provide the answer but we doubt it. Imagine a team with a 6' 7" center so agile and clever a ball handler that he brings the ball down on defense and then goes to the front court. It is this which makes George Wilson of Marshall the most sought after prep player in the nation by the college scouts.

Plaudits for Gymnasts

OUR CONGRATULATIONS to Coach Gay Hughes, Mike Karon, assistant coach, and the Arlington Heights gymnastic squad on winning their second straight state championship. This is a sport which is stressed in Europe and in which American high schools compete in a very limited way. No sport can compare with it as a real physical conditioner. Gymnastic activities should be the basic part of a good physical education program. Arlington Heights is to be commended on having done so much and so well in this area of sports activity. It is our guess that within 10 years most of the good-sized suburban high schools will have gymnastics and swimming as competitive winter activities. There are none of greater value to the individual.

Palatine Relays Shaping Up

THIRTY-THREE SCHOOLS have signed contracts to compete in the 28th annual Palatine Relays. This number represents just about all the suburban conferences plus a number from regions west and south of Chicago. From the West Suburban Conference will come Arlington, Maine, York, LaGrange, and Riverside-Brookfield. The Chicago City League will have three track powers competing in Phillips, Crane and Dunbar. Carl Sandburg, Reavis, and Brem will come from the Southwest Suburban. Notre Dame and St. Procopius will represent the Catholic Suburban League. Batavia, St. Charles, Naperville, and Sycamore are Little Seven entries. From the Northwest Conference Grant, Round Lake, Antioch, and Lake Forest have been signed to compete. University High of Chicago is a Chicago Private School League entry. East Leyden is the lone entry from the Interim Association. From the North Suburban are Woodstock, McHenry, Crystal Lake, Dundee, Zion-Benton, Libertyville, and Palatine with only Barrington missing from a full league slate. Outside of the suburban area are among the entries: Ottawa, Rochlle, Oregon, and DeKalb. This year no members of the Suburban League are entered due to the Waukegan meet the same day. No members of the Tri-County conference accepted invitations. With the class division between "A" and "B" at 1,200 enrollment, Palatine will, for the first time,, compete in the class "A" division.

Twenty Years Ago

Palatine's cage record for the past three seasons is 53 wins and 10 losses and in the Northwest Conference 24 wins and six setbacks. This past season's record of 16-3 was one of the best in the history of the school . . . Granite City beat Herrin in the state finals 24-22 with a deliberate style featuring Captain Andy Phillip . . . Hebron beat Dundee in the regional but both winner and runner up advanced . . . They went to different sectionals and each won to go to the state. Hebron lost 31-30 in their opener to Lewiston and Dundee beat Rushville 72-47 and then lost to the state champ Granite City team 35-30 . . . The two mile relay will be an added event in the 8th annual Palatine Relays this year . . . Arlington, Bensenville, and Palatine will compete Friday in the Naperville indoor meet.

Ten Years Ago

Palatine has 100 boys out for track and Coach Dick Welty has 12 lettermen to help defend the Northwest Conference title. Lettermen are Paul Loeber, Wayne Ellis, John Morris, John Trenchard, John Waznik, Eugene Anderson, Matt Merfeld, Jim Vogt, Howard Kagay, Dick Ross, Jim Schmidt, and Bill Cipri . . . This appears to be Palatine's best chance to win the Palatine Relays for some time to come . . . Ela is expected to breeze through the Northwest baseball race with both Schwartz and Prouty returning for mound duty . . . This coming summer a high school baseball league will open play with Elgin, Barrington and Palatine in the south section and Woodstock, Marengo, and Hebron in the North division. The writer of "Mac Says" is the league commissioner.

South Jr. High To Defend Title

South Jr. High's defending champions will head a strong field in the fourth annual grade school wrestling tournament Friday afternoon at Prospect high school.

Sponsored by the Arlington VFW, the mat tourney will begin at 4 p.m. in the Prospect high east gymnasium.

Coach Stan John's South matmen will retire the trophy with a victory this year and appear to boast another formidable team, including a defending champion in Arnold Koraith.

Five defending champs will be in action Friday in the battle for individual ribbons and the team trophy. In addition to Koriath of South, Tom Ashley and Jim Stewart of Miner Junior high, Jim Renner of Prospect Heights, and Tom Gates of Elk Grove won titles last winter and will be competing tomorrow.

ASHLEY is shooting for his third wrestling title, capturing the 77 and 83 pound crowns the past two years.

The VFW will furnish ribbons for the first four places in each weight class as well as a team trophy for the winning unit. Schools may not enter more than one boy in each weight class with the divisions as follows: 70, 77, 83, 90, 97, 105, 112, 118, 125, 135, 145, 155, 165, and heavyweight.

Dick Mudge, Prospect high wrestling coach and tourney director, has announced that he hopes for six or seven schools in the meet with several unattached wrestlers also competing. Wrestling coaches at both Arlington and Prospect High schools will be on hand for the tourney.

FANS ARE encouraged to come out and watch the future wrestlers at Arlington and Prospect high schools. The meet has been instrumental in developing a tremendous interest in wrestling in this area and two of the current standouts at Prospect, Bob Trausch and Joe Ortiz, were champs in one of the tourneys.

The definite lineups for the competing schools were undetermined at the outset of the week, but the team rosters will be decided from the following list of boys following elimination bouts.

BREAKING FOUR records, Stan Norman, Arlington Heights junior, was the key figure as the Grinnell College swimming team won its sixth Midwest Conference championship in seven years. Norman broke both the 50- and 100-yard freestyle records in the preliminaries, and lowered them again in the finals with times of :22.9 and :51.9. He also swam on the freestyle relay team that set a new record. Called "Steamer" by his teammates, Norman lived up to his nickname by earning 121 points over the season to pace the Pioneers. A graduate of Arlington high school, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Norman, 634 S. Dryden. (SP

Glenbard West Rules Naperville Relays

Glenbard West took the team title but it was a fleet senior from Sycamore high who stole the show last Friday evening in the 25th annual Naperville Relays.

Bill Smith, an all-state football halfback and Class B 100 yard dash champ in last spring's Palatine Relays, won three individual titles and established the area's best clocking for the 50 yard dash with a :05.5 effort.

Glenbard's Hilltoppers walked away with the team crown, piling up 51 points to runnerup York's 29. LaGrange and Downers Grove, also of the West Suburban conference, finished third and fourth.

AMONG THE area schools Willowbrook compied 8 1/5 points for a tenth place finish and Palatine registered six markers for a tie for 14th. Prospect high gained two points in the Naperville test.

Willowbrook's counters were picked up by Fred Falkner in the 50 yard dash, Leon Zaborowski in the 60 yard high hurdles, Torel in the pole vault, and the eight lap relay team.

Don Smith captured a fourth place in the shot put for Dick Welty's Pirates, and the Class A medley relay team of Bernie Seitz, Dick Sundling, Wayland Campbell, and Gary Nagl finished fourth. Sundling and Nagl are both sophomores .

PROSECT'S 20 lap relay team of Jim Glidden, Rog Luedke, Cliff Stock, and Mike Field ran fifth.

Sycamore's Smith put on one of the top individual displays ever seen in the Naperville meet with his there firsts. Smith, who is sought after by several colleges for both his football and track ability, was running in his first meet of the season last Friday.

A new record in the shot put was established by Hinsdale's Pete Martin who tossed the 12-pound iron ball 55-6, topping Libertyville's Mike Hill, York's Mike Psaltis, and Palatine's Smith who finished in the next three slots.

TOM HAYDEN of East Aurora sailed 22-5 in the broad jump for another outstanding effort. Hayden, who boasted the longest jump in the state last spring, topped LaGrange's sophomore Tom Atkinson for individual honors.

Glenbard picked up four first places on the way to its convincing team championship. The Bards won the 20-lap relay in 7:50.4, the 12-lap event in 4:10.9, and the Class A medley. Dick Carroll won a disputed pole vault event at 12-0, eight inches under his best jump of the season.

Bloom Tops Evanston Relays; Cards 8th

Bloom's defending state champions gave indication that they'll be tough to handle again this spring as they rolled to the Evanston invitational relays title last Friday evening.

Coach Ralph Steben's Trojans won only three of the events but had enough points in the other spots to gain a 6½ point margin over runner-up New Trier, Suburban league champion.

Arlington's Cards collected 12 points for an eighth place finish. Dan Striegel tossed the shot 53-7½ for a second place and both the two mile and mile relay units of Mike Dundy, Tony Stavros, Ron Treabess, and Chuck Phelan finished fourth.

TWO MEET records were broken with New Trier's two mile relay quartet covering the distance in 8:20, eclipsing the old standard of 8:24.3. Bloom's soph mile relay unit established a new record with a time of 3:43.7.

Larry Howard of Proviso East was a double winner with victories in both the 60 yard high hurdles and 60 yard lows. Howard was state champion in the highs last spring.

Weymouth Kirkland of New Trier, cross country champ last fall, turned in one of the top marks of the meet with a 4:38.3 clocking in the mile, fourth best time in the area thus far in the season.

Bloom's team victory was its fourth successive rown

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

New Directory

A rather unique directory has been put out by the Gaines Professional Services department at Battle Creek, Mich. Designed as a handy and compact reference, the directory, titled "Where to Buy, Board or Train a Dog," offers a nationalist of breeding kennels, arranged by state and community, together with the breed or breeds available from each.

In addition to the list of dog breeders, there are two sections for those already owning dogs: boarding kennels and training kennels. Also grouped according to city and state, the listings in these sections describe the specialized kennels.

Each of the three sections features a list of helpful hints on buying a puppy or using the facilities of a boarding or training kennel.

A copy of this useful directory may be obtained free on request by writing to: Gaines Professional Services Department, General Foods Corporation, 275 Cliff st., Battle Creek, Mich., or to the Gaines Research center at 250 Park ave., New York 17, N.Y.

Puppy Pointers

If you are thinking about a new pup for spring, here are a few points to remember. Above all, make sure that you go to a reputable breeder. A few inquiries about breeders of the particular breed of dog you intend to buy will often save a lot of trouble.

Get a puppy that is at least eight weeks old. Make sure that there are no obvious defects. The legs should be straight and the pup should move easily, though a bit of puppy awkwardness can be overlooked.

Good health in the puppy is evidenced by an alert manner, bright eyes and a well-fed (but not gorged) look. The eyes, ears and nose should be free of discharges, and the skin free of sores and blemishes. Regard bare spots in the coat with suspicion. The dogs should not, of course, have fleas, ticks or lice.

Check the pup's hearing by getting around behind him and snapping your fingers or giving a sharp whistle. Find out what inoculations he's had or will need, as well as whether he has been wormed.

If you are buying a purebred dog, make certain that you get registration papers or a signed application for registration from the breeder.

Barks & Bays

It has been said that a dog's bark originated as an attempt to imitate human speech. Considering some dogs, there must be a lot of windbags among them also.

Conceit

There are only three things that no man will believe about himself; That his sense of humor is deficient, that he is not well bred, and that he is not appealing to women. — Sidney J. Harris.

Lots of Coffee

Brazil's coffee output for the 1958-59 crop year of 27 million bags (132 pounds each) accounted for more than 50 per cent of the world's production.

Think small.

Ten years ago, the first Volkswagens were imported to the United States.

These strange little cars with their beetle shapes were almost unknown.

All they had to recommend them was 32 miles to the gallon (regular gas, regular driving), an aluminum air-cooled rear engine that would go 70 mph all day without strain, sensible size for a family and a sensible price-tag too.

Beetles multiply; so do Volkswagens. By 1954, VW was the best-selling imported car in America. It has held that rank each year since. In 1959, over 150,000 Volkswagens were sold, including 30,000 station wagons and trucks.

Volkswagen's snub nose is now familiar in fifty states of the Union; as American as apple strudel. In fact, your VW may well be made with Pittsburgh steel stamped out on Chicago presses (even the power for the Volkswagen plant is supplied by coal from the U.S.A.)

As any VW owner will tell you, Volkswagen service is excellent and it is everywhere. Parts are plentiful, prices low. (A new fender, for example, is only $21.75*.) No small factor in Volkswagen's success.

Today, in the U.S.A. and 119 other countries, Volkswagens are sold faster than they can be made. Volkswagen has become the world's fifth largest automotive manufacturer by thinking small. More and more people are thinking the same. *Suggested retail price

Paddock Team Averages 183 in ABC

Dewitz 188, Hahnfeldt 187, Kouros 183, Perkins 182, Papineau 181 and Perna 179, the team 183.

That's the story of Paddock Publications and Paddock Classic league entry in the ABC tournament at Toledo last week.

The local keglers failed to make the headlines, as did most highly rated bowlers with the pressure and who knows what keeping them from hitting their averages.

The figures quoted are the averages compiled in the ABC tournament, nine games each for the first five men, and six for Perna. Team individual figure is the average for all six bowlers.

IRV HAHNFELDT had 600 in the singles with Leroy Papineau garnering 597. The pair had 564 and 532, respectively, in the doubles.

Buck Perkins notched 577 and Casper Dewitz 555 in singles, with the two of them getting 557 and 574 in the doubles.

Tom Kouros hit 558 and Jim Perna 524 in the singles, with the pair garnering 568 and 551 in the doubles.

Wait'll next year!

That's Papineau, Hahnfeldt, Kouros, Dewitz and Perkins at the top.

Palmer Ties For Third

Bill Palmer, the Illinois Prep high jump champion while at Arlington high school was a point-winner for Northwestern at the recent Big Ten indoor track meet. Palmer tied for third in the high jump.

Although he started slowly, Palmer gradually has begun to regain the championship form of his high school days, and is expected to be a leading contender for conference outdoor honors this spring.

Snack Shop Gains On Martinetti's

Connies Snack Shop continued its chase of league-leading Martinetti's in Paddock Classic traveling league Saturday night, shortening the Barrington team's margin to just one game. Beverly cooperated by playing dead as Connies came through with 966, 940 and 910 victories. Pentane Gas did its part, too, in taking two of three games from the front-runners.

Tony Sasso led the way for Connies in the position round at Barrington Ten Pin with 237 and 607. Frank Graff of Palatine helped with a consistent 201-210-200-611 series. Dave Catherwood of Arlington Heights was tops for Beverly with 585.

PENTANE GAS came through with two wins from Martinetti's, including a 673 by Ernie Koche of Hoffman Estates. Ernie opened with 190, moved up to 226, then finished with 257. The team opened with 968, 23 pins short of the 991 by Martinetti's.

GRAFF

Pentane then followed with 1003 for a 3002 series. High for Barrington was Roy Papineau with 605.

George Stone led the way for James Stavros with a 258 and 673 performance, as his team won a pair from Tommy Thomas' Casablanca by shooting 1043 and 1011. Casablanca won the third tilt with 1063, after shooting 957 and 991 but going nowhere.

HEALEY

This week James Stavros will play host to Martinetti's at Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling, and Connies-Des Plaines will travel to Arlington Heights to meet Beverly Lanes. The Pentane Gas - Casablanca match has been postponed until April 2 because of conflict with ABC date for Pentane.

Inflation Cited As Major Threat

Jack Moss, divisional manager of the Financial Industrial Fund associates inc., discussed "investing in mutual funds" in a program March 21 before three business education classes at Prospect high school.

"Inflation is the biggest problem facing the average American who wishes to accumulate capital for future use," stated Moss, who has offices at 11 N. State rd. in Arlington Heights.

He pointed out that in the past 60 years, the purchasing power of the dollar has declined 70 per cent, and that in the last 20 years, 50 per cent of the dollar's buying power has been lost because of inflation and taxes.

Moss also used a film strip entitled "Thinking about Tomorrow Today" to emphasize the need for sound financial planning for the future.

HE OUTLINED a four point program involving the questions of time, emergency funds, the amount a person can invest from capital and income, and the investment that is suited best for a person's needs.

A sound financial plan will include adequate insurance protection, emergency funds in readily liquid investments, and a long range program involving mutual funds, Moss explained.

Arrangements for the mutual fund discussion were made by William Mitchell, chairman of the business education department of Prospect high. (B8

Modern Etiquette

Q. How long a time should properly elapse before answering a letter?

A. Of course, prompt replies are the surest and most interesting ways of handling correspondence — but this puts a strain upon the other correspondent. Perhaps setting an evening aside every week or two to reply to letters is advisable, in order to space them so that they are neither a boomerang nor a stale accumulation of a month's activities.

Executive Urges Aid to Hospitals

More industry and corporate support for community hospitals was urged as an important civilian defens e measure by a top executive of the Ford Motor co.

Pledging aid of the Ford Motor Co. to the financial campaign of Gottlieb Memorial Hospital being built in the west suburbs, Robert B. Brandenburg, Ford d e p o t manager of the Melrose Park plant, stressed "the obligation of businessmen to back community hospitals, not only to provide better medical facilities for their employes in surrounding areas, but also to help in decentralizing hospitals as part of our federal civilian defense against enemy attack."

BRANDENBURG t o l d a meeting of suburban business leaders: "In case of a sneak attack, it's better to have hospitals spread around rather than in one easy-to-hit center and the Federal government has strongly recommended steps for hospital decentralization. If Washington took steps to decentralize hospitals, there no doubt would be protests against Federal interference in local matters. Therefore it's o u r job as businessmen in every community, in every suburb to take steps to spread out our hospitals and provide excellent medical facilities in outlying areas around b i g cities."

The Ford executive cited the Gottlieb Memorial hospital being constructed at 800 W. North Ave. in Leyden Township as an "excellent example of the type of medical institution we need a s part of the decentralization move." Recognition of Gottlieb as a critically-needed facility has come from t h e Federal government in i t s designation on a priority list for Federal Hill - Bur t o n funds.

"But the prime obligation for community hospitals such as Gottlieb lies with adjoining industrial plants," Brandenburg noted. "Our support is but a step in helping ourselves and the Ford Motor Co. recognizes this, not only by supporting Gottlieb but also giving financial aid to other hospitals in the west suburbs such as the DuPage hospital in Elmhurst. We believe in supporting as many hospitals as the community needs, rather than just one.

"ASIDE FROM the n e e d for decentralizing medical facilities, we also recognize that better hospital care in the immediate area around our plant provides an added reason for our employes to live near our plant. While we provide medical and surgical insurance to our employes, this insurance is valueless unless there are hospital facilities nearby. We h a v e found that the dire shortage of hospital beds in the west suburbs has often meant that employes have had to wait from three days to three weeks for medical facilities, depending on the emergency of the case.

"Failure to help financially on new hospital construction cannot be described as anything but short-sighted. Certainly a new hospital adds much to our community resources and helps to increase residential and commercial property values in the surrounding area. From that purely selfish reason, every businessman in the west suburbs should get behind the drive to complete the Gottlieb Hospital financial campaign.' " (BB

A HAND-MADE MODEL of the famous German monorail suspended train will be on display at Benj. Allen & Co., Arlington Market, Arlington Heights, until the end of March. The original of this famous train was built in Wuppertal, Germany, just after the turn of the century. The city is situated in the beautiful but narrow valley of the Wupper river and has little space to spare for conventional tracks and roads. The train was designed to use the open space over the river. In the past 59 years, the monorail train has carried an average of 58,000 passengers daily. The gay yellow cars have traveled nearly 110 million miles with no accidents. Each car is propelled by two motors and has a seating capacity of 65 persons. Between stations, spaced approximately 3,000 feet apart, they reach a speed of 16 mph. Cities all over the world, searching for a solution to their traffic problems, have experimented with faster versions of this monorail train. Experimental trains are running in Tokyo, Seattle and Dallas. San Francisco and New Orleans are also considering the installation of a suspended monorail system. Shown with the model is D. K. Hale, manager of Benj. Allen & Co. store at Arlington Market.

Import Fair Opens At Allen Stores

All the excitement and drama of a foreign bazaar have come to Park Ridge and Arlington Heights this week with the opening of the big Import Fair at the Benj. Allen and co. store in Arlington Market, Arlington Heights, and the Flagg's store in Village Green, Park Ridge.

"Our buyers have spent months getting together this collection of over 100 unique items from 14 different countries," said D. K. Hale, manager of the Arlington Heights store.

"To add to the exotic atmosphere, dozens of foreign consulates, travel associations, shipping lines and airlines have contributed special displays and exhibits for the big Import Fair," Hale said.

VISITORS to the Fair can see a replica of the largest cut diamond in the world, the 516½ carat "Great Star of Africa," which is part of the exhibit of the B r i t i s h Crown Jewels on loan through the courtesy of British Overseas Airways corp. They will be shown in Park Ridge on March 25 and in Arington Heights on March 26.

A $5,000 working model of the famous German monorail train will be on display at the Arlington Heights store throughout the Fair. This is the same train which is currently being considered for the New Orleans and San Francisco elevated systems.

"Many items will be demonstrated," Hale said, "to show the suburbanite the exciting merchandise available from overseas. We invite everyone to come in and try out the new imports such as the non-electric British vacuum cleaner. While you're here, you can enjoy a cup of Italian espresso coffee and party snacks grilled on a Japanese hibachi."

Other participants will be Dr. Howard Shomer, president of Chicago Theological seminary, who will discuss the Congregational and Presbyterian emphasis; and Dr. Dwight Loder, president of Garrett Biblical Inst i t u t e, who will discuss the Methodist and Episcopal emphasis. (BB

Now Is Time to Prune Evergreens

"Now is the time to do your heavy Evergreen pruning, just before or as growth is starting in the Spring, not so much to help form the end buds but more important, it helps them to outgrow the trimmed look much quicker and makes a bushy compact plant," said Jack Hill, Manager of this country's largest evergreen nursery in Dundee.

Evergreens as a group need less pruning than other plants. This is true with the needle-leaf evergreens. They need little more than shaping.

SOME EVERGREENS do not branch out readily, especially the Spruce and Pine. On these plants it is important to do your serious cutting after new growth starts, or when it is in the early stages. Then new buds have a chance to form, and dead shoots will not die back because of missing growing points.

Arborvitae, Hemlock, Yews and Junipers may be trimmed lightly any time of the year, other than late Fall or Winter.

Flowering and berry-bearing plants must be handled differently. Plants that go to dormant period with their flowering buds already formed, like the Forsythia, Quince, and Lilac, should be cut immediately after bloom.

Many people confuse shearing with pruning. Most of these operations give a different look to the plants. Shearing will give your tree a haircut like a hedge. Pruning involves more work and judgment, and the results will be far more natural looking. Shearing often gives your plants that bald-headed look while the longer process of pruning will give that softer look.

TO PRUNE, take a pruning shears or a knife and slightly cut off all the branches you have decided should be eliminated. Some of the branches like the Pines or Spruces, and Firs produce shoots in clusters around the ends or branches. To prune these bush out taller, remove the central bud after it has begun to grow. You can do this year after year without harm. If you wish to stop a tree from growing taller and grow wider, cut off the top leader.

If you have a special problem, drop in and see Carl Krause, Dundee Evergreens, 628 N. Main st. Mt. Prospect. He is a graduate landscape expert from Michigan State university.

Concession Center Set for Drive-In

The $50,000 cafeteria-style snack shop, centrally located, will have two sets of double doors at either end of the building designed to efficiently and quickly accommodate 1,000 people during the fifteen minute intermissions. The 100 ft. x 80 ft. concrete block building will also house the projection room, storage space for food and pastel-colored tile rest rooms.

ATTRACTIVELY equipped with stainless steel fixtures and adorned in pastel colors, the concession building was designed by Chicago architect Benjamin Stein and will be under the supervision of Irving Davis company, concessionaire.

Twenty employees will dispense a variety of high quality foods including spaghetti and meat balls, pizza, barbecued b e f, hamburgers, french fried potatoes, hot dogs, chili, candy, ice cream, soft drinks, and pop corn.

THE HALF million dollar 53 Outdoor Theatre is located on a 24 acre tract designed to accommodate 2000 cars on a year-round basis. Films will be first-run and direct from Chicago's loop.

H. Schoenstadt and Sons, Inc., theatre owners and operators for over fifty years, are entering the outdoor theatre field for the first time. Arthur H. Schoenstadt, president and chairman of the board, says: "We have entered the outdoor theatre field because of our firm faith in the motion picture business. People everywhere seek good entertainment under pleasant, well-supervised management and this is the type upon which we operate." (BB

Brand New Volkswagen For the Oldest

The 500,000th Volkswagen to be imported into the United States will be presented to the owner of the oldest Volkswagen now in operation in this country, according to Carl H. Hahn, vice president of Volkswagen of America.

To be eligible, the veteran "Beetle" must be in running condition, have its original body, be owned by a private individual not associated in any way with the manufacturer and have been registered in one of the 50 states or the District of Columbia as of January 1, 1960 by its present owner. Actual age of the car will be determined by its serial number.

Mr. Hahn pointed out that the search was not a contest but a special tribute to early VW owners.

"There are no jingles to write, no box tops or facsimiles to send in," he said. "The owners of vintage Volkswagens will be required to file a simple entry from with their local authorized dealers. Closing date is April 20."

The first Volkswagens were brought into the United States by returning G.I.s. Through their enthusiasm a strong demand for the car developed before there was any formal marketing set-up in this country. The first two brand new Volkswagens were officially registered in the U.S. in 1947. More than 60,000 were registered in 1954, and by 1955 registrations had exploded to nearly 30,000. Sales in 1959 were 229,422 passenger cars and 30,159 trucks and station wagons.

Jubre Promoted

He is a certified public accountant and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a bachelor of arts degree in accounting.

To Be Honored By Institute

Elchaker, a representative of the Stanley Works, will be honored for outstanding work on the membership committee. His efforts have helped in making the Chicago chapter the leading chapter in the United States.

Commuters' Protest Puts Off Railway Fare Increase

An eleventh hour protest by some 300 commuters has put off temporarily and possibly permanently a flat 7½ per cent fare increase for the 40,000 riders of the Chicago and North Western railway.

The Illinois Commerce Commission Thursday suspended the higher tariffs, which the railroad wanted placed in effect on April 1. This means more hearings will be held at which the railroad must submit additional evidence supporting a case for higher fares. The commission also will hear from anyone else who wants to present anything, pro or con, said Forrest B. McElroy, commission examiner who will conduct the hearings, to be scheduled, in Chicago.

THE CASE WAS opened March 10 and then closed after a quiet 90-minute hearing with only six commuters voicing complaints as they cross-examined the only witness put on by the railroad, Larry Provo, a C&NW vice president and controller. The half-dozen riders did not submit any formal evidence to document a case against the increase now.

But this apparently was the quiet before the storm, for in the next few days upwards of 300 protest petitions and letters from commuters turned up in the mail not only at commission offices but also at Gov. Stratton's office.

The petitions, one page mimeographed sheets, complained that trains have been running late and that the improvements in suburban service, promised when the railroad won a 24 per cent fare increase in December, 1958, have failed to materialize.

THE PETITIONS said, in part: "We experience one delay after another during the round and outbound from five minutes to an hour each day, and the service is much worse than it was before the trains came into being, cold in winter, no water or washroom facilities, etc."

There were 284 of these petitions sent in by commuters from 38 towns strung along the C&NW's suburban line, north, northwest, west.

Crystal Lake led the list with 80 complaining riders, followed by Cary with 44, McHenry had 34, Elgin's 31 and total from other cities and small villages.

Wonder Lake 9, Prospect Heights 1, Woodstock 9, Barrington 4, Fox River Grove 12, Palatine 8, Lake Zurich 12, Wauconda 1, Mount Prospect 1, Lake-in-the-Hills 1, Algonquin 11, Carpentersville 1, Mundelein 2, Elk Grove 1.

Jets Came To Area Year Ago Tuesday

The jet age in Chicago and the suburbs started began one year ago Tuesday.

On March 22, 1960—Palm Sunday morning - and American Airlines' first jet airliner, the Flagship California, arrived at O'Hare international airport from New York enroute to San Francisco as the first regularly-scheduled pure jet plane to serve this area.

That evening, American's first Flagship Illinois made the first scheduled eastbound flight from San Francisco to O'Hare, then on to New York.

Schedules have grown since. As American has increased its 707 operations to daily (nine arrivals, nine departures) and as other airlines started 707 and later DC8 service at O'Hare.

Chicago has enjoyed a staff of 23 persons at O'Hare when the service started last year. Now there are 470 American employes assigned to the airport.

Seven airlines operating pure jets at O'Hare—American, Braniff Continental, Delta, Eastern, TWA and United-have a combined fleet of 72 Fa ntas and DC8 operations here. Inking for service this month are Northeast, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington airlines through

Series To Explain U. S. Farm Laws

First In A Series

The laws of the United States are in a set of books known as "United States Code." The same laws are also in another set known as "United States Code Annotated," which in addition contains digests of court cases where federal law is involved. For example, the famous Butler case declaring the processing tax in the 1933 Agricultural Adjustment act unconstitutional is summarized briefly.

Laws in the U. S. Code are divided into 50 "Titles" extending from "Agriculture to "War and National Defense." Title 7, "Agriculture," contains most but not all of the laws of direct importance to agriculture. (For example, there is a title on "Conservation," and the laws on farm credit are contained in Title 12, "Banks and Banking.")

TITLE 7, "Agriculture," contains more than 1,000 pages and 55 chapters ranging from "Naval Stores, Insecticides, and Peanut Statistics" to "Halogeton Glomeratus Control." Some of the chapters of most importance are "Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges," "Cooperative Marketing," "Agricultural Marketing," "Agricultural Adjustment," "Price Support of Agricultural Commodities," "Crop Insurance," and "Soil Bank Program." A recent addition contains laws on "Humane Methods of Livestock Slaughter."

After Congress adjourns, new laws are added to appropriate titles of the code and it is thus brought up to date. During 1959 for example, Congress adopted, among others, the following laws which will be added:

THE FEDERAL Crop Insurance act was amended to provide that insurance shall not be available in any county if the board of directors of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation determines that income from the commodity to be insured constitutes an unimportant part of the total agricultural income of the county.

The Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide act was amended to include nematocides, plant regulators, defoliants and desiccants within its labeling and marketing provisions.

An amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment act states that, starting with 1960, if the farmer plants 75 per cent or more of his acreage allotment during the current crop year, or either of the two preceding years, it will be treated as though he had planted his entire acreage allotment for the current year.

AN ADDITION to the Soil Bank act provides that the producer under the soil bank program who has received no payments or a lesser payment than was anticipated, due to good faith reliance on erroneous approval of his contract or erroneous advice concerning the contract by a soil bank representative, may receive such compensation as the Secretary of Agriculture deems fair and equitable.

The Bankhead-Jones act provides for loans to farmers on family-sized farms who cannot refinance their existing loan indebtedness with private concerns at reasonable terms. The Act was extended to June 30, 1961.

The Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance act, provides for sale of surplus agricultural commodities to be given to friendly people in emergencies. It was extended to 1961.

Articles that follow in this series will explain and discuss these and other laws.

Annuals Are Easy To Grow: Expert

New home owners can launch a first-season flower garden with a minimum of time and money by selecting annuals for spring planting.

To get these flowers off to a good start, G. M. Fosler, University of Illinois floriculturist, recommends applying a mixed fertilizer, such as 4-10-4 or 5-10-5, to the soil once before planting. This single application is usually sufficient, although a second in early summer is sometimes needed. Too much fertilizer, however, may reduce the flowering of some annuals, such as marigolds and nasturtiums.

MOST ANNUALS may be planted outdoors from seed as soon as the soil has warmed up. In Illinois these dates vary with the geographic location from south to north. Suggested outdoor sowing dates in Illinois for most annuals are: southern, April 15; central, May 1; northern, May 15.

Some hardy annuals, such as bachelor buttons, larkspur, scabiosa and snapdragons may be planted earlier. Suggested dates for these are: southern, March 15; central, April 1; northern, April 15.

For earlier blooms, set out well-started plants as soon as frost danger is past. These [illegible] be grown from seed indoors or in a hotbed a few weeks before the normal outdoor planting date. Many people, however, prefer to buy plants for early bloom and sow seed in the garden for later blooming.

IF YOU SOW seed of annuals outdoors, thin the rows when the seedlings are 1 to 3 inches tall. The plants that are taken out can be transplanted to other spots in the garden. Plants that are too thick do poorly, especially in dry seasons.

Distance between plants in the rows should be roughly half of their height when blooming. Zinnias, for example, should stand 8 to 16 inches apart after thinning if their ultimate height is 2 feet.

Local Girl 1 of 4 Top State 4-H'ers

Four of Illinois' top 4-H Club members will represent the state's more than 71,000 4-H'ers at the 30th National 4-H Conference in Washington, D. C., April 23-29.

The Illinois delegates are Audrey Gronert, 19, Arlington Heights; Marlene Douglas, 20, Karnak; Howard Herrmann, 19, Dunlap; and David Winkelmann, 19, Ashland.

Selection to attend the National 4-H Conference is the highest honor a 4-H member can earn, explained Frank Mynard of the state 4-H staff.

Mynard said Illinois delegates were chosen for the high qualities of leadership they have shown, their outstanding achievements in 4-H club work and the active part they have taken in project and community activities.

Four outstanding delegates from each state attend the National 4-H Conference each year. Features of the trip include educational tours to historic places in and around the capital city, visits with top government officials and a full schedule of discussion meetings.

Mrs. Alice Hare and Frank Mynard, members of the state 4-H staff, will accompany the Illinois delegation as state 4-H staff representatives and chaperons. (FM

'WAY BACK WHEN'

Compiled by Mrs. G. Rex Volz, Phone CL 5-9078

50 YEARS AGO

March 25, 1910

Bensenville:

Horse thieves are busy again having stolen a fine horse from H. H. Duntemann Monday night. Henry belongs to the Horse Protective Assn. and special detectives are looking for the thief.

Arlington Heights:

Proceedings have begun in the formation of West Wheeling Drainage District No. 1.

In our interview with some of the citizens living within the proposed district they claimed that in many parts of this district farm values can be made double; that some of the land in the district is now practically useless for fun purposes; that when the district is formed and the land properly rained all parts of our community will be benefitted. There will be less stench, less mosquitos and better crops.

Palatine:

Toynton Soda Fountain will be opened for the season Sunday. Ice cream, both brick and bulk, will be available.

40 YEARS AGO

March 26, 1920

Roselle:

Adolph Meyer has received his big Nash Six touring car from Gaare & Melzer.

Liesberg & Ollmann's Garage was broken into Sunday night and the thieves took A. Roloff's Ford which was there for storage, and also many Ford accessories.

The Farmers-Co-Operative Marketing Co. at their regular meeting elected the following seven directors: Walter Nerge, H. H. Bartels, Fred Ehlers, Sam Meyer, Wm. Pauling, Henry Wilkening and John Rathbun. They will incorporate under the name: Roselle farmers Cooperative Elevator Co. with a capital stock of $40,000.00.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at Lombard, Saturday evening when Miss Frieda Geils became the bride of Mr. Walter Haberstich. They will start housekeeping in the Aug. Shariau flat at Roselle.

Schaumburg

One of the creamery jacks took a fall out of C. H. Meyer last week by giving him more than 2¾ percent kick. C. H., after limping several days is recovering nicely. He vows that the proper place for that mule is in northern Michigan.

Palatine:

Mr. Ferdinand Tegtmeier, born in Germany May 31, 1839, came to America in 1856 and settled in the vicinity of Palatine, where he resided until recently, then he went to the Old Soldier's home in Danville. He died of old age, March 20 a good 82 years. In 1862 he enlisted in the Union army and served thruout the Civil War. He married Sophie Bruns. To them were born nine children. In 1884, several years after the death of his first wife, he married Helena Mavis who died in 1912. Surviving are nine children: Charles, Mrs. Emma Roth, John, Wiliam, Henry and Fred, of Chicago, Mrs. Louis Peterson and Mrs. Anna Seliger of Milwaukee, and Mrs Sophie Wilson of Palatine, 16 grandchildren. The remains were brought to Palatine for interment.

Arlington Heights:

Mrs. Emma Scherf, who was an invalid several years died in her home in this village, March 19. She was born in Germany Feb. 18, 1846, married to Henry Dubberlien. Five children were born to this union, all of whom have died. In 1869 the deceased came to America, and October 1879 was married to Henry Scherf. Three children born to this union, all survive: Mrs. Hendietta Schmidt, Chicago; Mrs. Emma England and Chas. Scherf of Arlington Heights. There also remains to mourn their loss, a step son, August, and three grandchildren.

Mr. Carl Segebrecht died Thursday March 25. He was born in Germany, coming to America with his family in 1872, settling in the vicinity of Arlington Heights. Four children were born, two of whom preceded their father in death. There remain to mourn a son, Carl Segebrecht, a daughter, Mrs. John Schulenberg, eight grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. Mrs. Segebrecht died in 1908.

Mr. Martin Shoenbeck and Miss Elsie Wichman were married at the Lutheran Church, Saturday, March 20th.

30 YEARS AGO

March 25, 1930

Arlington Heights:

Federal officers raided the old Herman Kehe farm north of the Arlington Park subdivision, about 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning. They found a 1000 gallon alcohol recooker in operation, two men asleep on pieces of burlap beside the steam boiler, and a thirders, five gallon cans, tanks, and filling apparatus were located.

One more teacher will be needed in the Arlington High School next year, according to the carefully estimated increase of pupils. There are now sixteen teachers. Returns from questionnaires sent to fifteen schools which annually sen eighth grade graduates to this high school, indicate that there are 138—8th graders expecting to graduate in June. Probably 96 will enter high school, beside six to ten from non high school districts and some who may move to Arlington Heights. It is safe to say there will be 315 to 325 pupils for the next year.

Our honored Civil War veteran, Mr. Robert Reed, celebrated his 91st birthday Sunday, March 24th, in his home East of town. A group of thirty relatives and friends gathered in the old Reed homestead to do honor to the occasion. Eight representatives of the Women's Relief Corps of Des Plaines brought a beautiful and massive flower arrangement. There were eight grandchildren and one great grandson in the party.

It was the greatest storm in the history of the weather department in point of snowfall and disruption of transportation service, that gripped Chicago and its suburbs Tuesday and Wednesday. The storm started Tuesday morning and by evening of that day had blocked a great many autos and snowed in many trucks on main highways. There was no cessation of snowfall and as the northwest blizzard continued to roar until Wednesday noon, efforts of snow plows to open highways were fruitless. Within an hour after the plow cleared a path the drifts were as high as ever. Cumberland between Mt. Prospect and Des Plaines proved to be the waterloo of great fleets of milk trucks which were not moved until late Wednesday night and Thursday morning. The caterpillar tractors of Milburn Bros. at Mt. Prospect came to the rescue of many trucks in that neighborhood. Public service tried to restore electric service, but were not successful and the town was without lights Tuesday and Wednesday. Many commuters didn't get home Tuesday night, and those who did, didn't go into Chicago Wednesday.

Hints To Home Owners

by

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

Many new subdivisions are using silver (soft) maples as shade trees along the streets and in front yards. These trees are susceptible to two insect pests which can be very unsightly and can even destroy new trees.

Red or green wart-like growths (galls) on the leaves are signs of infestation by bladder-gall mites. The mites overwinter on the bark of the trees and in early spring migrate to the leaves where they stimulate the formation of the galls. In each gall, many mites live and feed protected from outside elements. It is doubtful if galls associated with these mites cause enough damage to justify spraying large trees, but small trees struggling for a start will benefit by spraying.

Malathion applied at the time the buds are swelling but before the leaves appear in spring will give effective control. Spraying after the galls are formed is useless.

THE SECOND pest is cottony maple scale. It is usually noticed in early summer during the time the females are laying eggs. The egg masses look like popcorn strung on the branches and are quite conspicuous.

Infestations are occasionally heavy enough to kill branches and even small trees. The female overwinter on branches or twigs. In spring she lays eggs that hatch in July.

The young scales migrate to the leaves where they feed and secrete honey dew which drips down on objects below. The insects mature in August, mate, and the female crawls back down to a branch for winter. A dormant oil spray before the leaves appear will give good control of this insect. Spraying at the time the eggs hatch may also be necessary in the case of heavy infestation. (BB

Q. How do you introduce one person to a large group of people?

A. Introduce a newcomer quite informally by simply saying, "Jim Johnson, everybody" - in which case no one would rise, and Jim would be left to his own devices to discover the names of those he'd like to know. Or, you can introduce him to each person in turn. The men rise to shake hands, and the girls merely acknowledge the introduction with "How do you do," or "Hello."

Q. My wife and I have received an engraved card from distant relatives, announcing their golden wedding anniversary. What obligation does this impose upon us?

A. Your only real obligation is to send them a message of congratulations and good wishes.

Q. My husband and I were guests at dinner in some friends' home recently and, in order to help my hostess, I stacked my used dishes as I finished eating out of them. My husband says this was incorrect. What is the answer?

A. Your husband is right. Always leave your dishes as they are when you finish eating.

Q. Is there any rule of etiquette governing the length a marriage engagement should be?

A. No. However, long engagements are not so common today. The usually accepted length of an engagement now is about six months.

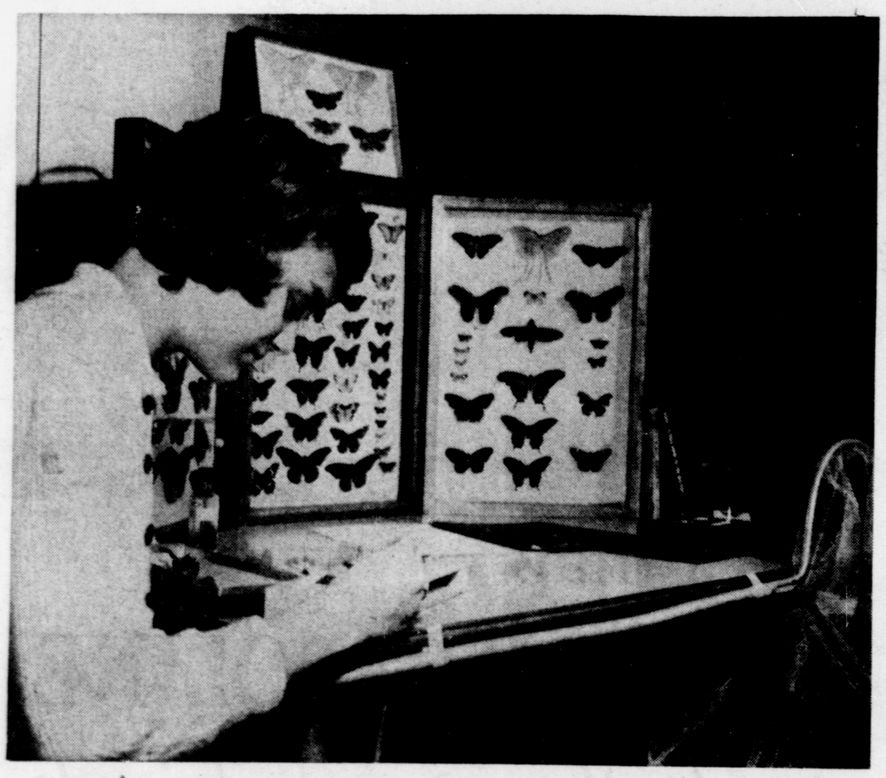
JUDGES STAN KNODLA and Roy Meillier pause over Chip Harris' exhibit of a low speed wind tunnel—one of the more recent air age scientific testing grounds. Chip is a Winston seventh grader, who took third place in his school's fair recently.

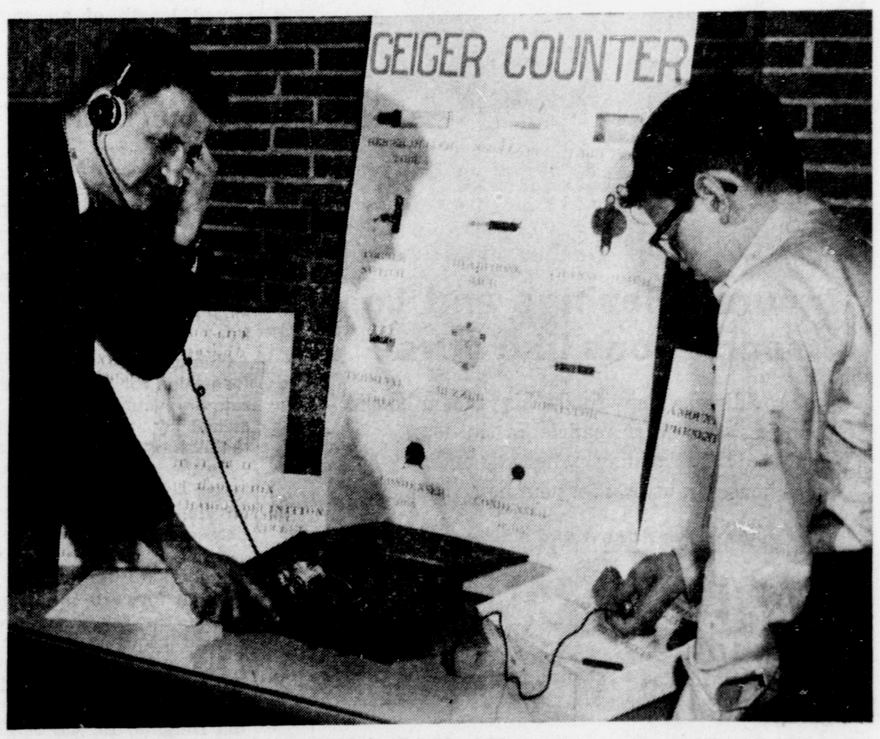
JUDGES MEILLIER and Knodla pause over a sixth grade contribution, "The Telephone, Our Transmitter." They then awarded it a second for the district. Boys who made the exhibit are Pleasant Hill students Bradley Olsen and David Noonan.

AN EXTENSION of her seventh grade physiology class is shown by Debbie Trimble, a Paddock student. Debbie took second place for district seventh graders. She stands here with the intricate inner ear tissues that maintain body equilibrium.



SUE PETERS' butterfly collection won her first place for the district for eighth graders. Sue, an Oak st. student is shown here with the many varieties she collected, the all-important net, books she read for her exhibit, and some of the materials she used to mount her catches.

A MOST COMPLEX sounding subject, "Identification through Vaporization of Metals," was Robert Noonan's choice for a science fair contribution. Robert is a Paddock eighth grader, who took second place for his grade in the district. Science seems to be a Noonan family trait. David, a 6th grader, took a district second with Bradley Olsen.



INTERESTED IN following the trail of radioactivity, Leonard Fabian, a Salk school seventh grader demonstrates a geiger counter to Salk principal and organizer of the fair, Joe Kiska. Kiska has also helped organize and direct a science curriculum committee for the district. Members of the committee are junior high teachers David Swehla, Jack Thorson, Don Reik, Warren Holz, Donald Dinse, Rita Faughman, and Marilyn Thacker.

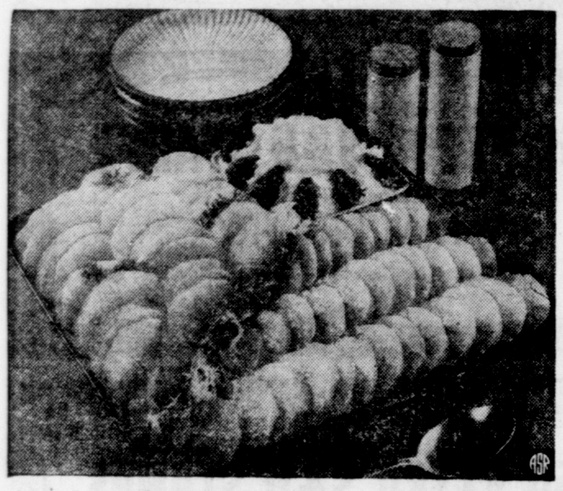
Seasonings For Salads

Finely chopped herbs, such as basil, tarragon and dill, give subtle flavor to salad greens, according to a University of Illinois home economist.

A Slim Dandy Salad Rich In Vitamin C



A good cure for premature spring fever is a liberal dose of vitamin C, administered in a most pleasant manner. The prescription calls for a light and refreshing serving of Florida grapefruit sections and orange slices with cottage cheese and strawberries.

Besides being a tonic, our Slim-Dandy salad is good for weight-watchers. Citrus is low in calories yet rich in vitamin C and other food values and, of course, cottage cheese is high-protein food. Such a salad makes a satisfying yet non-fattening lunch. Florida grapefruit and oranges are plentiful and tasty this time of year. Seeded or seedless grapefruit are good for sectioning; either kind are juicy and good. Valencia oranges are superb for salad-making.

Spring Salad

Chill Florida grapefruit and and oranges before preparing. Cut off slice from top. Cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Then cut slice from bottom. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. For grapefruit, cut along side of each dividing membrane. For grapefruit, cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove sections. For oranges, cut into ¼-inch slices. Arrange on salad greens; serve with strawberries and cottage cheese.

Successful Homemaking

Busy Homemaker Serves Buffet Of Shrimp: Easy Company Fare

By LOIS SEILER

When planning a company dinner the mother of six lively children must make many preparations in advance.

And personable Mrs. John D. Sullivan of Arlington Heights does just that, not only of necessity, but because she likes to enjoy her guests, too, without spending hours in the kitchen after they have arrived.

One of her favorite menus to serve on such occasions is a buffet dinner featuring Curried Shrimp.

This appealing and flavorful concoction is the center of attraction when served from a chafing dish surrounded by six bowls of condiments. The condiments are used as toppings for the curried shrimp; one may pick and choose or try them all.

MRS. SULLIVAN'S favorites are crumbled bacon, hard cooked eggs with the whites and yolks grated separately, flaked coconut, chutney, chopped nuts (pecans, cashews or almonds) and one fruit. She prefers spiced apricots or kumquats, although pineapple chunks may be used. Chopped green onions may also be substituted for one of the above condiments, if desired.

The curried shrimp itself is easy to prepare and is better if made the day before so that all the flavors may blend together. Mrs. Sullivan simply re-heats it and serves it from her chafing dish over Minute rice. Even the leftovers are delicious, and the dish freezes well, too.

As accompaniments Mrs. Sullivan serves a green salad with a mild Italian or French dressing and a hot bread.

BECAUSE THE main dish is quite rich, she prefers a simple dessert such as sherbet or fresh fruit particularly pineapple and strawberries, when in season. With it she serves homemade cookies, and surprisingly enough her favorite cookie recipe is one which is also a favorite of Mrs. Robert Bandelow of Prospect Heights and was featured in last week's issue: Chocolate Shot Oatmeal Cookies.

AS YOU CAN SEE, almost everything can be prepared in advance for this tempting meal, with little last minute fuss. That is half the secret of being a gracious and successful hostess such as Mrs. Sullivan, who, as a mother of six, can still manage to serve a delightful dinner and enjoy it, too!

One of the favorite dessert recipes of this good cook is a Lemon Refrigerator Cake which is simple to make and delectable to taste. Because it is very light and slightly tart, it is particularly good with a rich or heavy meal.

This lemon cake is made in a refrigerator tray, but Mrs. Sullivan prefers to double or triple the recipe and freeze it in a spring form pan. It is very pretty unmolded on a cake plate and garnished with mint leaves.

The cake slices beautifully and is excellent to serve for coffee parties, especially during the summer months when a cool, refreshing dessert is desired.

IN ADDITION to her interest in cooking, this busy homemaker is active in several organizations. She is a member of St. James Women's guild, the PTA, helps out in the Girl Scouts, belongs to an afternoon bridge group and is chairman of the dinner committee for the Community Concert association. Both she and her husband belong to two dance groups and are active in the Stonegate bridge tournament.

The Sullivans live at 211 Stratford in Arlington Heights. Their children are: Gail, 12; Nancy, 10; Tommy, 8; Jacqueline, 5; Kevin, 4, and Victoria, 3.

Curried Shrimp

- 4 pounds cleaned shrimp
- 2 cups medium cream sauce
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup
- ½ soup can milk
- 1 can consome
- 1 heaping tablespoon catsup
- Dash of Worcestershire sauce
- ½ teaspoon curry powder or more to taste

Cook the shrimp. make the cream sauce by melting 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan. Blend in two tablespoons flour and gradually add two cups milk. Cook, stirring constantly so that no lumps form, until sauce is of the proper consistency. Add the remaining ingredients and the shrimp and heat thoroughly. Cool and store in the refrigerator, preferably overnight.

Re-heat before serving and spoon over cooked rice. Serves 6 to 8.

Recommended condiments to serve as toppings for the Curried Shrimp are:

- Crumbled bacon
- Hard-cooked eggs, whites and yolks grated separately
- Flaked coconut
- Chutney
- Chopped pecans, cashews or almonds
- Chopped green onions
- Spiced apricots, kumquats or pineapple chunks

Lemon Refrigerator Cake

- 3 eggs
- ½ cup sugar
- Rind and juice of one lemon
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 2/3 cup vanilla wafer crumbs

Separate eggs. Mix yolks with sugar, lemon rind and juice. Cook over hot, not boiling, water until thick as heavy cream, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and cool. Beat egg whites until they stand in peaks.

In a separate bowl, beat whipping cream until it holds a shape. Gently stir the cooled lemon mixture into the beaten egg whites. Fold in the whipped cream.

Sprinkle one-half of the vanilla wafer crumbs in the bottom of a refrigerator tray. Pour in the lemon mixture and top with remaining crumbs. The recipe may be doubled or tripled and made in a spring form pan.

Freeze for several hours or overnight; the single recipe serves four generously.

If the cake is made in a spring form pan, unmold it on a cake plate and garnish with mint leaves.

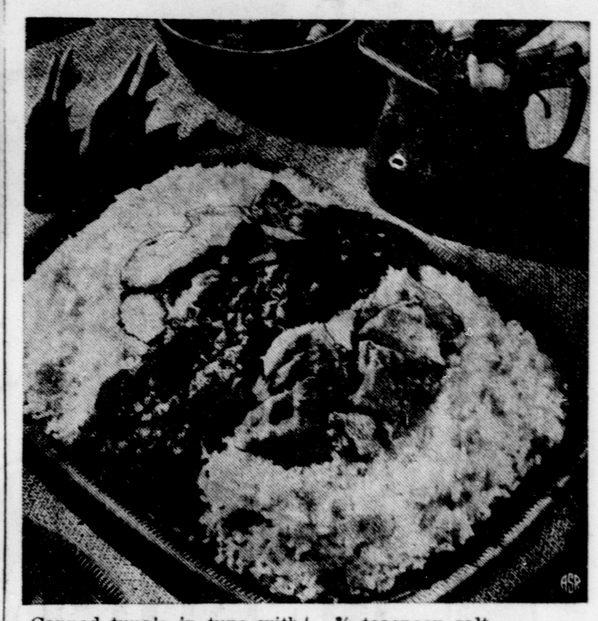
Creole Tuna Tops In Flavor Appeal



Canned tuna's in tune with young Americans. They go for its flavor in sandwiches and salads. They will approve of it creole style since here tuna is combined with onion, green pepper and chili sauce, condiments familiar to every pizza and hero sandwich fancier. The tuna creole with rice also offers main dish variety to family Lenten menus.

Tuna Creole With Rice

- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-oil
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup diced green pepper
- 3 tablespoons flour
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1½ cups milk
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Drain tuna oil into saucepan. Add onion and green pepper and cook until onion is tender, but not brown. Add flour, salt and mustard; stir to a paste. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in chili sauce and tuna; heat. Turn rice on serving platter; spoon tuna mixture in center. Yield: 4 servings.

Canned Soup Lenten Magic

Let canned condensed soup work magic for you during Lent. For a lunch time treat serve one of the meatless varieties . . . black bean, clam chowder, cream of asparagus, celery, mushroom, or vegetable, green pea, tomato, tomato rice or vegetarian vegetable, with a grilled cheese or peanut butter sandwich. Or for a hearty chowder combine two of the soups; follow with a fruit salad.

BESIDES the use of soup as soup, consider the many possibilities offered by canned condensed soup for casserole, skillet, and creamed dishes. Combine soup with seafood, or eggs for Lenten meals that will give a welcome variety to menu patterns. A seafood treat that is always popular is deviled crab, try this version made with canned condensed cream of celery soup.

Deviled Crab

1 can (10½ ounces) cream of celery soup
1 cup flaked cooked crab (or 7-ounce can, drained)
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worchestershire
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs

Combine soup, crab, green pepper, onion, lemon juice, Worcestershire, and mustard; spoon into 4 small buttered baking dishes. (Clam shells are nice for this.) Sprinkle crumbs over crab mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes 4 servings.

Serve along with the main dish a salad, crisp lettuce and slices of tomato and an assortment of hot rolls. For a finishing touch — a canned fruit compote, cookies and hot coffee.

Add Molasses To Milk Drink

With modern America's year long supply of fruits and vegetables and vitamin D enriched milk, a bitter potion of sulphur and molasses is no longer needed to alert the body after a winter shortage of vitamins and minerals.

That's why molasses today can be enjoyed solely for its energy-giving, sweetening and flavoring values. The type of molasses called "unsulphured" is the concentrated juice of sugar cane. No chemical preservatives are in it. It contains all the natural sugar, iron and other minerals and vitamins found in cane. Molasses is an outstanding source of iron needed to build good red blood.

For a taffy milk drink . . . with unsulphured molasses providing flavor and iron . . . stir a tablespoon of the sweet molasses into a glass of milk. The accompanying Molasses Cart Wheel cookies are giants in size, crisp, and delicately spicy.

MOLASSES STILL a spring tonic . . . A spring tonic for spring sport enthusiasts comes in the delicious form of molasses cookies and taffy flavored milk. Aromatic, sweet, unsulphured molasses is both an energy food and rich source of iron.

MOLASSES CART WHEELS

1 cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup unsulphured molasses
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon ginger
¾ teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in egg and unsulphured molasses. Sift in flour, salt, soda and spices; mix well. Chill in refrigerator 1 hour. Roll out 1/8 inch thick on lightly floured board or pastry cloth, keeping remaining dough chilled. Cut with 3-inch cookie cutter. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 10 minutes.

YIELD: 3 dozen cookies.

Dacron Linen

Tablecloths, place mats and napkins made from Dacron or blends of Dacron-cotton or Dacron-rayon are popular with this year's brides. Dacron earned this popularity because it requires little or no ironing.

But Dacron does have one major disadvantage, according to Jane Werden, home economist at the University of Illinois. It has a great affinity for oils and oil-borne stains.

Salad dressings, gravies, butter, whipping cream and fried foods are common table "linen" stains. Since all contain oil, stains made by them are hard to get out of Dacron fabrics.

HOWEVER, if you decide that the easy-care properties of Dacron balance this disadvantage, you'll appreciate Miss Werden's advice on recommended methods for removing the stains.

For oil-borne stains on Dacron, use a solvent, such as carbon tetrachloride or Energine, while the stain is fresh, and then launder immediately.

If the stain remains after laundering, try soaking the cloth overnight in a solution of Calgonite or Electrosol. (Use 1 cup of either compound to 1 gallon of water in an enamel or plastic pan.) Then wash as usual.

Calgonite and Electrosol are highly alkaline dishwashing compounds. The alkalinity helps to dissolve the oil so that the dirt held in the stain can be washed out. Use both products cautiously. Do not keep your hands in the solution for a long time, and avoid splashing it into your eyes.

The Way We See It

Local Police Forces Can Pool Resources

While the theory behind a metropolitan police force for Chicago's suburbs is generally agreed to be sound, most area residents are justifiably reluctant to share local control of law enforcement with a political organization.

There is, however, a need for better communications and cooperation between our local departments.

The rise in crime accompanying the booming growth of the northwest suburbs makes law enforcement an increasingly complex business. Yet the slipshod methods of record keeping employed by some of our departments and their reluctance to share information or call upon a neighboring department for assistance are anything but businesslike.

In most instances, the only means a department has of knowing what's going on in another baliwick is to pick up its radio calls. And the information that comes over the radio generally gives only the barest details.

There is no question that several crimes could have been solved more readily had the investigating officer of one community had the records of other area municipalities at his fingertips.

Ideally, a central records bureau for the area would be desirable. Arrangements for a common reporting system and location and space for the records could be worked out by area village officials. Short of this arrangement, a common reporting system could be adopted and copies of all major crime reports be distributed to departments throughout the area.

North Shore communities recently entered into an agreement whereby their police departments may call upon one another's resources. Such a practice should be encouraged among our area departments.

There have been instances when Chicago was called upon for assistance when a neighboring community was equipped to give the same aid. This applies to such things as fingerprinting, photographic equipment and laboratory facilities and personnel with particular investigative skills.

Many of our departments have different weapons at their disposal. One local chief possesses the only lie-detector in the area.

An inventory of varying equipment and skills possessed by area departments could be compiled and distributed for reference when the occasion so demands.

April 12 Is Important Date for All Citizens

Any primary election is important, but the primary of April 12 holds more than the usual importance for the people of Illinois and of this community.

Whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, you should be asking for the primary ballot. If you are one of the increasing number of citizens who consider themselves as "independent," then express your independence within the primary of one of the two parties.

There are three most important decisions to be made in the primary on April 12:

1) In the Democratic primary, a battle is going on over whether the Chicago political organization can control that party's primary. Stephen A. Mitchell, former Democratic national chairman, and Joseph Lohman, state treasurer, are challenging Otto Kerner and the Chicago organization in the Democratic primary.

2) In the Republican primary there are six candidates for the nomination for U. S. Senator and two candidates for the nomination for Governor. If you're a Republican, you should be studying what these men stand for and then pick the best of the candidates.

3) In the primary of both parties you will be selecting the delegates to the national conventions. Unfortunately, under the Illinois system of selecting delegates, it is usually not clear who the delegates are supporting. But despite that fact, the primary is the place where presidential candidates are narrowed from a field of many to the final two. The big decision is made in the primary.

All of this means that the primary on April 12 is in many ways much more important than the general election. Civic groups would do well to encourage their members to vote in the primary. And you who read these words should vote yourselves and encourage your friends and neighbors to vote.

Northwest Suburbs Must Unite to Protect Interests

Cook county's new zoning ordinance was raked over the coals last Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the Northwest Municipal conference in Arlington Heights.

County Commissioners Charles Chaplin and Wiliam Mackler Jr. led the attack, characterizing the new code as "thoroughly, inherently bad, completely disregarding the rights of the suburban people."

The two commissioners turned a second attack on Andrew Dallstream, chairman of the county zoning board of appeals and president of the village of Barrington Hills, who made a lacklustre attempt to convince the audience the ordinance should be allowed to stand, and that all changes should be made through amendments.

Chaplin and Mackler repeatedly pointed to provisions in the code which permit the sale of liquor in eight business and manufacturing district classifications, and to other provisions which permit the zoning director and each of the county commissioners to submit any parcel in the unincorporated area for rezoning without giving a reason.

Chaplin, in effect, accused Dallstream, of selling out to the Democratic interests in putting his board's stamp of approval on the ordinance before it was submitted to the commissioners for the fatal vote.

At the close of the meeting the representatives of the eight conference towns decided to appoint a special committee that will determine what action they will take to fight the passage of the code.

Palatine, Arlington Heights, and Mount Prospect indicated they would be willing to fight a suit through the Supreme court. The other towns indicated they would be willing to listen to any proposals made by the special committee.

We were gratified to see, at last, the towns of the northwest suburbs united in a fight to what may be the finish with Chicago's political machine.

We have watched the big city force its ways on the suburbs for many years. The recent 10 to 4 passage of this zoning code is but a continuation of hundreds of similar votes in the past. The 10 to five ratio of city to suburban commissioners on the board is unrealistic and grossly unfair to the suburbs.

Commissioner Chaplin, at last week's meeting, said he was positive that no more than three of the Chicago commissioners had bothered to read the zoning ordinance. If this charge is true, the whole procedure becomes even more ridiculous.

Last week we attacked the Democratic majority for cramming this ordinance down the suburbs' throats.

This week we would like to urge these same suburbs to fight this travesty on their rights all the way to the Supreme court, if necessary, to protect their interests.

Commissioner Mackler puts it this way:

"They (Chicago's politicians) have chased everyone from Chicago to the suburbs with their legislation. Now they're going to chase us back."

Dear Son . . .

So You Want To Be a Writer

by JIM PHILLIPS

Dear Jimmy:

So you have decided to become a writer, my son—good for you! The world needs writers—but moreover, the world needs writers who think. If you intend to write, write with thought, conviction, and truth. This is strictly a father's advice, but since you asked for my ideas, I'm happy to give them to you.

So you have decided to become a writer! I can remember when I made such an important decision. I was in grade school as you are now, and I was anxious, full of spirit, with a mind that was electric with ideas. Most of those ideas didn't materialize. Why? Because at first, I probably didn't have enough faith in myself.

TO LIVE YOUR success in writing, my boy, always have faith in everything you put down on paper. Say to yourself, "This will be my best." And believe it! For if it is not, you'll know right away—there is a conscience in writing, too.

To call yourself a writer is not enough. There are too many people who claim to be writers; there are not enough people who are writers. As you go through those wonderful years of high school and college, you will learn more and more about writing. Your English teacher will tell you that your stories need grammatical corrections; your Rhetoric instructor will explain the importance of plot; and your literature professor will show you the reasons behind the success of some of the world's great literary contributors — but — you alone must think!

Before you become a writer, you will be laughed at, told to, scoffed at, gossiped about, and kidded—all by people who wish they had an interest in some one important thing; a goal to be reached; a mountain to be climbed. Pay little attention to their jibes, but don't put yourself above them. Be humble and grateful for the desire God has put within you.

Before you become a writer, you must learn to accept other ideas, balance them, work with them; you must also be patient with the people who give you these ideas.

AS IN OTHER professions, you will find the following things popping up now and then: jealousy, thievery and distastefulness.

Jealousy is the evil which befalls the writer who has somehow failed to cope with his weakness. He then denounces the works of others, therefore denouncing himself. Recognize your weaknesses, son; seek them out and conquer them.

Thievery is always present as a temptation. If you plagiarize, you are admitting that you have no ideas left, and you have failed as a writer.

Distastefulness is the idol that the "weakened" writer worships. It is the fad that comes with an insecure society. My boy, anyone can write filth. You see it on billboards, alley walls, sidewalks and factory fences. There are times when you see it in books, motion pictures and other media. It is my firm belief that God did not give man a hand, a mind, a pencil and paper so that he could create evil. You are strong in pen when you create goodness on paper.

YES, I THINK you've chosen a fine future for yourself, and now that you've made that choice, go to it! Write, write, write, write, write! Give the world that youthful life you hold in your hand! Give us all that comedy relief our tired minds need; let us read those young, vibrant philosophies; bring us back into the world that you and your young friends seem to fit into so well.

And if you need assistance, encouragement and understanding as you struggle to fulfill your life's ambition, your mother and I will be right here—living your yoys, feeling your sadness, but always living you for your decisions.

Yes, my son, the world needs writers—never fear—but more than that, the world needs writers with thought, faith, love and truth. Write with those things in mind and you will be a writer in every sense of the word!

Love, Dad.

Illinois' Secret Government

By CHARLES HAYES

The fundamental concept of democracy is government of, for, and by the people. A well-informed electorate is essential to the operation and preservation of such a government.

Unless the voters know ALL the issues in government, and know ALL their representatives, the democracy is just a little less. A free access by a free people is necessary to maintain free government.

"We need government which operates in a goldfish bowl," declared the former Democratic national committeeman. "That means that frequently those who hold public office must risk more criticism than if the operation were secret. This is what makes it so comfortable for public officials to find some excuses for keeping things from the public."

Our constitutional lawmakers foresaw this necessity for developing an informed citizenry when they guaranteed the historic freedom of the press.

A STATE LAW passed in 1957 reaffirms this basic right provided by the federal constitution—the people's right to know the people's business.

But posing the question—do the people have a right to know?—leads directly to another—to know WHAT?

The "what" was the focal point of a controversy in the last session between literal and liberal interpreters of the 1957 law. Did the legislature intend to open all functions of government to public scrutiny, including village board committee meetings?

As a result of this debate, the legislature approved a bill in the last session which would have made committee meetings of all tax-supported bodies open to the public, if those committees have the legal power to take action.

When government operates openly, the public becomes interested and inevitably involved in the decisions. And this is what government should be — the product of the many, not just the few.

UNFORTUNATELY, Governor William G. Stratton disagreed with this philosophy. He vetoed the legislation with the simple statement that it was not needed. And, unfortunately, there was not a storm of protests to this action.

The people's "right to know" has been a growing problem at all levels of government. The citizenry, however, has become so accustomed to secret government that there is little, if any, grass roots concern over the "ugly cloth of secrecy."

A candidate in the gubernatorial primary election has nevertheless raised the issue in his campaign. He has declared that secret government is one of the little-known major ills which afflicts Illinois today.

STEPHEN A. Mitchell, Democrat, last week charged that the whole tone of government in Illinois is steeped in secrecy.

"We need government which operates in a goldfish bowl," declared the former Democratic national committeeman. "That means that frequently those who hold public office must risk more criticism than if the operation were secret. This is what makes it so comfortable for public officials to find some excuses for keeping things from the public."

He didn't restrict his demand for open government to just the state level but added that municipalities and school boards should also carry on their activities in the public eye.

"Generally speaking, public officials are not put on-the-spot enough," he explained, "and if you don't know what's going on, it's even more difficult to put them on-the-spot."

He admits that the mood of the state is such that an issue as basic as secrecy in government does not arouse voters. "Citizens can become hardened to almost any evil, and this may be one which they almost take for granted."

NEVERTHELESS, Mitchell feels its importance can hardly be overstressed.

He urges a seven-point program:

1) Public accounting of income and expenditures of political parties;

2) Passage of more adequate right-to-know legislation;

3) Full and adequate statements about income and expenditures of lobbyists in Springfield;

4) Public disclosure of campaign income and expenses by candidates for state and county office with sensible limits on spending;

5) Arousing public interest in government;

6) Give the governor power to establish investigative commissions as New York and New Jersey have; and

7) Conduct the office of governor in a goldfish bowl.

CONCLUDES Mitchell: "Democracy means that the people help to make the decisions. They can make sensible decisions only if they are informed. Secrecy in government means that the process of democracy must operate in a fog, and this is what political and syndicate bosses like."

I hope Mitchell's program will find favor among other Democrats as well as among Republican legislators. My only regret is that other candidates for public office—at the village as well as the state level—do not perceive the people's right to know as clearly as Candidate Mitchell does.

Area Suburbanites Join in Peace Pleas

By WILLIAM DULANEY

Though northwest suburbanites are removed by over 3,000 miles from the negotiations for a nuclear weapons test ban going on at Geneva, coming events in our area link many of us with peoples around the world who fear the arms race is entering the home stretch and is destined to end in "The Big Bang" unless the negotiators succeed.

With France preparing to explode its second nuclear weapon, and the People's Republic of China preparing to join the "atomic club," a more appropriate time could not have been chosen for Dr. Linus Pauling's address Tuesday, March 29, at the Evanston Unitarian church.

A long time foe of nuclear weapons testing, the distinguished scientist and Nobel Prize winner will speak on "Geneva: Turning Point for Peace."

THE controversial chemistry professor who presented a petition to the United Nations signed by 9,000 scientists from around the world urging the halting of nuclear weapons tests, will speak under the sponsorship of the North Shore Committees for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

The following evening, March 30, at the Prospect Heights Community church a documentary film will show how 5,000 people in England — laborers, teachers, students, housewives—marched 56 miles from London to the British nuclear arsenal at Aldermaston to protest the testing and stockpiling of nuclear weapons.

"March to Aldermaston" will be sponsored by the North Shore Citizens for Peace, several of whose members live in the northwest suburbs.

Representatives of the American Friends Service Committee, an organization that shared the Nobel Peace Prize in 1947, will be on hand to describe activities planned for Week for World Peace, April 11-16.

THE "WEEK," sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee and the Fellowship of Reconciliation, will be observed at the time of Easter and Passover throughout the world. In the Chicago area it will consist of a peace rally, poster walk, leaflet distribution, and a 40 mile walk for peace from Great Lakes Naval Training Station to Chicago's Loop.

Last year I was one of 250 volunteers who distributed leaflets and joined in a poster parade through the Loop. I intend to do so again next month.

Led by Congressman William Meyer (D. Vt.), the peace rally and parade were noticeably absent of the unshaved, wild-eyed anarchists I'd half expected to encounter.

MIDDLE CLASS housewives, stooped septuagenarians, neatly dressed students, and here and there a family group could be seen passing out leaflets and later shouldering posters bearing peace slogans to march in the parade. Each was required to pledge himself to non-violence throughout his participation in Week for World Peace activities.

I was later asked by a friend if I enjoyed making a spectacle of myself. No, I found the curious stares of shoppers and office workers embarrassing.

But if embarrassment is what it takes to lend a sense of urgency to disarmament negotiations, then it's a small price to pay.

Palatine High Is Good School

After reading various criticisms in the Enterprise recently — of the Palatine schools, it was most heartwarming to see two fine letters in defense or rebuttal written by Brian Olsen and Tom Sabin, students at Palatine high.

Why is it so difficult for parents to offer a bit of praise, rather than criticism of their school system? Any good school system welcomes constructive criticism for as a result of such, comes progress, but derisive and spoilsport criticism is negative and therefore destructive.

I CANNOT speak of elementary or junior high level, but at the high school level in answer to the letter of the critic of "music taking precedent over physical education," it just isn't so. Physical education is required and is given every day, while music is an elective. As new residents of the area, we have been delighted with the physical education program which is well-rounded and certainly offers everything possible to combat the physical softness of the "sitting" generation; to develop a fine body also. In contrast to many other areas of the nation, which have gym only twice a week, this is daily program.

As for music, if any school system is to be worthwhile and to progress, it must constantly strive to offer an expanding program; one which will offer a choice of subject matter to suit individual taste. To not offer music in a school system would be no more fair than to eliminate painting for the prospective artist, poetry, drama, literature from the English course (they are all fine arts in the broad sense) or yes, even math for the prospective engineer!

In speaking of doing something "about educating the whole individual"—the whole individual is educated (if his mind is constantly an open one) by exposure to every type of learning possible.

And as for the "small group demonstration of music," in this day of constant headlines concerning murder, corruption, the glorification of the military service of one Elvis, the hero worship of "Put-upon" Jack Paar, a little exposure to the cultural value of music or any of the other arts, certainly should be refreshing for students and not harmful.

WE FEEL that Palatine high is a good school, scholastically and otherwise. Every school system needs to be constantly striving for improvement, and therefore needs the backing and constructive help of all parents. So let's count our blessings and help broaden them; not deride because of a special pet peeve or interest of our own.

In closing, may I say that I am not an educator, music is not my special interest, nor am I experienced in writing letters for publication. Am just a parent who believes most sincerely that we, as a parental group, should do our best to help our school system benefit all children and students.

Count Your Blessings

Count Your Blessings, we have a fine police and fire department here in Rolling Meadows, along with many other fine things and many fine folks, including Jim McTeggan, who is at hand when our furnaces go pop.

I have just returned after a 6-day confinement in Northwest Community hospital with pneumonia, and I want to say thanks for a fine hospital in our community. The kindness and love I received from all the nurses, nurses aids and everyone else was just wonderful.

Those beautiful rooms really cheer one up, and, well, I could go on and on because I am very happy to have such a fine hospital so near.

Businessmen Need Business

I agree advertising is generally regarded by the American public as a method for generating mass sales that moves our mass production and contributes to our high standard of living.

And I also agree signs, identifying places of business, are generally considered to be a form of advertising. Their primary purpose is to attract attention so the buyer will come in and shop.

I DO NOT agree that the Palatine business man should be restricted or handicapped to a lower or sub-standard method of advertising than the average American community.

Claims of changing Palatine into a veritable neon jungle of honky tonk varieties has been made more than once by members of the Plan Commission. Was that true last December when there was a flashing of Christmas trees and decorations? Did the "Seasons Greeting" neon sign on the parking lot, the flashing crosses on the churches, the illuminated cross on the Palmolive building advertise anything connected with a honky tonk, Rush Street, or Las Vegas?

The place of business, the variety of merchandise, the class of people are the main causes and reasons for undesirable neighborhoods and business districts. The sign supports and promotes the product and the business, it does not create it.

Where will the Plan Commission find a Village, Town or City that does not permit flashing, illuminated signs with no moving parts?

DO THEY consider all the towns in the surrounding areas with flashing signs honky-tonk towns? Does the Plan Commission realize or care that the Palatine business man is in need of business? Have they been in town after dark? Does any member of the Commission have to depend on the consumer for his livelihood? Do they realize that if there isn't any business there isn't any need for signs?

What sign in the business district interferes with a traffic light? When or where did a business sign cause a traffic accident? How many accidents or near accidents have been caused because a driver could not read a sign or number that was either not large enough or bright enough?

The proposed amendments to the sign ordinance in no way class Palatine different than any other American so-called quiet residential community. Not to amend the ordinance could bring about a so-called quiet business district.—A DEAD ONE!

Post Office Location Bad

I read with interest the letter in your issue of March 3 about the location of the post office and parking problems.

Some months ago I wrote the office of the Postmaster General, calling attention to what would seem to be poor judgment in the selection of a site for our present post office. The "form" reply was not very satisfactory.

A SECOND letter sent through Mrs. Church, our representative in Congress, received more attention. Among other things, the reply stated that parking for patrons is provided in the property. The information from the local post office is that patron parking extends as far back as the building, probably four or five parking spaces. One of these spaces is reserved for an employee who is a veteran.

The letter from the Postmaster General said that many favorable comments about the post office had been received. Apparently mine was the only complaint, though I have heard many expressed.

It sometimes seems that those who provide the funds for these public facilities through taxes have little consideration when the money is spent (in our case, for rental).

Encourage Ice Skaters

Regarding a recent announcement from the park district of their plans to build a $200,000 artificial skating pond, I would like to contribute the followng.

1. Skating has been on the decline in the U.S. and the Chicago area in particular, mostly because of a lack of facilities.

2. Our need is not a small artificial pond such as the one proposed. It is of no value to speed skaters and will not aid in development of Olympic contestants except perhaps in figure skating. Even figure skaters have difficulty on crowded ponds.

3. THE LOCAL park district is not maintaining present facilities properly. After weeks of continuous sub-freezing weather, and the nights were consistently around zero, there was no skating at Recreation Park and exceedingly poor conditions at the small Pioneer Park pond. No attempt was made to clear off snow and flood Recreation Park pond, even though ideal conditions prevailed through the latter part of this winter. This for years was the only pond in Arlington Heights and is at least twice the size of the pond at Pioneer Park. It could do much to relieve crowded conditions there, and possibly provide a place for speed skating. It is notable that the only Olympic skaters from this area were from Northbrook where this sport is encouraged and facilities are provided.

4. The Forest Preserve district has good ice facilities at several nearby locations if they could be prevailed upon to clear the snow from the ice. I noticed extensive use of the Deer Grove pond until the heavy snow fall early in February. Before seriously considering the proposed artificial ice pond, I recommend maintaining the present facilities in a way that would encourage skaters to come out. Then find out what they need and want.

He Compares Vote Records

The voice of Bi (Silent Smith) White, being heard in the last issue of the Rolling Meadows Herald, who in four years as an alderman, (and a defeated candidate for Mayor in the last election), never to my knowledge had one word to utter in a council meeting, for or against any of the Resolutions or Ordinances, but who did vote in a definite pattern; any one interested can check his voting record in the minutes of past council meetings, and they will show that, in my opinion he voted as directed.

A COMPARISON of voting records on some vital community measures can be checked and will indicate the following:

1. I voted against the reduction of lot sizes from 10,000 sq. ft. to 7,800 sq. ft., while Mr. White voted for the smaller lot size. In my opinion smaller lots were contrary to a program of good planning, this opinion being supported by the present Northwest Community Planning Committee consisting of the following Cities and Villages: Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Barrington, and Barrington Hills.

2. Mr. White's political compatriot, Mrs. Robert Sales, voted violently against the issue of awarding a contract to the Victor Trucking Company for the City's scavenger service. I had previously been appointed as chairman of the original investigation committee regarding this matter and indicated that our city could better receive a share of the profits from this service rather than dumping them all in the hands of a private scavanger service. Proof of this finding is evidenced by the City Treasury being enriched by $4,500 for the first 5 months of this contract. On this basis the city can entertain an income of close to $10,800 per year. As you may recall Mr. Sales attempted to promote the establishment of a "Garbage Dump" in our city's Park area. This was his answer to the garbage problem.

3. I FOSTERED the investigation of the connections to our water and sewer system by builders in adjacent unincorporated areas and found that one builder was making connection without payment to the city. This has since been corrected by the new city council and we now require a $100 fee for each service connection.

4. I was accused of "promoting private interest above community welfare in the dispute over location of the Little League baseball field" on Cardinal Drive. Mr. White as a member of the Council voted with me on this issue and favored a resolution which I presented agreeing with the right of the Little League organization to play on this site. If supporting such civic organizations as Little League, which provides for the welfare of our children, is considered private interest, Mr. White had better re-read the record, for in this instance he supported the same "private interest" . . . our children.

MY APPOINTMENT to the zoning board of appeals by Mayor Woods was challenged by Mr. Sales. These were the reasons for his opposing my appointment. I was an active member in a Union, Little League, the Knights of Columbus, and the Holy Name Society. I hardly think that I need go into a defense for my interest in these activities for they are a direct right of a citizen of this country as provided by the constitution of the United States. I can't imagine what Mr. Sales considers an asset in selecting a board member. Perhaps Mr. Sales can't either.

In reference to Mr. White's statement on "puppets" elected to city government; are we to assume that he is striking at the political party system by applying an unfortunate term to party affiliation? I certainly hope not.

Perhaps we should question Mr. White's reason for managing the campaign of a candidate for a political party.

Mother Hails Ice Rink Plan

More power to our park board in considering and, I most sincerely hope, in erecting an artificial skating rink.

Arlington Heights sorely needs something of that kind for its younger, and even older generation. Those who have children, and particularly teenagers, are well aware that we offer so little in the way of diversion for them. We have the show house, but after all, all dates can't be show dates. Skating is wonderful for them, as well as a diversion. Roofed in, the rink could serve us well all year round.

THE financing, as mentioned in your article, sounds very logical. With a bond that could be retired thru revenue taken in at the rink, there certainly should be no complaints as to taxation, etc. from three residents who are not interested in such a project.

As I said, more power to the park board.

Fence Post Mail Welcome

Letters to the Fence Post should be brief and concise. All letters must be signed, but names will be withheld from publication on request. No anonymous letters will be considered for publication. Churchman Hits Critics' Abuse

As a churchman who has personally been disturbed by the recent outbreak of vitriolic abuse against the National Council of Churches following the ridiculous Air Force Manual issue, I have taken the trouble to collect a file of material pertaining thereto. (This file is currently in the hands of Paddock Publications for their study, and they are free to make whatever use of it they see fit.)

While a detailed report of this material in a letter such as this is not possible, the following information should be kept in mind by intelligent persons who are concerned over whether or not Communism is speaking through the NCC or its member churches:

1. The NCC has on many occasions clearly shown and witnessed its strong opposition to atheistic and materialistic Communism.

2. The voices that accuse are voices that are in opposition to all forms of cooperation between churches and therefore the NCC; which is a co-operative agency for 33 denominations. Incidentally, the accusation of Communism in the NCC and American churches which was made in the Air Force manual, was based on three pamphlets produced by such dissident groups.

3. The following churches, organizations and personalities, that form the backbone of much of the power for good in America, have felt the mud and brick-bats of these voices: Congregationalist church, Episcopal church, John Foster Dulles, Methodist church, Presbyterian church, United Nations, the World Day of Prayer Movement, League of Women Voters, the Quakers, National Parent Teachers Association, Roman Catholic church, Union Theological seminary, Franklin Clark Fry (president, United Lutheran Church).

THE IMPLICATIONS are clear. The voices of discord are:

1. Accusing in the face of documented innocence.

2. Trying to dishonor churches with whom they are in disagreement by associating them with a scape-goat (Communism).

3. Broadcasting their accusations, and bringing under suspicion, churches, organizations and people whose tireless loyalty to spiritual, social, political and economic freedom is a matter of record.

Pays Tribute To Humble Man

In reference to the article, "High School Pay Battle Dropped," Mr. Pearson criticized one of the high school board members, who has been in education for 50 years, because he supported every wish of the administration.

From my association with this man, I am sure he has always expressed his views with integrity and in the best interest of education. Possibly, he has voted on so many issues, while on the high school board for 27 years that he has learned to respect the judgment of the administration which is closer to the problems than the board of education.

MR. PEARSON, your criticism of a man who has board for 27 years sounded very much like the college freshman who returns home with answers to all social, economic, and religious problems. Instead of criticizing him, maybe we should honor, "Mr. Education," a man who for 50 years has unselfishly devoted his services to the best interests of his community.

Yes, Mr. Pearson, "Corsages Once a Week," but to a humble man who has given his best in the interest of Palatine Township high school.

Registration Campaign Aid

We were sorry to read in your column this week that Mrs. William Ziske of Prospect Heights did not know where to register to vote. I am sure she now realizes, from the calls she has received, that notices regarding registration have appeared in various forms in the Paddock Publications.

For the past two and a half months, many efforts have been exerted in the registration of new residents, so they can exercise their voting privilege on April 12. The Paddock editorial "Why Register For the Primary?" was excellent as well as other feature items you presented. We also want to express our appreciation to the Churches of our area, including Prospect Heights and Mt. Prospect, as well as Arlington Heights, who reminded their membership of the registration dates, through their bulletins.

LAST BUT not least, goes our many thanks to Mrs. Mildred Pearson, Arlington Heights Village Clerk, who scheduled several evening registration dates. We are advised that one night over 100 persons registered, and all told, more than 1,000 citizens were registered from January 1st, at the Arlington Heights Village Hall. Many hundreds more were registered at the Mt. Prospect Village Hall and through the Wheeling Township registration.

The registration rolls are closed, so we now advance to the next phase in our democratic form of government—the primary election—and we hope once again we will have the full cooperation and interest of our community Churches, civic and service organizations in joining us in urging their membership to vote on April 12.

Our Voter Service Chairman, Mrs. Louis Nye, CL. 3-3430, as well as other League members, has background material on every candidate. If additional information on these persons is desired, we will be happy to supply it to you.

Urge Stiffer Laws on Food

It is comforting to know that someone is taking some interest in our "today's" food; at least someone who the public will make notice. I am referring to March 17 article "How to Depress Appetite."

When I speak about adulterated food I am taken as a nut quite often. Thousands of individuals share, my opinion, but we are too few to do anything but I do hope that someday, and may that day be soon, that laws are re-enforced and we the public can be confident to live a healthier, happier life.

Miner School Problems Cited

Belloc is credited with the following quotation, "It is the business of man to discover reality, and having discovered it, to hand it on to his fellows."

I have just recently discovered reality and I feel it is my business to pass it on to you.

The purpose of this letter is to apprise you of a stuation which exists at the Miner Junior high school.

THE SITUATION

Children eating lunch at school, either by necessity or at the suggestion of the school, are forced to spend that portion of their lunch period not ulilized in the cafeteria, in the gymnasium. Here they are given a choice of either dancing or watching others dance. They are not permitted to leave this room.

QUESTIONS

Why should the children be forced to go into the gymnasium during their free time? If the school can provide a dance floor and music for those children who want to dance, why cannot the school also provide a study room for those children who wish to study?

Why are the children denied the privilege of going outdoors for some fresh air during their free period?

What procedure or practice has the school instituted, if any, to provide for a safe and orderly exodus from the gymnasium in the event it becomes necessary?

Has any health body been contacted relative to the advisability of keeping approximately 200 children in one room?

COMMENTS

Children in grades one through five at the Windsor school are permitted to go outdor during their free time. I cannot understand why this priliege is denied the children at Miner

I believe it is wonderful that a school can provide a dance floor and music for those children who want to dance. I do not believe that other children, during their free time, should be forced to stand around and watch these children dance.

I believe that social dancing, like religion, is for the home to decide, not the school.

I believe the practice of providing benefits for some children and not others is discriminatory.

I believe the practice of forcing children to go into the gymnasium during their free period is coercion.

I believe that schools are provided only for the benefit of children and not for taxpayers, School Boards, Administrators, Teachers, Janitors or parents.

I believe this situation warrants your investigation. If your findings indicate that what I have said to be so, and if you concur with my beliefs, I am certain you will correct the existing condition.

Other schools faced with the same problem have resolved it in favor of the children. Iso eldbnnaacto—e children. It can also be done at Miner.

This letter is not written by an irate parent. My child is not involved in the situation. I'm just a poor dope who believes that schools are provided only for the benefit of children all children.

Quotoons

Some popular songs must have nine lives, just to survive the week or two that they do.

Staying at home becomes the most enjoyable experience of all when you turn down ten invitations to do it.

Married men usually tell the truth because they've been well-trained never to tell a lie by their wives.

A divorce usually results when the bonds of matrimony no longer bear interest.

The best kind of experience comes from trying to do the impossible, and succeeding.

An old timer is one who can remember when it didn't take a management-union committee several days to fire a man.

When a young man gets married he should check all his personal belongings for old love letters before his wife does.

Park Districts Are 'No Good'

Itascans, as well as Medinah voters, spoke their minds at the polls March 12 and definitely said, "We want no parks." But still the die-hards mean to persist. They plan another (thorough, this time) canvass of Itasca residents and a Judge requests a recount of ballots, the latter, an added expense to the taxpayers.

Evidently canvass 1 made prior to the March 12 vote was incomplete. Too bad the voting expense was undertaken.

An $8 per $10,000 assessed valuation sounds reasonable enough. However, this is not the whole story. During the nearly 10 years of my residence here we have had demonstrated all kinds and several of "only" $8 or $10 per $10,000 assessed valuation deals for one purpose or another. What we need is more singleness of purpose to get the schools, situation well in hand. As if the latter were not enough of a problem what with the very small membership assigned each teacher. All these little $8 and $10 tax parcels soon mount up to a very large bundle to be shouldered by Mr. T. P.

THEN, TOO, it seems to me $15,000 a year is not sufficient for land purchases and operating expenses. Then what? A cry for a bond issue to create more community indebtedness. So again it is up to Little Mr. T. P. to pay.

"For our children's sake," "to prevent Juvenile Delinquency," "to provide things for them to do," "won't let youth down" are all familiar slogans and expressions of the day. They tug at your heart strings.

But please let the boys and girls exercise some of their own creative ability. Give them a chance to do so. Here the fathers are knocking themselves out after a hard day's work when Johnny would much prefer to play his own games. Then every boy would have a chance to play — for the fun of it and not necessarily for the win of it. Competition seems to be among dads — not lads. Complaints have been made by parents of boys who are not given a chance to play because the competing fathers want winning players only. Hard feelings are the result. Children's do mend in time but animosity remains among the adults.

THE SWIMMING pool project is another thing. We are not only swimming in, but over our heads now with the tax flood. And will Itasca's water supply be able to take it?

Oh, for wisdom and prudence among our so-called leaders to deal with the hopes and aspirations of a community! Among this ambitious and power-seeking minority there will always be those who are not satisfied unless living is made a more complex and complicated process. They forget that their champagne appetites have to cope with Cocoa-Cola purses. Thus, they start all these half-baked ideas.

To sum it all up: if you think taxes are too high now — just wait. Park districts spell higher ones. There are means of increasthe $8 per $10,000 valuations. Add to this a bond issue for the pool. More than one bond can be issued for additional projects. And admission to the pool. The final is increased tax assessment.

Stand by your guns and vote "NO" whenever park districts are the question.

District Juniors Raise $800 For Clearbrook School

Clearbrook School for Retarded Children will receive nearly $800 raised February 20 when seventh district juniors, Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, held its hat fashion show and sale, "February Flair" in Rolling Green country club. The show was reported to be an "overwhelming" success with 140 hats sold

"The $800 will put quite a dent in the school's operating expenses for 1960-61," commented Mrs. Doris Johnson of Mt. Prospect, chairman of the project. "This is very important in that until the school has its own building, it is supported solely by tuition and donations," she continued.

Mrs. Robert Winsell of Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's club, who served as publicity chairman for the event, announced that recipients of the main gifts were Mrs. Billy Riskin of Des Plaines, who received a portable dishwasher, Mrs. Emmerlink of Chicago, who received the "night on the town" and Mrs. Gloria Leaf of Elk Grove Village, who received a hat of her choice from the Flair shop, Des Plaines, who furnished the hats for the show. Quite Contrary by Mary

Stay Home? Nonsense!

Thursday, March 24, 1960

EITHER MY FAMILY and friends are indecisive to a frightening degree or we're all terribly nervous. Just watching us in action in restaurant or theater is enough to upset the most phlegmatic.

Every now and then a group will decide to go out for dinner. Then the fun begins. It seems to be sort of an unwritten law that husbands and wives not be allowed to sit next to one another. Why this has come about is anybody's guess, but there it is. It isn't exactly that we aren't fond of our respective spouses. Or is it? Anyhow, the law is observed to the letter.

We all traipse into whatever establishment we have chosen, head for a table, and start to sit down. After we are all seated, it is always discovered that someone is parked next to their beloved. Well, none of that! So we all rise, shift, and try again. If things are still not according to hoyle, we all rise once more, scramble over each other and subside. The wear and tear is terrific and it almost drives the poor waitress to distraction. It also attracts quite a nice bit of attention from the other diners.

When Father decides to take our mob to the ballet or the theater, we aren't exactly invisible either. I try and try to get the lineup straight before we go down the aisle. Then I deploy my troops, and we head for the seats. And, we're off! Small one cannot see over the head of the man in front. We all rise at a sound of the musical note and change seats. Sometimes this means going back out into the aisle which makes the people sitting next to us just as happy as anything.

Small one then is quite likely to decide that she could see even better if she were sitting in one of the teen's seats. This promotes argument and cries of "why should I move" and "by, is SHE spoiled." I, in my usual calm, patient manner answer, "SHUT UP" in a loud whisper. Meanwhile, Father keeps trying to either shush everyone or pretend he doesn't know any of us.

The sad part of all this, things being the way they are, I can't find any solution to the problem. Except not going anywhere. Which I refuse to even contemplate. (Soc

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

by DOLORES HAUGH

March Winds Kite Party

The March Winds do blow and we will have kites flying soon, so pin your party theme to the tail of the kite and let it sail high to a March birthday.

Invitations

Let the birthday child - boy or girl - make his own kites. If his birthday is near St. Patrick's day, you will want to use the shamrocks, but if it is after the 17th choose bright circus colors of red, yellow, green and blue. Kites are made to fit standard envelopes and on the back of them write the following -

The March winds blow and what do you know -
A birthday party for (Birth day Child)!
Dress up warm and wear your boots
Never can tell what we'll do
But one thing is clear
(Child's name) wants you
HERE
Address and Time
He wants you with all his might -
And that is the TALE of this KITE.

The tale of the kite is of string with multi - colored bows of paper threaded on so they will hang free when the invitation in removed from the envelope.

Decorations, Menu

The tab can be as gay as you please and plan on a warm beverage and lots of sandwiches and cake. The cake can be a centerpiece also. Kites shaped, of course. Merely make an oblong cake, cut off the corners making a diamond shaped main cake, frosted in yellow, with gumdrops spelling out the host's name.

Place the cake on a tray with a piece of gold cord for the tail. Then cut the left over pieces of cake in small rectangles and frost in different colors, placing them on the string as the tail of the kite. Have construction paper kites scattered over the table. Favors, of course, will be real kites (even girls like to fly kites) bearing the child's name, written with a marking pen. Use kites made from construction paper for the games, cutting them into pieces and hiding them. Then divide the children into two teams and the one to get the kite together first wins. Each must have a specific color of kite to find, and they must not touch the other team's kite pieces or tell where they are hidden.

AS THE MAIN event, take the children out to some wide open area where they can actually fly their kites. Of course, have them dress warm and wear boots. Be sure you have supplied enough string and have a couple of adults to help you when you go.

I would suggest you eat after your outing and wind the party up with the opening of the gifts. Be sure to notify the parents of the guests as to your plans and stick to the time stated on the invitation as closely as possible. This is a good party for active youngsters and parents will have fun too being outside with the kids. So there is only one thing left to say - Go fly a kite! and happy birthday to you. (S

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Hospital 'Rest' Exposed

Dear Peg:

I suppose I'll never stop looking on any short term stay in the hospital as a sort of small, package-deal vacation, in spite of the fact that it never turns out to be the restful few days I anticipate. When the doctor told me that I'd have to go in for a very small bit of minor surgery, I was really rather pleased. I would only be in the hospital for two days and a night—just enough time to relax, rest, read a little and think without constant interruptions. Everything was set for the weekend—in this way Bob could be home with the children—and it's always nice for a father to get to know his children. I pointed out to him that they would all get to know each other much better without Mother around and that this could be a very worthwhile and important experience for him. Although very willing, he just didn't enthuse to quite the extent I would like to have seen—oh well, I was enthusing enough for both of us (though rather quietly of course.)

Early on Saturday morning, Bob and I arrived at the hospital, I was admitted and taken up the elevator to the surgery floor. Oddly enough, no one asked what kind of a room I preferred and not until we reached one end of the corridor did I see why. There it was, my bed, table, lamp and screen, with a view of the parking lot out the window and a view of the corridor on the opposite side. Patients, doctors, nurses and other walked up and down the hall laughing and chatting. A nurse pushed another screen up and behind the barricade told me to get into a hospital gown and get into bed. Oh yes, she assured me that as soon as a room was available she'd let me know.

Bob left and I decided to ignore the goldfish feeling I had in the midst of the noise from the corridor and the parking lot outside and settle down to the book I'd brought with me. I opened the book to page one and in walked the resident doctor who may have mastered medicine but not the English language. Fortunately his questions were pretty simple and you might say sort of universal, so we managed pretty well. As he left, I picked up the book and opened it to page one. At this point, a girl carrying a container of vials and a big hypo slipped in through the screens and with a pleasant smile asked for my blood. I gave it willingly, anything to get back to page one. She left, almost bumping into a nurse coming toward me with another needle (I didn't even get to page one this time). A quick jab and she was gone. At last —I picked up the book and still on page one started to read. The words started to swim before my eyes and a sickening dizziness spread all through me. I put the book down and succumbed to the drowsiness.

That was just the first step, of course. The real blackout came a couple of hours later, when in the operating room someone slipped me a needle that put me away out . . .

That took care of Saturday—I slept all day and all night. By Sunday morning I was able to eat a little and to at least keep my eyes open and by Sunday afternoon I felt pretty good—now that it was time to go home. Determined to get at least one page read (it was getting to be the principle of the thing) I reached for the book just as Bob walked in the door —two hours ahead of schedule. He seemed very bright as he told me that they said he could come after me early.

Now I know what they mean by "hospital rest" it's those few blacked out hours when you can neither see, hear or feel—oh well, it's a change . . .

My love,
Patty.

Snow Storm Halts Newlyweds' Honeymoon Trip In Rockford

Weather conditions were the deciding factor in the recent wedding trip of a newlywed couple Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Scheer. Following a recption in Arlington Heights, the couple departed on a honeymoon trip with no special destination in mind. However, the elements intercepted and the couple spent their first few days in the vicinity of Rockford, awaiting the blizzard's end.

The bride, the former Dorothy Berlin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berlin, 340 N. Brockway, Palatine. Barrington residents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scheer, Penny rd., are parents of the groom.

Rev. Robert Sauer performed the double ring candlelight ceremony amid church decorations of white carnations, ribbons and lilies of the valley. Organist, Warren Mandel, provided a background of music as Kenneth Sodt sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

APPROACHING the altar on the arm of her brother, Ralph Berlin, the bride wore a traditional gown of white satin with lace bodice and long sleeves. Enhancing the gown was a large satin bow in front and scalloped lace, which joined the gown's bodice and skirt at the back. White stephanotis and carnations with streamers of lilies of the valley, formed the bridal bouquet.

A turquoise taffeta gown with overskirt of nylon organza and velveteen bodice was the choice of the bride's sister, Althea Berlin, who served as maid of honor. Accentuating her gown were two bows placed at the bodice and skirtline.

Bridesmaids were gowned in various colored dresses styled after the maid of honor's They were Jackie Berlin, a sister-in-law, wearing crab apple; Beverly Harlma, a cousin, gowned in emerald green, the groom's sister, Nancy, wearing blue; and Nancy Berlin who chose red. Flowers were two large matching mums surrounded by small pom pons, the centers of which were tinted the same color. As a finishing touch, white ribbons and feather angels decorated the attendants' bouquets.

TWO 3-YEAR-OLD youngsters, Janice Berlin, dressed in the same color as the maid of honor, carrying a basket of white carnations and Scott Hajeh, cousin of the groom served as flower girl and ring bearer.

A beige lace dress with blue accessories was worn by the bride's mother. The groom's mother chose a royal blue embroidered taffeta with white accessories; both wore corsages of pink roses.

Best man was Ralph Heine; groomsmen were Paul Keisler, Ralph Binnie, and cousins, Vernon Frost and James Kagel.

Four-hundred guests were present at the wedding reception held following the ceremony at the VFW hall in Arlington Heights.

Frozen Haddock Meal Perfect Lenten Fare

It is fascinating to study the history of food and discover that the Greeks, beginning with the classical age, regarded fish as a delicacy. From the time the catch was hauled into the "agora" or market place and until it reached the table, all fish received gentle handling and cooking. Leaping ahead into the 20th century we find the same meticulous care given to fish and vegetables in popular frozen prepared haddock dinners.

How well these dinners fit into your weekly menus, on tightly scheduled afternoons when a hot dinner is a must, on meatless Lenten days or when you have requests for "a fish dinner" tonight. The dinner is tender filet of haddock in golden cream sauce, accompanied by garden-fresh peas and fluffy mashed potatoes.

Time-wise this dinner rates tops. Approximately 20 minutes in a hot (450°F.) oven with the foil turned back over the fish, and you'll find a speckled light golden cast to the sauce. Call to fine eating, indeed.

A few drops of lemon squirted over the fish, makes many people happy. For this garnish, cut a lemon into wedges and dip the centers into chopped parsley.

Excellent as dessert is a combination of canned grapefruit and orange sections chilled to perfection with a topping of flaked coconut and chopped nuts providing contrast.

Proper Care of Greens

Immediate home care of salad greens is essential to maintain freshness, reminds a University of Illinois home economist. Flush greens with cold running water, even though they may have been prewashed. Drain thoroughly before refrigerating, place in a plastic bag, and wrap with Saran or several thicknesses of waxed paper to insure crispness. Whenever possible, use the outer leaves: they are especially rich in food value. (SH

Parks Are for People and Concerned with Programs

BY JOEL CARTER

Parks are for people! This is the modern park philosophy that has unquestioned acceptance. In accordance with this idea park management everywhere is more concerned with program than property. The important feature is what goes on rather than facilities; for people rather than places.

Parks can be beauty spots with trees and flowers or they can be plots of athletic grounds. Parks can be primitive areas with flora and faulna allowed to develop as God intended or they can be natural areas with trails, benches, water fountains, and picnic tables to make nature convenient for man to enjoy. Parks can be public golf courses or landscaped median strips of expressways. Parks can be lake waterfronts or preserved historical sites.

WHATEVER their nature, parks are special areas reserved for a specific use to benefit the public. In our culture they were originally a preserve for beasts of the chase. Moryson wrote in 1617, "Woodstocke is famous for King's House and large parks, compassed with a stone wall, which is said to have been the first parke in England." In 1663 Samuel Pepys wrote in his Diary "I walked in the parke discoursing with the keeper of Pell Mell."

In the United States, parks descended from several predecessors including New England's commons which were sites for pasturing stock for market places and for drill fields. In the Southwest people followed the Spanish precedent and set aside plazas. Southern cavaliers from England laid out squares and parades.

BOSTON COMMON in 1634 was the earliest development of a city park for recreation. As the country matured different types of parks developed as children of necessity. they were spawned by public need for particular facilities.

Today, the movement continues unabated. The teen center eruption in the 1940's was a modern example of the movement. A growing development now is the demand for cultural arts. Art centers, community orchestras, amphitteaters' civic auditoriums, drama groups, and libraries are springing up everywhere at a rate never before observed.

In Arlington Heights the parks, their recreation activities, and independent activities which use the parks are keeping up (or perhaps leading) this trend.

Rockhounds Find Books in Library

Are you looking for an interesting summer hobby? Collecting colorful, rare or odd-shaped rocks and minerals can be an absorbing leisure-time activity. Most rockhounds are amateurs and the hobby - one of the fastest growing in the country - requires very little money and equipment.

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library has numerous books about rocks and rock collecting. A few of the basic titles for beginners include Richard Pearl's "How to Know the Minerals and Rocks," Herbert Zim's "Rocks and Minerals," and Frederick Pough's "Field Guide to Rocks and Minerals."

Many excellent handbooks are also available for the advanced rock collector.

DURING THE month of March, the Des Plaines Valley Geological Society has an outstanding display of many rocks and minerals at the Library. The public is invited to see this fine display.

In addition to books on rock collecting, the library has material on countless other hobbies, including bird-watching, nature study, shell collecting, model making, woodworking, stamp collecting and many others.

Whatever your hobby, there are books at the Library that will make it more interesting and more fun. (A

Good Books

The man who does not read good books has no advantage over the man who can't read them. — Mark Twain.

Park Board Will Honor Deceased

The Board of Commissioners of the Arlington Heights park district has voted to name three recently acquired park sites after the three deceased members of the first park board.

Deceased members of the first Arlington Heights park board are Nathaniel M. Banta, Eugene N. Berbecker, and Henry C. Klehm.

Banta Park, located north of Kensington rd. between Phelps and Waterman sts., contains one and one-half acres.

Banta, who was principal of the Arlington Heights public schools in 1900, served on the park board from 1825-1932 and was the first president of the board.

Berbecker Park, which also contains one and one-half acres, is located on the corner of Miner, Wilshire, Eastman, and Stratford sts.

COMING TO Arlington Heights in 1864, Berbecker also was an officer of the Arlington Heights State bank and on the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian church.

As a public service to the residents of North Cook County

(Arlington Heights, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Wheeling, Etc.)

FREE
WEDNESDAY BANKING

As a new public service, Citizens Bank in Park Ridge will cooperate with all neighboring financial institutions in North Cook County and has arranged to extend free Wednesday banking to all of their customers when these institutions are closed.

This means that, if you have an account — no matter what kind — at any of the 14 banks or savings and loan associations in North Cook County that are closed Wednesdays, you may now do your Wednesday banking without interruption. All you need do is register for a Cook County Courtesy Card at Citizens Bank, only a few minutes away in Park Ridge.

There is absolutely no charge for this service and no need whatsoever to transfer your account to Citizens Bank. Every one of these institutions in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Wheeling, etc. is sound, equitable, and among the finest in the nation. If they are closed on Wednesdays, it is only because unlike "business banks," they are mostly open on weekends for their neighborhood customers. If they were to stay open Wednesdays as well, the extra cost of operation would have to be absorbed or passed on to their depositors.

Although Citizens in Park Ridge is also open weekends for the convenience of our own suburban customers, every Citizens department — including six drive-in windows — always keeps regular loop business hours for our commercial and private depositors throughout the week.

Therefore Citizens can easily cooperate with free Wednesday banking privileges for all our neighbors, since Citizens is always open on Wednesdays anyway. The total objective of all of us — banks and savings and loan associations alike — in our great area is to give the best overall service to the entire area. If Citizens, in the normal course of business, is able to carry a little more of the load, we are naturally glad to do it.

So, come in and register for your Cook County Courtesy Card. It will immediately entitle you to all Citizens' Wednesday services just as though you were a Citizens customer yourself.

FREE NORTH COOK COUNTY PRIVILEGES

1. YOU MAY cash checks on your own bank free of charge.

2. YOU MAY make withdrawals from your savings — either bank or savings-and-loan — by free drafts.

3. YOU MAY even "make deposits" (business receipts, cash, checks, etc.) by free cashier's checks to the order of your own institution.

This is a new, but standard, cooperative courtesy already extended, or soon to be extended, to every depositor of any Northwest Area bank or savings and loan association which is closed on Wednesdays.

As a neighbor you can feel perfectly at home at Citizens in Park Ridge. You do not have to live in North Cook County, you must only have an account in the area to obtain your Cook County Courtesy Card. And from then on, every Wednesday is open house to you at Citizens.

We'll be looking forward to seeing you this very next week.

Lohman Has Amazing Grasp of Issues

Revenue Cited As Top Issue

By WILLIAM L. DULANEY

Joseph Dean Lohman, ex-college professor, ex-sheriff, and ex-egghead of the Cook county Democratic organization, reached into his lexicographical grab-bag last week and came up with such terms as "anachonism," "paradoxical," "acclimatize," and "metropolitan complexes," to describe what ails Illinois.

Pausing in Arlington Heights in his state wide trek for the gubernatorial nomination, the 50-year-old state treasurer referred to the booming suburbs that are mushrooming over the country as "metropolitan complexes" deserving of particular attention.

Should he win the April 12 primary and be elected governor in November, Lohman said he would create a new state cabinet post to assist the suburbs in solving such problems as drainage and water shortages.

"I AM CONCERNED about the orderly emergence of metropolitan communities. We must revamp our thinking to recognize such communities as a unit and help them develop tax resources for their requirements," he said. He was quick to point out, however, that such planning should not be forced upon local communities, but should be available for the asking.

The concept of a cabinet post concerned with suburban problems has not been proposed by other gubernatorial candidates and typifies Lohman's amazing grasp of the problems confronting the state.

At times resembling a well-fed Univac, the 6 ft., 220 lb. former University of Chicago professor, ran the gamut from the migrant workers plight to the state's lack of revenue, which he termed the state's "number one problem."

SHIFTING HIS weight forward in his chair at a Paddock Publications press conference, Lohman waved a hammy right hand to emphasize his remark that, "Illinois will need over $200 million between now and January, 1961, and the majority of homeowners and small businessmen are already taxed to the hilt.

"The real estate tax has reached its limit. The personal property tax is inequitable. As a result, the people with moderate incomes are suffering."

Lohman cites corporation taxes in Illinois as amounting to $5.5 million annually as opposed to $55 million in Wisconsin; $125 million in New Jersey, and $225 million in New York.

"WE NEED TO call upon our newly-emergent forms of wealth and insist that corporations share more responsibility in meeting tax needs. We can raise between $75 and $150 million in additional revenue from these corporations and fall in line with the accepted taxing policy throughout the United States."

Tugging on a large ear, Lohman launched into sales tax figures and declared the tax's base can be broadened to gain an additional $43 million a year.

"Some of the more immature candidates for governor have said they would throw the budget in the wastebasket. They're not being honest. They know that it's going to take money to meet our state's mental health needs, build new schools, raise housing standards, and help meet the welfare needs of the elderly.

"I don't think there is any fat to be fried out of the budget, but the burden of meeting increased state needs can be lifted off the middle - class homeowner's back," said Lohman.

ABOLITION OF capital punishment, a fair employment practices bill, and a guarantee of civil rights for all state residents got an affirmative nod from the man who holds sociology and criminology degrees from three universities.

Name the issue. Lohman is familiar with it and ready to discuss possible solutions. With a rapid fire intenseness, he urges federal legislation to protect migrant workers and in the next breath talks about taking the state police out of politics.

While one gets the impression from other candidates that they are having to familiarize themselves quickly with such fields as mental health and water shed problems, Lohman gives the impression that he's already studied these issues at length.

IRONICALLY, however, this penetrating intellect which undeniably would be an asset in the governor's chair, is unaccompanied by Steve Mitchell's tweed-suited, easy-going modesty or Otto Kerner's urbane sophistication. In short, Lohman is void of political sex appeal.

As one observer remarked after the informal interview, "It was almost as if he were reading from a speech."

There is also the question of ego. While admitting his capabilities, some critics, including his two primary opponents, have accused Lohman of playing the role of the "anointed one," and taking all criticism as a personal affront.

THERE WAS little evidence of this last week, though the Lohman bulk did start when he was asked to comment on newspaper columnist Jack Mabley's charge that he lied in connection with the furor that brewed around the sheriff's office in 1958.

"I don't lie," were the words bitten off by the ex-sheriff. "Mabley once called me the greatest sheriff Cook county ever had. Was he lying then?" retorted Lohman.

As for tooting his own horn, Lohman says, "I'm running for governor and I'm not talking about anything I don't know something about. I'll be glad to debate issues with my opponents anytime, any place."

Still, it's easy to see how the man's self-assurance and academic background must have made the Democratic committeemen feel uneasy when they backed him as a blue - ribbon candidate for Cook county sheriff in 1954, and again in 1958 when Lohman rolled up a ticket-leading vote of 1,688,809 for the state treasurer's office.

THOUGH NOT backed by the regular organization, Lohman wants it understood he's still a Democrat.

"I'm not a maverick. Not an independent. I'm a Democrat who's fighting boss rule within the party," he says.

He makes it clear that rule belongs to Mayor Dick Daley.

And why did Lohman unsuccessfully seek Daley's support for the gubernatorial primary?

"I sought the slate-making committee's decision, not one man's. For the first time in the history of membership in the state central committee. Daley approached the last week of slate-making without indicating what was on his mind. The committee thought this was because he was going to run himself.

"I approached the committee in good faith and learned later there was no discussion of possible candidates. Daley simply came in and handed them a ticket."

If still a staunch Democrat, would Lohman, should he fail to win the primary, support Kerner or Mitchell against the Republican nominee?

"I don't indulge in fairy tales. I'm going to win and Kerner and Mitchell can debate among themselves who's going to be second and third," said Lohman emphatically. (A13

Lohman on His Opponents:

What Lohman says about Stratton:

—A wily politician.

—Toured Russia instead of pushing for revenue reform.

—Plays one part of state against another.

—Has formidable patronage machine.

—Protects interests of privileged groups that dominate his circle.

What Lohman says about Mitchell:

—Has not served his state.

—He wanted me to run for Lt. Governor with him.

—I respect him.

—Had we teamed up there wouldn't have been a race.

—Average citizen doesn't know him.

What Lohman says about Kerner:

—Afraid to debate the issues.

—Tries to give impression he is being drafted for governorship; Bunk!

—Hand picked candidate of one man, Mayor Daley.

Lohman and Stratton Victories Predicted

It will be Joseph D. Lohman versus William G. Stratton for the governorship race in the November general elections.

That was the prediction this week of John Parker, executive editor of Illinois News Features, in a release mailed to Illinois newspapers.

Referring to figures compiled by his staff in Springfield and Chicago, Parker predicted that there will be a total of 1,216,173 votes cast in the April primary.

This is not a particularly good showing with 5,090,212 registered voters in the state's 9,980 precincts.

HE SAID THE votes will represent about 703,000 Republican ballots and near 513,000 Democratic voters, with 508,000 of the GOP votes coming from downstate and 368,000 of the Democratic votes coming from Cook county.

"We pick Joseph D. Lohman to receive the Democratic bid and incumbent William G. Stratton the Republican bid for the governor's race," stated Parker. "We give Stratton 556,000 votes and Hayes Robertson 187,000. Lohman will wind up with something like 650,000 against Otto Kerner's 470,000. Lohman's and Stratton's support will come from downstate and will pit the two together for the top spot in November."

Parker said Robertson will run strong in DuPage and St. Clair counties, where the organizations have openly split with Stratton.

IN THE HEATED race for U. S. Senator where there also is a split with the Stratton organization, Parker picks John W. Lewis Jr., present state senator from the 34th district, as winner. His figures show that Lewis will outrank Stratton's choice, Chicago attorney Samuel W. Witwer. He gives Lewis 222,362 votes.

Parker cited Lewis' 20 years experience in the Illinois house and senate, the rift with Stratton in the 14th district and in Sangamon and St. Clair counties. He picked Witwer in second place on the GOP Congressional ballot.

On the Democratic side, there is no contest against incumbent Sen. Paul H. Douglas.

AN AMAZING GRASP of the problems confronting the state was demonstrated Thursday by Joseph D. Lohman, gubernatorial candidate in the April 12 Democratic primary. He is shown here discussing Illinois' revenue dilemmas during a press conference with editors of Paddock Publications suburban newspapers.

Public Aid Picture Is Mixed One

A "mixed trend" might be the proper description for the Cook county public aid picture for January, according to the report of the Illinois Public Aid Commission just released. Every one of four possible trends was reflected among the five categories of aid, as follows:

More persons, less money: Aid to Dependent Children: 103,816 persons getting $4,265,075 compared with 103,543 getting $4,269,179. in December. This reversed a three month downward trend in persons from a high of 105,040 persons in October.

LESS PERSONS, more money: General Assistance: 81,044 persons getting $4,081,426 compared with 81,566 getting $3,998,766 in December. Blind Assistance, 1,359 getting $126,707 compared with 1,365 getting $126,103.

More persons, more money: Disability Assistance, 11,767 persons getting $1,052,078 compared with 11,674 getting $1,036,151.

Less persons, less money: Old Age Assistance, 29,949 getting $2,350,191 compared with 30,125 getting $2,360,540.

Lockjaw

There are still about 500 cases of tetanus (lockjaw) in the United States annually, more than half of which are fatal.

Farm Squatters Are Vanishing Along Waterways

Farm squatters are disappearing from Metropolitan along banks of waterways in Cook county.

There are only 27 farm squatter leases still in effect out of 157 existing 10 years ago, reports Earl Derx, manager of the district's real estate department.

Many of the squatters, who paid a "token" rent, were chased off as trespassers when the leases expired, he said, adding:

"We chased 11 out of Summit by threatening them with prosecution. And in one case, we got rid of a pig farm."

THE DISTRICT has 192 other long and short term leases which in 1959 produced a total revenue of $302,686, Derx said.

None of the leaseholders are delinquent in rental payments, but some haven't paid the taxes on the land.

The district, Derx said, is telling them to "either pay or get out." (B8

GOP Women Sponsoring Luncheon

State Senator Hayes Robertson, Flossmoor, Republican candidate for governor, will be a featured speaker today (Thursday) at the luncheon meeting of the Wheeling township Women's Republican club in Inverness Country club.

Also to be represented at the meeting are Gov. William G. Stratton and U.S. Senate candidates William H. Rentschler, Lake Forest, and Samuel Witwer, Riverside.

WHEELING township women interested in joining the newly-organized club are asked to phone Mrs. Jane Brown, president, CL 3-2674, or Mrs. Mary Lou Coughlin, vice president, CL3-8024.

The club has a two-fold purpose: to keep members informed on political issues and to assist precinct captains in getting out the vote.

Carroll Lashes Back At Stratton Critics

State Rep. John William Carroll (R., Park Ridge) hit back at Gov. Stratton's critics Monday in a speech before the Republican Women's club of Park Ridge.

"I've been in many campaigns, and I've never seen a candidate who tried to tear down his own party win in November," Carroll said

"It seems to me that when we are considering candidates for public office, they should be judged on their record and not on what they say they'll do. I'd like to remind the opposition that while they did the talking, we were working with Gov. Stratton to make his administration the most progressive in the history of Illinois."

CARROLL SAID that in the last seven years under Stratton's administration "the state has made more progress in mental health than at any time in the last 40 years. The critics talk about a lack of patient care. When Gov. Stratton came into office, attendants at mental hospitals worked 12 hours a day, and there were only two shifts. Now there are three shifts, working only eight hours a day each. To do this, it was necessary to hire 2,325 more employees - an increase of nearly 25 per cent.

'We hear all this talk about larger payrolls. Of course the payrolls are larger. They're larger because we have to have more employees - and almost all of them are under the merit system.

"When the governor's critics talk about payrolls, remember that he insists on knowing the result of every dollar of the taxpayer's money spent in this state. And I'm proud to tell you this - you're getting more for your mental health dollar in Illinois than anywhere else in the United States. It's a shame - no-less - that anyone would try to make a political issue out of the 46,000 mentally ill persons in our state institutions."

POINTING to reapportionment, Carroll said "Another major achievement under Gov. Stratton's leadership was Illinois legislative reapportionment. It was accomplished in 1955 for the first time since 1900. This reapportionment assures proper representation in the General Assembly for all areas of the state. Many attempts at reapportionment were made without success. It was Gov. Stratton's leadership that gave the citizens of Illinois the voice they deserve in the legislature."

On schools, Carroll said: "When Gov. Stratton took office, the equalization rate per pupil in our common schools was $160 a year. Today that figure has been increased to $252 a year. The average pay of classroom teachers has been raised more than 30 per cent, and the starting minimum by $1,400 a year under our Republican administration. And we set up a revolving fund to help school districts that couldn't meet the needs for bonds to build classrooms. In 27 districts, 395 new classrooms are either completed or are being built for elementary and high school pupils. This building could not have been done without the state's help."

Carroll, who is now serving his second term is a candidate for re-election to the State Legislature from the 6th district. (B8

Otto Kerner Stresses His Integrity

He Says He's a Man of Deeds

by RICHARD C. HOFFMANN

Otto Kerner Jr. is seeking his party's nod for gubernatorial candidate on a family legacy of public service, his own record, and an emphasis on personal integrity.

The Democratic Cook county central committee's regularly endorsed candidate has seldom left this lofty pinnacle except to engage in brief verbal skirmishes with State Treasurer Joseph D. Lohman, one of his April 12 primary opponents. Steven Mitchell, the third Democratic primary candidate, he apparently has chosen to ignore.

As the former Cook county judge puts it himself, he is a man of deeds, not words.

KERNER HAS A commanding presence, as evidenced at a press conference conducted last Thursday with Paddock Publications' editors.

He is an impressive man, both in physical appearance and oratory, two qualities difficult to beat at the polls.

The Judge weighs his words as a jeweler would some precious gems; his well-modulated voice is a clue to the year he studied at Trinity college, Cambridge university, England.

HANDSOME AND conservative in dress, Kerner's slight stature is misleading: he was a football and swimming star at Oak Park high school, later also distinguishing himself in the aquatic sport at Brown University.

But his ramrod straight carriage (he was a brigadier general in the Illinois National Guard) and the impression he conveys of coiled energy reinforces the image of strength of purpose.

Kerner fixes his smoke-blue eyes on a questioner as a predator might eye a dinner; if the penetrating gaze is not enough to inspire awe, he has an arsenal of facts and the ammunition of legality to summon to the occasion.

His most formidable artillery, he feels, is his record as county judge and his own integrity, which he wears proudly, like battlefield decorations.

"I'VE NEVER lied to anybody. I never have and I never will," he said in answer to the charge that he and County Clerk Edward Barrett conspired to delay holding of another election for county judge.

"If I had such a conversation with Barrett I would have said so. I sleep pretty well at night. I can't lie; I don't know how."

The 52-year-old Glenview resident, who at times appeared to be presiding over a court session rather than submitting to a press interrogation, dismisses one opponent's charge that Mayor Daley holds the chain to the brass ring fixed around his neck by saying:

"You may observe whether I have any nicks on my neck. I never intended to run for governor. The Democrats outside of Cook county came to me, and through their urging I presented myself as a candidate. I never spoke to Daley and he never spoke to me about the gubernatorial nomination. He never urged me or asked me to present myself."

KERNER'S TRAINING as a jurist (he obtained his law degree in 1934 from Northwestern university) was also apparent when he refused to answer questions without "the facts before me."

But if he appears to be moving full speed ahead "with all due caution" in some instances, he is outspoken on what he feels are two of Illinois' major problems: finances and mental institutions.

"These two problems must be taken care of immediately. We are going to run into bankruptcy in this state if we are not careful," Kerner warned.

As a first step in the area of mental health, Kerner suggested separation of mental problems from the Illinois Welfare Commission. "I would put a psychiatrist administrator in charge of developing the program, and through him attract medical technicians and personnel in psychology. We should develop a program of rehabilitation instead of imprisonment. The present governor seems opposed to a mental illness program. It should be dealt with humanely instead of economically."

ARE THE goals of economy in government and improvement of mental institutions incompatible? Kerner, who is also stumping for economy in government, doesn't think so.

"People can recover and become producing members of society again. Even though we would have to spend more money initially to attract good people it is the thrifty thing to do in the long run."

Kerner, taking up the cudgels for thrift in government, said: "I would examine and find out where we can save money immediately. I am in no position now to say where it can be done. I am not going to use 'Strattonisms.'

"I HAVE successfully worked with financial problems (as county judge) to produce savings and I can do it again," he allowed.

But this would just be a temporary measure, he continued. "We need a new revenue act. A revenue or tax study is the most sensible way to approach a new revenue act. We should not have people on the tax payrolls in the state of Illinois make the study. I am fearful that people placed on the commission might try to serve their own interests.

"I think we should get people outside the state to examine our system and propose a new revenue article."

In other areas of concern, Kerner had this to say:

CHICAGO POLICE Scandal: "There would be an element that would use this against any regularly endorsed candidate. What would Lohman say since some of his people are in trouble? I wonder if he is certain that the head of the department is responsible for what his people have done?"

MAYOR DALEY: "I don't know why the public feels that a man who is the leader of a political party is an ogre. There are good and bad in every phase of life. I think we have to examine the character of the man. Everyone says he has made an outstanding mayor, and the newspapers say he is a man of integrity, that he's honest. What can anyone expect beyond that?"

CRIME SYNDICATE: "The bill of rights protects all of us whether a hoodlum or a minister. I've seen the income tax records and books of these men (as U.S. district attorney from 1947 to 1954.) I have examined them with CPAs and they are within the law. If they are within the law you cannot do anything about it . . . I think the public criticizing the law enforcement agencies should examine their own conscience first. I think they make the syndicates a profitable profession just by the simple act of placing a bet with the newsboy on the corner.

"If the profit motive wasn't there we would have no problem. They'd (the syndicates) fall of their own weight. People talk out of one side of their mouth and do something else. I've had people call me and tell me how terrible things were, but they wouldn't identify themselves. They were afraid they would be threatened. I've gone after these hoodlums for years and I've never been threatened nor has my family. Hoodlums will recognize the law officer is doing his job, but they have no respect for people who decry crime and yet deal with the criminal anyway."

CIVIL RIGHTS: "I favor fair job opportunities legislation . . . I was a young man of almost mature age when the 18th amendment was passed. You cannot regulate people's habits by law. I have tried by example to present what I think is the right thing to do. We must go further by education. By present laws and proper application you can acquire the same results. I prefer to use the tools available to me without passing any new laws."

CAPITAL Punishment: "I do not feel the death sentence is a deterrent to anything. There used to be 200 crimes punishable by death. The John Howard association found that recidivism occurred among a certain class of criminals because they didn't know how to do anything else. Crimes punishable by death are usually crimes of passion done in the heat of emotion."

SECRECY IN Government: "It has always been my policy to be public and open in everything myself. I have never been a legislator. I have taken part in executive sessions of senatorial hearings, and I think those things would be damaging if made public unless there were the same rules of evidence used that apply in the courts. But the vilification, rumor and painting with a black brush that occurred in meetings I attended were terrible. They were strictly a report of what's been said, such as the FBI reports. Things of a certain nature might go on in committees that should not be made an open report, but I would have no objection to everything being public if the protective laws of evidence were applied."

Kerner defended his staying on the bench an extra month at the request of County Clerk Barrett by noting: "If the bench were left vacant the mental health clinic of Cook county would have burst at the seams of the building. Approximately 180 people go in and out of there a week. Also, unless there is a county judge, the board of election commissioners would have to close their doors; there would be no one to sign payroll checks or vouchers; all of the work of the county court would have to stop except the calendar work of trial cases."

KERNER'S STAYING on the job left him about a month behind the other candidates, so that lately he has been averaging about four hours sleep a night in a campaign which has kept him on the road six days out of the week. He disclosed that in the past four weeks he has logged 5,200 miles by car.

How does his wife, Helena, daughter of the late Chicago mayor Anton J. Cermak, feel about his candidacy? "With mixed emotions," Kerner laughed. "We've always lived in a fishbowl all of our lives, so that she knows of the sacrifices that would have to be given."

Kerner is realistic about his party's backing. "Organization is necessary in politics," he'll tell you. But he'll hasten to add: 'I've been honest, had integrity, and had guts when called for; I've been independent in action and aggressive to correct things I've found wrong."

Kerner, however, whose father was an Illinois judge, when asked if he aspired to an even higher office than governor some day, smiled and neatly deposited a cigarette ash in a nearby tray, before answering:

"I have never aspired to any public office. A lot of people let their imaginations run wild. I've heard I'm going to be Democratic candidate for president next time. This is 'hogwash' and 'poppycock.'"

Victorianism In Illinois?

Otto Kerner Jr.'s year of study at Trinity College, Cambridge University, apparently has had some lasting effects. The former Cook county judge, here for a press conference, used the word, "Victorian," no less than seven times in describing outdated attitudes toward mental illness, the commitment process, revenue article, capital punishment, reformatories, and other problems facing the state.

Road Signs Should Be Cut

One area of state expenditure which could be eliminated for a savings of possibly a million dollars is where highway work is accompanied by a sign bearing Governor William J. Strattons's name, Otto Kerner, candidate for governor in the Democratic primary, feels. "It costs us $1.50 every time the governor's name is written on a sign," Kerner said. "The idea of public officials' names appearing at public expense is not good sound government," he added, although allowing it is good politics. What about Mayor Richard Daley's signs welcoming motorists to Chicago? Kerner said he was concerned with that area of government over which he would be able to exercise jurisdiction.

The art teacher at the Oak st. school, Palatine, took a flyer and sent 13 of her students' best works to the Northeastern Illinois Regional Art Exhibition last month.

Miss Alice King, the teacher, was amply rewarded for Palatine's first participation in the exhibition when her students came home with one gold key and five certificates.

Gold key winner is Nancy Niedwick, who rose with the sun one wintry morning last winter, and captured ice coated willows with her Tower camera. Nancy explained that she thought the scene pretty. (The rising sun was shimmering through ice-laden boughs). She never gave the picture another thought until Miss King announced the exhibition.

Nancy's picture has been sent to New York for further judging. Another student's entry was a slide. This was sent directly to New York for slide judging. Miss King doesn't know the outcome.

ENTRIES SHOW the variety of work done in Miss King's enormous, busy art room. Four of Cheryl Sander's works were exhibited. One, two deer in a cool green forest glade, earned a certificate. This eighth grader is Miss King's best student. She does work in her spare time that her teacher feels rivals any done by today's top artists at Cheryl's age.

Cheryl, a curly-blond headed gal with cheery grin seems to favor animals most. Three spirited, fiery stallions (done in pencil) are mounted behind Miss King's desk. Another horse is casually pinned to a bulletin board. There is another deer there, too.

While Cheryl's work is traditional in feeling, other certificate winners show definitely modern touches. Other certificate winners are Ed Johnston, Doug Lacher, Kathy Lacher, and Bill Smith. Bill's entry was a still life of gourds. It is designed to show the versatility of a pencil with shade, fine lines, and bold strokes.

MIXED MEDIA was another category Oak st. entered. This was a relaxed figure of a man done in charcoal and india ink. Kathy Lacher's certificate winner was a fashion design for an "after six" dress. Included with her entry were swatches of materials she chose for her dress.

Other students whose work was entered are Bruce Berntzen, Lanny Muller, Judy Grove, Al Mostroianni, Richard Langan, and Ruth Crumm.

"Our kids were up against freshmen in high school. There were more than 2500 entries," Miss King explained. "I think they did beautifully."

Of the 2,500 entires, 750 could be chosen for display. All entries were judged and displayed at Wieboldt's Evanston store. (B8

Peace Group Will See Documentary

"March to Aldermaston," a 16 mm sound documentary film on how 5,000 people in England spoke with their actions against atomic weapons and war, will be shown at Prospect Heights Community church Wednesday, March 30 at 8 p.m.

There is only one print of "March to Aldermaston" currently available in the United States and it is being offered through this month only by the peace section of the American Friends Service committee's Chicago office.

The showing at Prospect Heights Community church is sponsored by North Shore Citizens for Peace, a study and action group comprised of people in this area.

LABORERS, teachers, students, and housewives made the 56-mile trek from London to the British nuclear arsenal at Aldermaston during the Easter week of 1958.

Jack Bollens and David Gale, both of the American Friends Service committee, will accompany the Prospect Heights showing and serve as resource people for any discussion which might follow. Bollens and Gale will also describe Week for World Peace, April 11-16, and opportunities for participation.

"Today we stand on a precipice overlooking two worlds of the future," commented Wilfred Reynolds Jr., of Evanston, who is a spokesman for North Shore Citizens for Peace. "On the one hand, we now have the skills and resources to build a world in which poverty and hunger which all men can live in an era of prosperity, health, and opportunity for creative human development never before possible.

"On the other hand is the imminent and ever-increasing danger that our fantastic weapons of mass destruction will be used to destroy civilization and quite possibly even life itself," Reynolds went on.

"The choice for destruction can be made by one man at a missile base, in a bomber, or in a submarine. The choice for peace and a better life is more difficult. It can be assured only if we are willing to work for it," Reynolds concluded.

Lutheran Parish Aids World Relief Efforts

In Hong Kong a Chinese refugee will complete a vocational training course which will enable him to find work in a respectable occupation, because of gifts made by members of Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Arlington Heights.

Instead of sleeping on a rooftop and begging in the streets, the refugee will be able to support himself and find decent living quarters.

Such transformations will be made possible by members of 11,000 Lutheran congregations, cooperating in the National Lutheran Council, with their gifts to Lutheran World Action.

This year Lutherans are again joining with members of 34 other Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations in the celebration of "One Great Hour of Sharing Sunday" on March 27. The goal for the "One Great Hour" appeal totals $11,418,808.

Special emphasis in 1960 will be placed by members of Our Saviour's on World Refugee Year, the international effort which seeks to find permanent solutions for the thousands of refugees of the world.

MEMBERS of the worldwide Lutheran Church are being asked to give one million dollars for special World Refugee Year projects of the Lutheran World Federation. Lutherans in America expect to send $400,000 in LWA funds toward these special projects.

The LWA goal in 1960 totals $3,980,000, with local members of Our Saviour's seeking $600 as their share of this total.

Of the total LWA funds, $1,032,200 have been earmarked for regular and special refugee projects and inter-church aid through the Lutheran World Federation's Department of World Service.

In addition, $530,000 will be allocated to Lutheran World Relief, material aid agency of the NLC churches and of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod. LWR distributes new and used clothing as well as surplus foods to refugees and others in need around the world.

DURING THE PAST 12 months members of Our Saviour's have donated 1,600 lbs. to LWR, including such items as bedding, used clothes, shoes, and baby layettes. These items plus medicines and foodstuffs have been distributed in such countries as Jordan, Syria, Germany, Austria, India, Indonesia, Malagasy, Chile, Korea, Japan, Taiwan, Yugoslavia and Hong Kong.

Also within the LWA budget is an allocation of $144,100 which includes funds for the operation of Lutheran Immigration Service, an American agency of the NLC churches and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, which aids refugees and immigrants to this country. Since 1948 this agency has helped more than 59,000 persons to resettle in the United States.

The LWF's Department of World Mission will receive $1,250,000; $35,000 will go for the work of theological cooperation within the LWF; $155,000 for the expansion and spiritual growth of Lutheran churches in Latin America; and $33,000 for the core budget and committee work of the LWF.

THE NLC will receive $365,000 for its ministry to U.S. military personnel and $34,000 for its special ministry to temporary communities.

An additional $141,500 will go for cooperative efforts and interdenominational projects. Included within this allocation are funds for Church World Service, the National Council of Churches relief agency which deals largely with refugee problems.

Other cooperative efforts include the support of more than 10 per cent of the World Council of Churches service program, as well as contributing to the World YMCA-YWCA work with refugees and the World Student Christian Federation.

Churches participating in the National Lutheran Council include the United, Augustana, American, American Evangelical, Evangelical, and United Evangelical Lutheran churches, as well as the Lutheran Free Church and the Suomi Synod.

Our Saviour's is a congregation of the United Lutheran church. The Rev. John P. Petersen is pastor.

New Legislation

by
W. RUSSELL ARRINGTON
State Senator,
4th Senatorial District

All of you who operate motor boats should give immediate attention to an Illinois law which became effective on March 1 of this year.

My son, who operates a very small boat, discovers with considerable consternation that he must register his boat and obtain a Certificate Number before he can operate it lawfully.

The new law is known as "The Illinois Boat Registration and Safety Act of 1959."

UNDER THIS new law all boats propelled by machinery and in use on public waters of the State must be registered. At the time the law was considered in the Legislature, efforts were made to exempt smaller boats. This effort failed, however.

Every owner of a motor boat must fill out an application and send the form, along with $3 registration fee, to the Department of Conservation, Motor Boat License Division, 400 South Spring Street, Springifeld, Illinois. The necessary applications forms can be obtained by writing to the above Division.

On receipt of the application, the Department will mail you a motor boat Certificate of Number, assigning you a number for your boat. This Certificate is good for approximately three years and must be renewed on or before its expiration date. The Certificate must be available for inspection on the motor boat at all times it is in operation.

The number assigned is permanent and remains with the boat, even though it changes hands. The number must be painted or attached to both sides of the bow of the boat in block characters at least 3" high. If you buy or sell a boat already bearing a Certificate Number, application must be made within 15 days after the transaction for a transfer of the number. In this connection, a $1.00 transfer fee is payable. A failure to act within the 15-day period will necessitate a re-registration by the new owner.

NEW Certificate Numbers will not be issued until the owner surrenders his Certificate. You should always request the person from whom you acquire a boat to fill out the notification of sale or transfer block on the reverse side of the Certificate of Number and have it mailed direct to the Department immediately. All boat owners must furnish the Department notification of change of address, sale or transfer of the boat to another person or the destruction or abandonment of the boat.

Whenever a boat is involved in a collision or accident causing injury or death to persons or property damage over $100.00, a report must be filed with the Department.

The Act further provides the equipment which all motor boats must carry. These consist of life preservers for each person on board, lights, mufflers, whistles, fire extinguisher, carburetor arrestors and ventilators.

Much to my son's discomforture, the use of sirens or flashing lights is unlawful, except on duly designated patrol boats. He finds the siren he purchased last year must now be scrapped.

Builder of Mammoth Drive-In Has Shown Business Tradition

A history of the motion picture business in Chicago—or for that matter, in the United States—must include the name of Schoenstadt among the pioneers and leaders in the field.

From that rainy April day in 1908 when "Dad" Schoenstadt, as he was affectionately called by all who knew him, opened the Palace theater (capacity 300) with the motto "Biggest Show in the City for 5 Cents," the Schoenstadts were in the movie business. Today, 52 years later, the name Schoenstadt is synonomous with operators of quality movie theatres in the Chicago area.

TODAY, Arthur H. Schoenstadt, the same man who as a boy in the Palace theatre ran the hand-cranked movie machine daily for $18 a week, is president and chairman of the board of H. Schoenstadt and Sons, Inc.

A progressive thinker, like his father, Arthur is in the process of constructing a half million dollar luxury outdoor theatre at routes 12 and 53 near Palatine. He is rallying to meet the trend of modern Americana.

This is typical of the Schoenstadt tradition -- to give the people the most in the way of convenience, (as they are sparing no cost in doing in their new drive in) and the finest in motion picture entertainment for the whole family.

THE PALACE cost Herman "Dad" Schoenstadt nearly $2,000. The previous owner had not been too particular as to the sort of pictures he used or to the type of patrons that attended. Thus "Dad" had the task of improving the general atmosphere of the place. And improve he did -- barring all disorderly persons and introducing a policy of "first run" pictures. The reputation of the Palace quickly changed.

Opening on Easter, the Palace had a poor start. For the first three weeks it rained constantly. Things looked bad, but "Dad" Schoenstadt was not discouraged, and he was not disappointed, for things began going his way. Only one picture was shown and the audience was rushed in and out thirty-three times daily. An exception to this policy occurred when "The Passion Play," in three reels, was run in one night.

AFTER TWO years another Schoenstadt theatre was acquired. A wooden structure, called the "Ashland," the second Schoenstadt enterprise had 220 seats. It had been losing money steadily, but "Dad" Schoenstadt soon put it on its feet.

From then on the era of development was rapid. With his sons Henry and Arthur to aid him, "Dad" added one house after another to his string.

The Archer theatre, at 35th and Robey streets, was the first deluxe house in the chain. It was built in 1910 at a cost of $50,000 and seated 950 people. When constructed, it was intended for vaudeville. Upon acquisition in 1914, Schoenstadt converted it to a "movies only" theatre.

In the meantime the Pastime theatre at 51st and Ashland had been acquired. The Atlas, a three hundred seat house at 51st and Wood streets, was leased in 1913, and in 1914 the Alpha, a house seating 290 persons, came into line. At the Alpha, four or five managers had failed to make it succeed, but when "Dad" Schoenstadt put in some "big stuff" it succeeded almost from the start.

The first big building venture of the Schoenstadt dynasty was the construction of the Boulevard theatre, at 55th and Ashland avenue. It was built in 1915 at a cost of $150,000 and seated 1,000 persons.

THEN, IN 1918 Schoenstadt built, at a cost of $300,000, what was, at the time, the most modern theatre in Chicago. It was a fireproof concrete building equipped with numerous fire exits, insuring the perfect safety of its patrons. At the opening Schoenstadt stated "It is the wish of the owners that mothers and fathers may feel secure in sending their children unescorted and know they will be well taken care of."

In the late 1920's the Schoenstadts built their most luxurious theatre, the Piccadily on Hyde Park Bouevard. The depression caused this huge undertaking to lose money at a rapid rate. But the Schoenstadts, depriving themselves of salaries, never missed a payment of note, interest, or principal.

Other Schoenstadt acquisitions came rapidly. The Brighton, at 42nd and Archer, in 1923; the Regent, at 69th and Halsted, in 1924; the Shakespeare, 1928; the Harper, 1928; the Hyde Park, 1929; the Palace (Cicero) 1931; and the Roxy in Berwyn, 1935.

And the Schoenstadt tradition will continue. Arthur Jr., a recent graduate of the University of Michigan, is now learning the ways and means of the theatre business.

SO GOES THE Schoenstadt clan from the little $2,000 Palace theatre with a capacity of 300 people to the luxurious, new 53 Outdoor theatre with one of America's largest outdoor screens, concession facilities for serving 1,000 people in a 15 minute intermission, and a multi-ride kiddy park.

The Palace theatre of 1908 could fit in the shadows of the 31 acre outdoor theatre which will accommodate up to 2,000 cars. That's show business . . . That's Schoenstadt.

WHIMSY, FANTASY, AND COMEDY are some of the ingredients to the Village Theatre production of "The Man in the Dog Suit." Coming back from orbit is Mr. Beal, played by George Garland. Watching appreciatively is Robert Hawley as the man in the dog suit. These two characters have much in common as next door neighbors and kindred spirits. Tickets to the play may be obtained by calling CLearbrook 5-3494 or CLearbrook 5-9000.

YMCA Dance Clubs Begin New Sessions

Further information concerning the three dance classes may be obtainyd be classes may be obtained by calling the 'Y' office, VA 4-4156.

MT. PROSPECT NEWCOMER, Robert E. Farris, 38 N. Albert (center), is learning that community theatre is a satisfying hobby. He plays an important role in "Anastasia," Des Plaines Theatre Guild drama concluding its four weekend run tomorrow and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., Rand Park, 2025 Miner st., Des Plaines. Tickets are available at TA 5-5210. Others pictured are Joseph McAuliffe (left) and Ed Sauer (right). Farris, who is employed by the Toni company, is also rehearsing one of the top roles in "The Third Best Sport" to be staged by the Guild next month.

"TO THE CANAL . . . ," shouts one of the characters for the May production of "Arsenic and Old Lace." An improvised setting was used at the Palatine Player's tryouts recently, and each actor was told the feeling the part should try to give an audience. The significance of the canal speech is that characters in the hilarious mystery are going to bury another body. The play will be given in Cutting hall, Palatine, on two successive weekends, May 6 and 7 and May 13 and 14. (Bil

If you are, chances are that you've had a high school diploma or some college training but you didn't acquire any special skills such as typing or running complex office machines. Nevertheless, I'm a pretty good gal and fussy about who I work with.

Better Pastures, Meadows Sought

Cook county farmers can still apply for assistance under the agricultural conservation program for establishing acreages in long term grasses and legumes. This should be particularly attractive to livestock and dairy producers, said Carl M. Bormet, chairman of the local ASC office.

Some of our 1960 program funds have been set aside for a few preferred practices, continued Bormet, and we would like to use this money in sharing the costs with farmers in establishing good alfalfa, brome and timothy. The long term production of this crop is considered to be sound conservation so the Government through the AC Program will share about 50 per cent of the establishment cost with the farmer.

IN RETURN for this assistance the farmer must keep the pasture or meadow crop on the land for at least four years following the year in which the seeding is accomplished. This, said Bormet, is less time than previously required and might now better fit the needs and plans of more farmers.

Too many of us too often overlook the value of producing good forage crops. Once an acreage is established in good grasses and legumes it will generally continue to produce many pounds of milk or meat without much additional cost. It's a comparatively sure crop that will provide surprising returns. At the same time the land is protected from erosion. This is in considerable contrast to the risks and costs involved in a heavy cropping operation.

All farmers should feel free to call at our office in Arlington Heights or Orland Park to discuss this matter. This is especially true of those who have areas on their farms that should best be in pasture or meadow crops, said Bormet. Remember, an official request must be placed on file before a practice is started.

Can Farmers Adjust To Supply, Demand?

by L. H. SIMERL

We are frequently told that farmers could get satisfactory incomes if they would only "adjust supply to demand."

This is an impressive statement. But what does it really mean? Is there real scientific backing for the idea that farmers can solve their income problems by adjusting supply to demand? OR is the idea a deceptive attraction, an economic will-o-the-wisp? Farmers, and other citizens too, have a right to know.

The words "supply" and "demand" are sometimes used with different meanings. In the usual sense, supply means the amount that is in existence at a given time and place. In economics, supply also refers to a rate of production over a stated period of time. In either sense, supply refers to a quantity made available on a market in response to a variety of conditions that includes the price of the commodity in question.

IN DEMAND, there is no "inventory" meaning comparable with the first supply concept. However, demand can refer to a rate of sales over a given period of time. In such case, demand refers to a quantity removed from a market in response to a variety of conditions that includes the price of the commodity in question.

Any supply can be sold (economists sometimes say "will be demanded") at some price. The higher the price, the less will be demanded, or sold. The lower the price, the more will be demanded. Supply and demand come into equilibrium and the market clears at some price.

Most of those who talk about adjusting supply to demand seem to believe that there is some specific rate of production that will insure profitable prices and satisfactory incomes to all, or most, producers. Many believe that only a small cut in output would force a big rise in prices and thus insure prosperity for producers. This belief is based on observations of the effects of small changes in supplies upon prices of some farm products from one year to another. But continuous low production is something else again!

SUBSTANTIAL amounts of all of our big money crops—wheat, cotton, tobacco, corn and soybeans (rice, too)—are exported. Altogether, exports of U.S. farm products amount to about four billion dollars a year. The crops from one acre in eight are sold in foreign countries or shipped as "aid." We also import about four billion dollars worth of farm products, half of which compete with our own production.

Even if we were able to force our own consumers to pay more for their food, cotton and tobacco, we cannot force foreign buyers to do so. They have many other sources of supply. Other countries already put five times as much competitive agricultural products into foreign trade as does the United States.

AS FARMERS we would like to sell more of the higher priced foods — like butter, beef, pork and milk—to consumers. But all of these foods have lower priced substitutes — margarine for butter, chicken for beef, eggs for pork, etc. If food prices rise materially, consumers will use more of the economy foods and leave the higher priced ones on the shelves. As they become more accustomed to using the less costly foods, their desire, their demand, for the higher priced ones will decrease and the prices will decline.

For these and other reasons it seems very doubtful that any large share of the income problems of farm families can be solved by restricting production to raise prices of farm products.

Science Outwitted By Cabbage Maggot

The tiny cabbage maggot is matching wits with entomologists, and so far he seems to be outfoxing them.

In some areas of Illinois and other states, c maggots now resist aldrin, chlordane, dieldrin and heptachlor—every insecticide entomologists have prescribed for their control.

This news comes from W. H. Luchmann, research entomologist with the Illinois Natural History survey. He warns that cabbage maggots may therefore have a merry time devouring roots of their favorite crops, namely, radishes, cabbages and turnips.

These crops are major ones in northeastern and southwestern Illinois. Last year in Cook county alone the pesky cabbage maggot destroyed about 50 per cent of the turnip crop.

DISCUSSING A brighter note, Luckmann reported that organic phosphates would probably stop the cabbage maggot for a while.

But Federal Food and Drug men have not approved organic phosphate-type materials for control of cabbage maggot. Why? They are not yet sure whether cabbages, turnips and radishes grown in soil treated with organic phosphates are safe to eat.

One organic phosphate, diazinon, may receive official approval before this summer. Therefore vegetable growers should be alert for such an announcement in newspapers or crop magazines.

MEANWHILE Luchmann suggested that cabbage growers screen hotbeds or greenhouses when they grow transplants. This would at least keep the cabbage maggot fly from infesting new roots allowing growers to transplant "clean" cabbages.

Luckmann pointed out that, if growers had cabbage maggot trouble last year, they can probably expect real trouble this year. The same is true for growers whose neighbors had trouble with resistant maggots in 1959.

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

Beginning March 24, your farm advisers will appear each Thursday for eight weeks, on the WLS Dinner Bell hour. Ray Watson, director of the program, was interested in helping us give Extension information, much of which will be of interest to urban as well as rural people. In order not to crowd our schedules too much, only one of us will appear each week. This will be an informal type of program based on questions and answers.

Jim Fizzell and I have been cooperating with WMBI-Moody Bible Institute station —1110 kilocycles—each Monday at 10:15 a.m. This is strictly a garden program, where the audience sends questions and we answer. Each week we offer to send our listening audience a circular if they will request it. Since January 1 we have supplied circulars to more than 2,000 listeners.

These two avenues will help us do a better job getting our Extension teachings to the listening public.

THE USE of the radio is not new in Extension work. Many of our advisers have been using it for years. Checking over some previous report forms advisers made in Cook county, I found a report of O. G. Barrett. He had a program on WLS in the early 1930's. It appears he prepared programs on Extension work using a Swedish dialect. I am sure many older members remember his programs.

If you are an average person do you know how many eggs you eat each year? According to the statistics you should eat 349 per year. How does this compare to the number you ate ten years ago? It is 9 per cent less. From 1947 to 1949 you ate 385 per year.

HOW HAVE hens been producing during this time? The number of eggs laid per hen in the U.S. has increased from 165 to 201 during the past ten years. In Illinois the increase has been from 166 to 200 per year.

In 1947-49 Illinois farmers owned 4.9 per cent of all the layers in the U.S. and produced 4.9 per cent of the eggs. By 1958 the number of layers in Illinois increased to 5 per cent and egg production had moved up to 5 per cent.

During the lenten season is a good time to eat eggs and use dairy products. Consider using more of both of these products in your menus. You will find they are both tasty and economical.

Busy Fingers Share In Community Project

At the 4-H meetings of the Busy Fingers 4-H club of Mt. Prospect the girls have sewing bandages for the Cancer society, the community project for two years. They also work in the office in Mt. Prospect where they stuff envelopes and help in any other ways that they can.

The girls had a dinner party and invited boys as guests. The whole meal was planned and prepared by the girls.

As a part of National 4-H Week, the girls set up a window display in one of the store windows. The theme was Learn, Live, and Serve through 4-H.

AT THE RECENT meetings a demonstration was given by Mary Ann Nawoj in which she showed how to mix and shape rolled sugar cookies. Cheryl Ann Maxwell gave a demonstration, making cinnamon rolls. A demonstration was given for the girls taking sewing projects by Mrs. Ryan, on the construction of a lined skirt. This is one of the projects the sewing girls are all working on together so they can learn the correct procedure and get the assistance they need. A talk was given by Barbara Witt, the president of the club, on how to make a winter flower arrangement.

At each of the meetings the leaders check on the progres of each girl in her 4-H projects and make sure that they are keeping accurate records of their work.

At the present, the girls are working on a good idea for Share-the-Fun, a 4-H activity in which each participating club presents a skit or musical number. (FM

'Plan Ahead' For Automatic Feed Operation

Planning ahead is the key to building an efficient automatic feed-handling operation.

That's why University of Illinois scientists made "Feed Automation: For Progress — For Profit" a major exhibit for the 1960 Farm and Home festival, March 31 and April 1 and 2.

Main purpose of the exhibit is to help farmers put together the mechanized feeding system best suited for their individual feeding requirements, explained Wendell Bowers, U. of I. agricultural engineer.

To meet this goal, scientists divided the exhibit into six major areas. The six areas show examples of commercially available storage bins, feed meters, blenders and grinders, conveyors, distributors and automatic controls — the basic components of an automatic feeding operation.

A complete automatic feeding system will be in operation in the center of the exhibit area to show how these parts are brought together into one unit.

Bowers said too many farmers rush into mechanized feeding without first studying how each piece of equipment will fit into their total feeding program.

Breaking an automatic system into six basic parts and showing numerous examples of each part should help farmers select the mechanized system best suited to their farming operation, he explained.

Suburb Housing Is Dilemma For Migrant Farm Workers

by ROBERT A. REICHER

Third in a Series

What about migrant housing? Any meeting, magazine article or book must always mention housing. Here in Cook county, many migrant families live in tool sheds, contractors' huts, and the like.

Four years ago, a migrant family lived in a machinery packing case, less than three miles from Palatine.

Less than a mile from Arlington Heights, another family lived in a chicken coop.

Such abuses are occasionally publicized, but honest attempts to produce good housing are never pictures.

One farmer put up his workers in an old home; another installed showers and washing facilities. The Cook County Truck Garden association requests its members to clean up housing. But there is no effective policing of migrant housing. A Mexican national coming in under the contract provisions of Public Law 78 has a strictly defined type of dwelling in which he will live. Admittedly, the law is overlooked in many cases, but at least there is a law on the books.

WHAT CAN be done about the situation? There are several long term proposals.

A bill in the last session of Congress intended long-term loans to farmers wishing to build suitable housing. The law failed, but it pointed up a frequently forgotten fact, that the housing is put up at the expense of the farmer. Many farmers fail to realize that good housing is good business, because better housing will attract better workers.

Another proposal suggests regulation by Cook County Health Department officials, who find no teeth in the laws now. Legislation is always a lengthy process.

However, there is another approach which is offered for consideration. Every farmer admits that his workers are entitled to some decent place to stay during the summer. If he doesn't he shouldn't be in business. Why couldn't the farmers through their associations in cooperation with health officials, interested citizens establish a minimum code of housing standards.

The housing standards would have to be real standards and not some phoney list established according to the poorest housing in the area. With these objective standards, housing could be approved with a display emblem.

I AM SURE that Paddock Publications would gladly give publicity to good housing standards. If suitable housing is not constructed, there will be more and more pressure for state or federal control of migrant housing. This migrant problem is attracting more and more attention. If the situation is not bettered on a local, practical, voluntary basis, there will be charge and counter-charge with the farmer accused of a lack of social consciousness.

This does not pertain to migrant housing, but it is intimately connected with it. There are many permanent Spanish-speaking residents in the area who have left agriculture and now work in industry. They continue living the year round in substandard housing. Because of falling farm prices and an economic pinch, or just a desire for extra money, many of these families are paying rent for these shacks.

Less than two years ago, one family lived in an abandoned bus, less than a mile from Des Plaines. There are still many places where a shed is rented for $30 to $40 a month.

Such practices violate the law, unless the worker actually works on the farm. The farmer's associations do not advocate this practice at all, and farmers who rent out these unsuitable places to live do an injustice to farmers who are trying to follow law and conscience. The Opportunity Council has long considered this problem, and failed to arouse more than public sympathy. The community should do some hard serious thinking about providing some kind of low cost housing for low income families.

Does this mean public housing? Perhaps it does, but the community has used the migrant who now is a permanent resident and working regularly. He cannot now afford housing suitable to his income and needs.

ANOTHER FACET of this problem involves the tenant farmer and the wondering farmer. The tenant, because the land is not his, and the wonderer, because he doesn't know if this year will be his last, fail to attempt any housing improvements because they do not know how long they will use a particular farm. In spite of this, I don't see that the obligation to provide suitable housing is lessened in any way at all.

By now, many farmers are stating that this writer should know about the improvements I made which were abused by the migrants. Floors ripped up, garbage cans not used. For every story such as this there are five stories of perfectly normal use of equipment and buildings provided. However, I certainly admit that some time of education program is involved, and the farmer does not bear the complete responsibility. The community also has the responsibility of assisting the migrant in his problem through education and just knowing the migrant as a person and as a family, rather than temporary economic necessity in the area.

With regard to housing then, the farmer and the suburban resident have some obligations and a real stake in the problem of providing suitable housing for the migrant worker. (A 13

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. How does one write a formal acceptance to a wedding invitation?

A. Address it to the parents of the girl in whose name the invitation was issued: "Mr. and Mrs. Henry V. Smith accept with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hobson's kind invitation to the wedding and reception of their daughter on such-and-such date."

Q. What tipping is necessary on an airplane?

A. No tipping of airplane personnel is permitted. When you debark, though, a sincere "thank you" to the stewardess is a very nice gesture on your part and shows good-breeding.

Q. If a young man is taking a girl out to dinner, is he supposed to ask her where she would like to eat?

A. Not usually. It is the man's privilege to decide beforehand where they are going.

Q. If someone begins a story or joke you have already heard, should you stop him?

A. Not if you are a member of a group, since this would be discourteous to the others. However, if you are the sole listener, it is quite all right to say you have already heard the story.

Q. While I was a dinner guest recently, I passed my plate for a second helping, leaving my knife and fork on the plate. I have been told that I should have retained my utensils. What do you say?

A. You did the correct thing.

Q. I have been invited to a wedding and reception, and the bride says I can bring a boy friend with me. Should he send a gift, or would it be proper for him to share the cost of mine?

A. He is not expected to do either of these.

Q. Just how does a girl properly refuse a date with a boy?

A. Above all, be polite about it. Simply say, "Thank you very much for asking me, but I won't be free that evening." Even if you are free, there's no need to make up an excuse. You can be very cordial, but vague.

Q. If a double-decker sandwich seems too big and unwieldy to handle with the fingers, isn't it all right to eat it with the knife and fork?

A. No; this type of sandwich must be picked up. Only on the "open-faced" type of sandwich do you use knife and fork.

Q. I am to be married for the first time, but my fiance is a widower. Under these circumstances, may I have a large, formal wedding?

A. Certainly; since it is your first marriage, you may plan it on any scale you wish.

The Mind Can Be Source of Evil

By LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

We are all careful with whom we associate because we know that we are judged by our companions. No honorable person would associate with a gang of thieves, for fear that he might be considered a thief, also.

But it is not necessary to associate with people who are evil to be in evil company. Mind itself is often a source of evil, and there is no limitation to the evil that the human mind can devise.

THE LESSER evils which may lead us into great ones are the hatreds, envies, selfishness, peevishness and sourness that we permit to live in our minds, but seldom display before others. These are the manifestations of a mind that dwells on self, becoming increasingly peevish and bitter with age, and sometimes leading to a vicious, hateful death, out of tune with God and man. These evil thoughts are our companions, just as real people can be; for people are not real flesh and blood to us. They are personalities. We feel and see and hear their bodies, but the real people are personalities whom you can not touch, see or hear. We can only know them by the body they live in, the things they have their bodies do and say, and the way our own personalities react to them.

Thoughts may be sinfully carnal, and as such are unwholesome companions. Men and women may come to think of other men and women in terms of lust, and create in their degenerative minds, day dreams of sexual experiences, They may create in their minds mental experiences in which they are thieves or robbers, see themselves robbing and stealing to get the things they want. They may even mentally enact the murder of a person they hate in every gory detail, and gloat over his imagined destruction.

AS CAREFULLY as your pick your physical companions, even more carefully, you should choose your mental companions, lest they lead you into evil. You may find it most difficult to choose what you think; for immoral, selfish thoughts have a way of hanging on. You may dispurse them one moment, and they will be back without your immediately realizing it. Prayer, studying the Bible, and other good books, and having good companions, can keep such thoughts away.

"And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually." (Genesis 6:5). (Bi
